

Khrushchev Uses Olive Branch to Fan French Ties

Better to Have 100 Friends Than 100 Rubles, He Tells Gathering

Paris —(U)— Nikita S. Khrushchev, campaigning for close French ties with the Soviet Union, said today "we have a proverb that it is better to have 100 friends than 100 rubles."

The Soviet premier held out the olive branch at a diplomatic press corps luncheon in this third day of his pre-summit visit to France.

Khrushchev said the May summit meeting should seek an end to the cold war. He declared disarmament is necessary to peaceful coexistence. He warned again that the Soviet Union may sign its own peace treaty with communist East Germany if an all-German treaty fails to materialize.

Berlin Problem

He touched with light scorn the Berlin problem. He told his listeners the Soviet Union is not alarmed at the 11,000-odd western troops garrisoned there, adding that perhaps a half million would be easier to wipe out.

He implied the real concern was that the Soviet Union considered the situation in the divided city a dangerous vestige of World War II, which should be removed.

Khrushchev paid brief homage to Nikolai Lenin this morning in a workers' section of Paris, drawing enthusiastic cheers from thousands jamming nearby streets. Then he had another long conference with President Charles de Gaulle.

The press corps luncheon was held in an ornate restaurant within a stone's throw of the new headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty organization—an alliance Khrushchev would like to see broken up.

Security Guards

NATO's own security guards—all French—patrolled the roof of the headquarters building to help protect the Soviet leader.

Khrushchev said he felt the aim of the summit conference which will seat him here May 16 with de Gaulle, President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will be to find a common language on international questions. He said the meeting could not settle all east-west problems.

"Years of cold war have too much obstructed the path leading to peace," he said.

Khrushchev denied he had come to separate France from

British Want Agreement on Modified Ban

Expect Macmillan To Urge Ike to Accept That View

Washington —(U)— British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is expected to urge President Eisenhower to agree to a modified version of Russia's proposal for banning nuclear weapons tests.

Macmillan, who will meet with Eisenhower next week, is understood to favor a time limit of about two years on the proposed moratorium on small underground tests.

Eisenhower administration leaders, in contrast to the British view, have so far decided only that the United States should not flatly reject the Soviet plan, it is understood.

A major difficulty facing the president in his forthcoming talks with Macmillan is that some of his chief advisers from the defense department and the atomic energy commission feel another series of underground nuclear weapons tests must be held some time in the relatively near future, perhaps late this fall.

Agreement on any moratorium would bar such tests.

Macmillan is due in Washington late Saturday for probably two days of talks with Eisenhower beginning Monday. They may be held here or at Camp David, the president's Catocin mountain retreat, or at his Gettysburg farm.

The best informed authorities here believe that Eisenhower and Macmillan may spend much of their time, together with their advisers, in trying to figure out some kind of reply to the Soviet proposal which would be acceptable to both the western powers and positive in dealing with the question of a prohibition on nuclear tests.

Hike Education, Health Budgets

House Committee Calls for 'War' Against Delinquency

Washington —(U)—The house appropriations committee today voted sharp increases in President Eisenhower's education and health budgets and called for an all-out war against juvenile delinquency.

In a $4,184,022,731 bill financing the labor department and the department of health, education and welfare, the committee said the administration's health proposals "represented a retrenchment, a step backward," and its education budget called for "an arbitrary cut."

It recommended $197,400,500 more than the president requested for the welfare department, earmarking most of the increase for sewage treatment programs, aid to schools, and health projects. The action, if sustained by congress, would give the department $3,619,044,531 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Cites Failure to Split U. S. and Nationalists

Taipei, Formosa —(U)—President Chiang Kai-shek declared today that communist efforts to undermine cooperation between the United States and Nationalist China "have completely failed."

"This cooperation is growing stronger day by day," he said.

Basic Change in State Tax Sharing Offered

Proposal Could Cut Portions To Urban, Industrial Areas; Sturgeon Bay Mayor: 'Nuts'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — A sweeping revision of state distribution of taxes which could deprive industrial areas of revenue has been suggested by the chairman of a subcommittee.

So far, the only comment to James Doyle's suggestion has been an angry "nuts" from Sturgeon Bay Mayor Stanley Greene, former head of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities. Doyle is chairman of the tax distribution subcommittee of the so-called blue ribbon citizens committee rewriting state tax policy for the legislature. Greene is the local government representative on the subcommittee.

Abandonment of present payment of income, utility and liquor taxes shares to areas where the revenues originate was suggested by Doyle. He offered a distribution system on the basis of local needs, perhaps based on equalized valuation or a similar device.

Cut Urban Share

The proposal could cut shares paid industrial areas—such as the Fox Cities—and benefit smaller cities and rural towns. The lesser populated areas get less at present because they produce less of the state's corporate and individual income.

Greene did not base his protest on the drop in industrial shares, but said Doyle and others backing a change in the distribution scheme must prove there is something seriously wrong with the system. Greene added that he is not convinced there is.

Inequities Now

Doyle maintained that there are inequities in the present system of income tax payments—50 per cent to local communities, 10 per cent to the counties and 40 per cent held by the state. The payments are made to local governing bodies and to school systems. Utility taxes are shared according to plant location. Income tax shares are returned to the municipalities which produce them.

A system giving primary emphasis to local taxing ability, adjusted to favor the larger communities because the size and density of population have a relation to boosting the cost of government, is favored by Doyle.

What Doyle and Greene are talking about is a tax collection of some $150 million annually. Also involved is the distribution of any new tax income recommended by the blue ribbon commission—sales tax, higher income taxes, or both.

Doyle's committee—stale-mated on the distribution issue—may herald difficulties for the parent committee.

Convicts Release Hostages; End Dramatic 25-Hour Siege

Tennessee Officials Agree to Meet Scaled-Down Demands

Nashville, Tenn. —(U)— Two mean, armed convicts who had threatened a mass murder of 19 hostages, walked quietly from a captured office at the Tennessee penitentiary yesterday, ending a dramatic 25-hour siege.

In a sudden and almost anticlimactic ending, Robert Rivera and Raymond Farra handed over their two pistols and four knives and surrendered after state officials agreed to their scale-down demands.

The hostages, three women and 16 men, were released unharmed.

Warden Lynn Bomar said the pistols might have come from a guard, not identified, who was fired last month for smuggling guns into the prison. He said the former guard was not prosecuted, but charges may be filed against him now.

Farra, 25, a native of Borderland, W. Va., is listed on prison records as insane and capable of murder. He is serving a life sentence for kidnapping. He was committed to the prison after escaping from a mental institution.

21 Hostages Rivera, 24, from Temple, Texas, was called by officials "one of the most dangerous prisoners ever to enter this penitentiary." He is serving 40 years for armed robbery.

The pair grabbed 21 hostages at the deputy warden's office shortly after 3 p.m. Wednesday as prisoners were being paid scrip for work done. They poked a gun in my face and I knew they meant it," said J. W. Trousdale, 57, one of the five prison guards they seized. "I don't think I ever spent a worse day."

One hostage, inmate Sam Broyles, was released during

Living Costs Bounce to Record Level

Washington —(U)— Living costs bounced back to a record level in February after declining for two straight months.

Reporting this today, government agencies said rising interest rates on home mortgages and increases in costs of health insurance contributed to the February rise.

The labor department's consumer price index rose two-tenths of one per cent from January to February to reach 125.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

This took the price level back to the record reached in November.

There was every indication, too, that living costs have started another upward trend.

The latest living cost reading is 14 per cent above the February, 1959 level.

South Hoping To Stall Bill

Revision of House Rights Legislation Would Halt Passage

Washington —(U)— Southern senators appeared today to be banking on revising one section of the house-passed civil rights bill and thus delaying its passage indefinitely.

This hope was pointed up by Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) as senators at the other end of the scale in the civil rights battle vowed to try to strengthen the house measure.

Indications were, however, that leaders of both parties looked to a majority of the senate to accept the 5-point bill passed by the house yesterday by a vote of 311-109.

A trimmed-down version of the Eisenhower administration's civil rights program, it provides in its key section for court-appointed referees to prevent discrimination against Negroes seeking to vote.

Name J. F. Friedrich To Vacant Seat on Board of Regents

Madison —(U)— Gov. Gaylord Nelson today named J. F. Friedrich of Milwaukee to succeed Wilbur N. Renk of Sun Prairie as a member of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents.

Renk's appointment expires May 1, 1960. He has served the board for nine years.

Friedrich is secretary-treasurer of the Milwaukee Federated Trades Council and has been a Wisconsin labor leader for 45 years.

See No Recession Before Next Year

Expect National Output to Reach $500 Billion Mark This Quarter

Washington —(U)— The next recession won't come before 1961 at the earliest, government economists predicted today.

Officials reported privately that national output in this quarter has reached the rate of about $500 billion a year, the largest gain in any quarter since 1950.

This was an advance estimate of the actual figure, but officials said the preliminary studies indicate the final report won't be far off the half-trillion dollar mark, one way or the other.

Steel Strike

This would represent an advance of roughly $184 billion since the last quarter of 1959, when the economy was still beset by the steel strike and its aftereffects. The gain, largest since the outbreak of the Korean war, was accomplished without price inflation and in the face of a February slowdown in steel and auto production.

Much of the first quarter gain was attributed to industry's race to replace inventories depleted during the 115-day steel shutdown which ended early in November. This inventory replacement took less time than was expected and a slower rate of accumulation is expected from now on.

Nevertheless, continued

America Makes $47 Million Loan To Arab Republic

Cairo —(U)— The United States is lending the United Arab Republic $47 million in funds and commodities. A U. S. embassy spokesman announced today.

Three agreements covering the loans will be signed tomorrow.

One agreement provides for a loan of nearly $20 million to finance electrification projects, roads, bridges, railroads, telephone facilities and other specific projects in President Gamel Abdel Nasser's development plan.

It is to be repaid in 30 years at 4 per cent interest.

Under another agreement the U.A.R. will get $15 million worth of tobacco, cottonseed or soybean oil, and corn, paying for it in Egyptian pounds.

The third agreement provides $124 million for additional economic development projects yet to be determined.

Suggest Smoking 'Lift' May Come From Chemical Deep Within Brain

New York —(U)— Smoking may give you a lift by triggering release of a perk-up chemical deep in the brain, a British scientist suggested today.

This chemical may, in part, be responsible for the "pleasure of smoking," said Dr. J. H. Burn of Oxford university.

Nicotine from tobacco smoke enters the blood stream and it could unlock stores of the chemical, called norepinephrine, Burn said.

Norepinephrine is a chemical cousin to the hormone adrenaline which makes your heart race when you're in danger.

Burn explained:

"It seems to me extremely likely that the pleasure of smoking is in part derived from the release of norepinephrine from its store in the brain by nicotine, the release giving an increased feeling of cheerfulness and a sense of relief from fatigue."

Norepinephrine also has other actions in the body when time made the blood vessels in a rabbit's ear constrict. Burn felt both actions were due to the liberation of norepinephrine by nicotine.

In the heart, this action could aggravate the condition in which heart rhythm is irregular, and it could produce a more rapid heart beat in sensitive persons, Burn said.

Truman Sees Need for Firm Leadership

Former President Harry S. Truman says it is inevitable that the world will begin paying less attention to the present U. S. administration and more to the future president in the next months.

But this means that the president must more than ever assert his firm leadership. Mr. Truman speaks of the grave problems confronting the West—the summit, the situation in Cuba, the Soviet policy of divide and conquer.

In his article on Page A-3 of today's Post-Crescent, he argues that these problems deserve firm action from the president.

Soviets Reject Central Agency Control Plan

Russians Propose Talks on Specific Arms Reduction

Geneva —(U)— The United States asked the communist bloc today to begin negotiations on details of a central agency to enforce a worldwide disarmament agreement. The Soviet Union rejected this approach.

American Ambassador Frederick M. Eaton told the 10-nation disarmament conference east and west agreed to the general idea of having a central enforcement body. He suggested the conference could begin the task of defining the organization and functions of such a body at its next meeting, Monday.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin maintained Eaton's proposal attacked the problem of disarmament the wrong way around. First, he said, let us discuss specific arms cuts and then get into control details.

Resist Approach

French disarmament expert Jules Moch told Zorin the western powers would resist the Soviet approach. In this conference as in others in the past, Moch said, there seemed to be an effort on the Soviet side to whittle down the principle of controls.

"We will not be led down lanes where disarmament is dissociated from controls," he added.

Speaking in support of Eaton's position, Canadian Gen. E. L. N. Burns drew on his own personal experiences as former head of the United Nations emergency force in the Middle East to underline the complexity of the control problem.

Believe Children Have Discs of Cyanide Poison

New York —(U)— Residents of Staten Island were warned last night that 72 discs of deadly cyanide poison—used for fumigating ships—may be in the hands of children unaware of their peril.

A crate containing the poison discs apparently washed up on a beach in the Rosebank section of the island borough. Children playing in the area found the crate and broke into it. They ran away at the approach of a passerby, Otto Kramer.

Kramer found 42 six-ounce cans of the discs and called police. A maritime inspector said such crates usually contain 43 cans and that six cans with 12 discs apiece may have been taken by the children.

Call UN Session on Conflict in Africa

Asian-African Bloc Asks for Special Security Council Meeting Over Racial Dispute

United Nations, N. Y., — The U. N. security council will be called into a special session early next week to discuss the explosive South African racial conflict.

The Asian-African bloc called for the meeting. They planned to present a formal request later today for the council to take up the situation arising from the killing of some 80 Negro demonstrators by South African police. The Asian-African letter reportedly said the South African situation was a potential threat to international peace.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, security council president for March, told newsmen he would convene the 11-nation group "within a few days" — probably on Tuesday. He said the killings in South Africa this week were "very distressing."

John Lardner, Author, Dies

Noted Columnist Followed in Father's Footsteps

New York — John Lardner, 47, noted columnist and author and son of the late Ring Lardner, died Thursday night at his Manhattan home.

Death was attributed to heart failure. He had been hospitalized recently because of a heart attack.

John was one of four sons of Ring Lardner, all of whom followed their famous father's footsteps in becoming newsmen, sportswriters, columnists or authors.

John, early in his career, was a newspaperman and sports writer. He had been writing a weekly sports column for Newsweek magazine since 1939.

TV, Radio Column
About a year and a half ago he began writing a column on television and radio for the New Yorker magazine. For a time, he also served as the New Yorker's drama critic.

Among John's books were "It Beats Working," "White Hopes and Other Tigers," and "Strong Cigars and Lovely Women."

John's urbanity and wit in his writings were reminiscent of the prose style of his father, Chicago newspaperman who went on to literary fame. Ring Lardner died in 1933.

Among survivors are his widow, Hazel, two daughters and a son.

A private funeral service will be held at the Frank E. Campbell Funeral church. The time of the funeral was not immediately announced.

Stratton Says Republicans Have Produced Peace

Kenosha — Gov. Stratton of Illinois declared Thursday night that the Republican party has produced peace, prosperity and progress "unrivaled in any similar period of our nation."

Stratton, addressing a GOP dinner, denied that the Republican party is pro-big business, anti-union and "the party of special interests."

Since 1933, the governor said, "progress in America has been the greatest in history on all economic levels and in all fields."

Stratton said that democrats are fighting among themselves.

"By tradition and habit the Democratic party is a loose coalition of office-seekers, too divided to rule the nation, too historically weak on the job of maintaining peace to electing them into the white house in these troublesome times," he said.

Stratton, who has been campaigning for renomination, said he has found a "marvelous attitude of confidence among Republican leaders and rank and file membership."

"It is a burgeoning assurance of victory this fall," he declared.

Man Found Guilty Of Abducting Girl

Proctor ordered Riddle held in the Dane county jail pending a presentence investigation. Riddle was given a 60-day examination at Central State hospital and found to be sane.

The girl said she was babysitting with younger brothers and sisters when forced to leave the house and enter Riddle's car. Police found her in the car with Riddle.

Two Boys, 8, Damage School Extensively

Intended to Wreck Whole Building, Omaha Youngsters Say After Spree

Omaha — "We intended to wreck the whole building." That's what two 8-year-olds told police when the cops charged into Lothrop school annex Thursday night.

The boys were pretty well along when the police collared them. They might have succeeded if a custodian in the main building, almost a block away, hadn't been sharp of hearing.

It was the sound of crashing glass that sent the custodian running to a telephone to call Principal Eugene Skinner who in turn called police.

Doctor Calls for More First Aid Training in U. S.

Philadelphia — Would you know how to take care of yourself in the event of an atomic war?

Most persons wouldn't say so, Dr. Joseph R. Shaeffer, director of medical education at Santa Rosa hospital, San Antonio, Texas, and former chief of the army's atomic casualty studies department.

"If one is to survive an atomic casualty studies department," Shaeffer said, "one must be able to evade or capable of adequately caring for his own wounds," adds Shaeffer.

Shaeffer Thursday addressed the closing session of the 12th annual scientific assembly of the American Academy of General Practice attended by more than 7,000 persons.

Later in an interview he said if we were hit by an atomic bomb today we likely would lose 75 per cent of our doctors because most of them are concentrated in the big cities.

"Civil Defense today is without meaning," Shaeffer declared. "We need training in first aid. Do you know that in Russia today every person must take 22 hours of formal training in first aid every year?"

What is the solution? "It lies at the community level," says Shaeffer. "Doctors should come forward as willing to teach and train individuals how to basically take care of themselves."

2 Wisconsin Marines Killed in Auto Crash

Camp Pendleton, Calif. — Two Wisconsin marines were killed in a traffic accident near here Wednesday night.

They were identified as PFC Boyden Johnson, 26, whose father, Frank lives in Milwaukee, and PFC Dennis M. Conway, 20, the son of James P. Conway, La Crosse.

A third marine killed in the crash was Cpl. William McConnell, 22, of Libby, Mont. He was driver of the car which ran into a ditch.

Okinawa Officials Refuse to Approve More Animal Fights

Naha, Okinawa — The local government cracked down today on an Okinawan animal trainer whose fight between a lion and five dogs drew protests from Japan and the United States.

The trainer, Choryo Yonaha, had planned to pit his lioness against a bull next month.

Yonaha put five dogs in a cage with his lion last weekend. As 400 paying spectators watched, the lion ate three of the dogs and mangled the other two so badly they had to be killed.

The social affairs director James P. Conway, La Crosse, said nothing about banning other animal fights frequently staged on Okinawa. The most common are cockfights and duels between poisonous snakes and mongooses.

Testimony in Trial Conflicts

Statement Places Blame for 4 Deaths On One Ex-Convict

Garden City, Kan. — Conflicting testimony about who killed four members of the Herbert W. Clutter family has been placed before the jury in the trial of two ex-convicts.

A signed statement of Richard Eugene Hickock, 28, was admitted as evidence over defense objections Thursday. It placed all the blame on Hickock's partner, Perry Edward Smith, 31.

Smith told officers he killed Clutter and the wealthy farmer's son, Kenyon, while Hickock fired shotgun blasts into the heads of Mrs. Clutter and a daughter, Nancy, testified Al Dewey, Kansas bureau of investigation agent.

Dewey said Smith later wanted to change his statement and take the blame for all four slayings.

The agent quoted Smith as saying, "Since I'm going to swing, I might as well take the blame for all of it."

The state is demanding the death penalty for both Hickock and Smith, who were on parole from the Kansas prison when the Clutters were slain last Nov. 15.

A former cellmate has testified that plans for a robbery on the Clutter home near here were made by Hickock while in prison.

Hickock and Smith believed Clutter had a safe and a lot of money in his home. Both have said the family was killed to eliminate witnesses. The robbery failed to produce much loot.

Proctor ordered Riddle held in the Dane county jail pending a presentence investigation. Riddle was given a 60-day examination at Central State hospital and found to be sane.

The girl said she was babysitting with younger brothers and sisters when forced to leave the house and enter Riddle's car. Police found her in the car with Riddle.

Relations at Critical Point, Castro Regime Willing to Negotiate

Cuban Foreign Minister Says U. S. Must Recognize Sovereignty

Havana — Foreign Minister Raul Roa said Thursday night that U. S.-Cuban relations have reached a critical point but that the Castro regime is still willing to negotiate for an end to differences between the two governments.

Roa, in a television address, repeated a previous statement that negotiations with the United States would have to be based on mutual respect and U. S. recognition of Cuba's sovereignty.

However, he did not repeat Cuba's previous demand that, before negotiations, the United States must guarantee to take no action harmful to the Cuban economy. The United States rejected that condition, which obviously was intended to forestall any cut in U. S. purchases of Cuban sugar at premium prices.

Willing to Talk
Whether Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government has abandoned this requirement for negotiations was not clear. Roa said his government is willing to discuss all aspects of the problems between the two countries "without reservations of any kind."

He denied reports published in the United States that Cuba had shown no serious desire to negotiate since the return to Havana of U. S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal last Sunday. Roa said he and Bonsal discussed Cuban-American relations at their one meeting since the envoy returned, and that he promised Bonsal to pass on to his superiors the U. S. government's desire to renew talks on pending matters.

The minister blamed U. S. officials and newspapers for the state of Cuban-American relations. He read a string of anti-Cuban remarks by U. S. congressmen and other public figures and specifically denied charges by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Allen W. Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, that there is communist influence in Cuba.

Asserting that the Cuban revolution is a nationalist revolution, not a communist revolution, Roa said:

"They speak of communism 90 miles from the United States. What there is 90 miles from Cuba is racial discrimination."

Expert on Bridge Succumbs in Egypt
Cairo, Egypt — Mrs. Dorothy Rice Sims, 70, U. S. bridge expert who used the "psychic" bid, died Thursday in her hotel room here. The U. S. embassy said death came after a heart attack.

Mrs. Sims, a daughter of Isaac L. Rice who founded the Electric Boat company, arrived here about Feb. 1 for a visit. Her home was in New York City. She was the widow of P. Hal Sims, a contract bridge expert. In the 1930s they played as a team, using their "psychic" bid system which involves throwing an opponent off the track by bidding suits they lacked.

Appleton Girl Gets Book as Reward

A young Appleton girl this week found a library book while exploring the attic of her home and returned it to the Appleton library children's department. The book, one of the "Mother West Wind" tales by Thornton W. Burgess, was stamped with a due date of Nov. 18, 1930, and had accumulated a fine of about $140. Miss Alice Dresser, children's librarian, gave the book to the girl because it would have cost more to recatalog it than the book was worth. The volume originally cost 55 cents.

ed at preserving the possibility of party unity after the primary. I determined to do what I could to prevent the campaign from becoming so bitter and destructive that it would be impossible to repair the damage," he commented.

Nelson also called "inexcusable and disgraceful," a recent speech by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., stumping Wisconsin for his friend Kennedy, that alluded to "ugly rumors" about the source of Humphrey's campaign funds.

The governor also confirmed, in a more jovial tone, that he and Mrs. Nelson expect to become parents for the third time in the fall, and expressed some reservations about the efficacy of the presidential primary system.

The Wisconsin primary, as an example, is probably not a real test of the availability of candidates because not all of the actual candidates enter the contest here, he conceded.

Endless Races

But a national primary system would also be clumsy mechanically and would probably lead to such inconclusive results as to force endless run-offs to evolve a candidate with a majority backing, he added.

Nelson made no comment when he was asked about a recent prediction of Sen. William Proxmire that the Wisconsin primary law adopted in 1953 may be junked by the 1961 legislature because of its inadequacies.

Nelson said he was puzzled by the lack of any apparent public interest in the April 5 referendum on the amendment to the state constitution to permit state financial aid for local navigation facilities, including Great Lakes ports, but said he intended to vote for the constitutional change.

An Official Visit by Col. Benjamin A. Karsokas, left assistant to the commandant from the Maxwell Air Force base headquarters of the air force ROTC program, was paid to Lawrence college's Detachment 934 this week. President Douglas M. Referee's Lot Is Hard, Nelson Finds

Governor Caught in Middle As Kennedy, Humphrey Battle

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The lot of the referee in political contests is a hard one, Gov. Gaylord Nelson has learned.

The Democratic party leader told reporters Thursday that both sides in the Kennedy-Humphrey Democratic presidential delegate battle are showing resentment about his activities as the self-appointed censor of their campaign techniques.

But he intends to continue the role, he said, in order to avoid permanent damage to the Democratic party organization of the state — which he hopes to represent again in the fall campaign as a nominee for a second term in the governorship.

Not Accurate

Nelson was also annoyed, he said, because some of the mass media have not accurately portrayed his referee decisions, including his recent statement reproving Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Nelson said he had not intended to challenge Humphrey's right to read the record of his opponent, Sen. John Kennedy, but merely to protest the statements attributed to Humphrey that accused Kennedy of agreeing with Vice President Nixon on some questions. That raised a "disagreeable image," said the governor.

He handed out a formal statement saying that Humphrey is his friend, that he admires him, and that he was sorry that his earlier remarks had been construed as personal criticism. But he wants the presidential candidates to carry out their disputes and their recital of the record without indulging in personal attacks, he continued firmly.

"My efforts have been aimed campaign is waged the meetings of the president with the rival candidates will let the world know that we stand united on the basic foreign issues even while we are changing the chief executive. For the foremost issue of our time is the preservation of peace and freedom.

It seems to me we ought to be less concerned about trying to second guess what is in the minds of the Russian leaders or what their intentions may be.

It is more important that we give them no room for doubt as to what is exactly in our minds particularly with respect to the maintenance of our position in Berlin.

It is up to the president to make our position clear. We must not give the communists any basis for assuming that because we are always ready to negotiate we will accept settlements on their terms.

—including orderly land reform.

Castro is proving himself the captive of forces that are damaging to the future of Cuba and her people. His inexperience and naivete about the nature and methods of communist intrigue has already been clearly demonstrated. Cuba has already had more than her share of troubles from within and from without, and I fear she is again due for even more serious trouble. The Cuban people are deserving of a better fate than that.

Still in Charge

In their struggle to improve their lot they may be certain of the fullest sympathy of the American people. And they can count on American concern for the maintenance of their independence from international communist ambitions and subversion. Let us not forget that this nation once responded to a situation confronting Turkey and Greece when they were threatened with subversion and invasion by the communists.

But the gravest mistake we can make is to pattern our action on what the Russians do. As we enter the twilight zone of a presidential year there is urgent need that the Allies have no misgivings about our leadership so that they do not undertake unilateral action as a reaction to Russia's ceaseless proddings.

The basic foreign policy of the United States is a continuing force and should not be subjected to narrow partisan political debate. The president, during the remainder of his term, is no less the leader and spokesman for our policy. And when he exercises that leadership with boldness and decisiveness he will have the support of all Americans. The president will be in charge until Jan. 21, 1961, as he ought to be.

Confer With Nominees

To prevent any misunderstanding on the part of anybody or the lapse in the continuity of our foreign affairs I would suggest to the president that when the conventions have chosen their respective candidates that they be invited to the White House to confer with him. And I think these conferences ought to be regularly scheduled so that these men can be completely informed and these conferences should be kept up to date until the voters in November decide on the new president.

And even as the political

President Urged To Assert Strong U. S. Leadership

PRTSIDENT URGED 2-36 — FRIDAY — Eisenhower still BY HARRY S. TRUMAN

In less than four months the Democratic and Republican conventions will nominate their candidates for president, one of whom will be the next president of the United States.

We may as well accept the fact that the world from now on will tend to look more in the direction of the eventual successor and less to the outgoing leadership in the White House. In the minds of statesmen everywhere, as a matter of international realism, the question is certain to be raised: what can the president of the United States do in the final months of his term?

This places the country and the free world in an anomalous position and makes it more than ever necessary that the voice of the president be clear, resolute and unmistakable in expressing the fundamental foreign policy of the United States.

Whenever the president expresses the true position of this country as a leader of the free world, he can count on the support of all us.

Need Unity

Personal popularity of a president, especially when he is on foreign soil, is something all of our people are to see. But it is no substitute for action.

We cannot help but be disturbed when we see the communist world speaking in one voice through one dominant leader, seeking to take advantage of some of the discords among the allied leaders. This is where the role of the president is especially important as a unifying leader of the free world.

I do not think there is much doubt about the purpose of Khrushchev's visit to Paris. It certainly is not intended as a test of personal popularity but is conceived mainly for the more determined business of seeking to divide the allies. Anything that serves to weaken the allied position, serves the communists, and Khrushchev would like nothing better than to widen the wedge between France and the allies over NATO. Ever since NATO was set up the communists have been trying to break it. If he succeeds, Khrushchev could destroy an effective deterrent against communist designs in Western Europe. I hope there is no justification for some of the uneasiness in the West over President deGaulle with respect to NATO, and I would remind all the allies that they have provided too many opportunities for Khrushchev to exploit their differences.

No Time to Hesitate

In the state of the world today this is no time for the president of the United States to falter, or to hesitate. He must leave no room for doubt as to what our position is on all the critical issues affecting the peace of the world. He must be especially vigilant not to let it appear that he is marking time until the next president takes over, thus leaving the communists with the impression that we are drifting and might be open to compromise on such issues as West Berlin or that we might yield to the unremitting pressure of the communists on any of the other vital issues that divide us.

With the approach of the summit meeting, Khrush-

ch ev recently suggested that no one "rock the boat."

He is again appearing in a role of sweetness and light, after in fact rocking the boat considerably during his tour of Indonesia, with renewed threats about Berlin.

The fact is, that since Khrushchev's visit to the United States, and his invoking the so-called spirit of Camp David nothing practical has been achieved toward resolving the differences between the West and the East.

Everything that Khrushchev has done recently has been to make it appear that Russia is the saint and the United States the villain.

Talks Grandiosely

Khrushchev talks grandiosely about total disarmament and the removal of foreign military bases. We would be the first to welcome such a possibility if we did not know from experience that, if for instance, American and British soldiers were withdrawn from the continent, Russia would walk in.

Surely the many divisions Russia maintains in Europe behind her proper borders are not there for the purpose of keeping the allies from venturing in her direction. The divisions of the Soviet Union are there for the sole purpose of subjugating independent peoples and intimidating the rest of Europe.

What Russia says and what Russia does are two different things. She will keep on forcing her way — diplomatically, politically, economically and militarily — on the rest of the world as long as she thinks that she has a chance to succeed, or if we are ever careless enough to provide her with a chance or an excuse to succeed.

Castro Is Captive

The visit of Mikoyan to Cuba was a brazen attempt of the communists to establish an outpost right off our shores. This does not square with Mikoyan's previous appeals to this country for friendship and trade, when he visited the United States.

Along with most Americans I had great hopes that the revolution of Fidel Castro would result in benefiting the people of Cuba. There was obvious exploitation of the people in Cuba by the previous dictatorship and outside interests. No one will dispute the need for many reforms that have been long overdue in Cuba.

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

WISCONSIN'S VITAL NEWSPAPER

Latest Disarmament Plan

Sometimes it begins to appear as if the Western powers really are beginning to recognize the value of propaganda in this cold war era where there is so much emphasis upon enticing neutral peoples to our side. Before the new disarmament conference even began in Geneva last week the West presented another plan to Russia.

The plan is pretty sound from almost every direction except one — it can't possibly be accepted by the Communist nations. There are three major steps outlined but they depend upon control and inspection, something which is always sloughed over as irrelevant by Premier Khrushchev. The trouble with the newest Western plan is that it might lead to real disarmament and whatever would Communist dictators do then?

Included in the first step are the setting up of an International Disarmament Organization, the notification by all member nations of proposed space vehicle launches, agreements as to the type and quantities of conventional armaments to be placed in storage depots under international supervision, and the cutting of the armed forces of all countries, but particularly the United States and Russia.

The second stage would involve putting into effect agreements on nuclear devices, the banning of weapons in outer space and ways of guarding against surprise attack. The third step would be the progressive, organized reduction of both man-power and fire-power to internal security levels and eradication of missiles. The International Disarmament Organization would be in charge along with an international police force under the auspices of the United Nations.

Obviously these gradual steps are a long way from either of Khrushchev's most recent plans, one for complete disarmament within four years without bothering about inspection, and his alternate suggestion, simply that military forces be cut and foreign bases be outlawed. United States officials have emphasized that the new plan is "flexible" and that the Russians don't have to accept it as a package deal. But it is difficult to see how the Russians can accept it at all unless they leave out or "negotiate" the ideas of inspection and control.

Nevertheless the plan is a plus for the West. In a world increasingly frightened by the possibility of total war and total destruction, hope continues to spring eternal and it is a lucky thing for mankind that it is so indestructible. As long as sincere men are willing to work for disarmament, and not be fooled by leaping into something that would be only frosting, there is the possibility of an answer being found some day.

What the Census Will Show

People who are wondering what the 1960 national census will show can get a pretty good idea from a report on population changes by states during the first nine years of this decade prepared by the National Industrial Conference Board. The population of the United States increased 17 per cent during the period from April, 1950, through July, 1959, this report says. Wisconsin gained 575,000 or 16.7 per cent during the period and was just below the national average.

Nevada gained only 120,000 people but that was sufficient to give it a record of 74.9 per cent which was the highest among the states. California gained 4,053,000 persons and with its percentage gain of 38.3 per cent was one of seven states making a gain of greater than 30 per cent. Alaska, with 62,000 persons, made a gain of 48.2 per cent while Hawaii, with a gain of 106,000 people, picked up 31.2 per cent. Thus the two newest states were among the seven with the largest percentage gain in population. Florida, with a gain of 1,990,000 persons, had a percentage gain of 71.8 per cent and was second highest in that category: The other states with gains above 30 per cent were Arizona with 64.5 per cent and Delaware with 42.7 per cent.

New York climbed from 14,830,000 in 1950 to 16,495,000 in 1959 and remained the most populous state of the union. New York added 1,665,000 persons giving it a percentage gain of 11.2 per cent. It ranked only thirty-first among the states in population gain although it actually gained more people than Alaska, Hawaii, Delaware, Arizona and Nevada combined. Those five states were among the seven making more than 30 per cent gains. California, Florida, Texas, Ohio, New York, Michigan, Illinois and New Jersey each added more than a million residents. Mississippi had the smallest percentage gain, three-tenths of one per cent. Vermont lost 1.4 per cent, Virginia lost 2 per cent and Arkansas lost 8.7 per cent.

Since these figures are not based on an actual count they must be considered merely estimates. But since they cover the first nine years of this decade they should give a pretty good idea of what the actual count will show when completed this year.

Social Disease on Increase

A study made by several health organizations in all 50 states, and particularly some 90 large cities, has shown that the incidence of venereal disease once again is on the increase. Most alarming is the growth of infectious syphilis among teenagers.

All statistics have their limitations and this may be especially true in this field since authorities suspect that many cases go unreported. Wide discrepancies have been found, for instance, between reports of physicians and laboratories in some states. The percentages of increase also may be due in part to drives for public investigation in some areas as health officials become concerned.

Nevertheless the figures are alarming. In almost every area the number of youngsters with the disease has increased even among those in the 10 to 14-year bracket. New York City, where 20 per cent of all reported syphilis cases are found, had a jump among teenagers in 1959 of 78 per cent!

Obviously the cause of increase is increased illicit sexual activity among youngsters. This may be due to relaxed moral standards, lack of home discipline, earlier dating and "going steady," and the crowded conditions in some cities with the influx of families with marginal incomes and unstable backgrounds. But in part it also may be due to the widespread belief that venereal disease is no longer a plague to be feared, but something that can be cleared up practically overnight with a wonder drug and not any more dangerous than the common cold. In the sincere and generally beneficent efforts to encourage treatment of venereal disease, authorities made a great deal about innocent contamination as well as the possibilities of cure. Syphilis lost, to some extent, both its moral stigma and aura of danger.

It would seem that the frightful effects of venereal disease, like those of narcotic addiction, are something that could be emphasized even more in our schools without arousing those who quite rightly feel that sex education belongs at home. The evils of casual sexual relations are certainly as much a matter of community social concern as are the results of poor eating, sleeping and exercising habits.

Venereal disease, like narcotics, is not secret from those of high school age in this decade. It is of public importance that youngsters get the facts.

Europe Speeds Unity in New Tariff Proposals

From The New York Times

The prospects of European unification brightened, and the threat of a trade war between the two European economic blocs began to recede, when the administrative commission of the European Economic Community agreed on a proposal that would speed up the formation of its common market and at the same time reduce discriminations against others. The proposal must still be approved by the community's council of ministers and consultative assembly, the embryonic, pre-federal executive and legislature of a future United States of Europe, but no difficulties are anticipated in obtaining that endorsement.

Under this proposal the six nations comprising the community would cut the tariff rates between them by 20 per cent this July 1, instead of the previously planned 10 per cent. At the same time, instead of postponing the construction of their common tariff toward the outside world to Jan. 1, 1962, they would begin to build it also on July 1 by lowering the rates of their big high-tariff members, France and Italy, by 20 per cent and raising them by the same proportion for their smaller low-tariff members, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, and to some extent also West Germany.

This speed-up is a demonstration of the growing strength of the community, whose members are prospering under its arrangements. Barring an unexpected effect of the increase in some German rates, the new tariff proposals, added to previous concessions on rates and quotas, also bear out the community's promises of liberal trade policies and should help to dispel the fear that it will turn into a high-tariff club. It has been this fear that aroused misgivings about the community and led to the formation of the European Free Trade association, led by Britain, to meet and if necessary combat such a development. The new proposal should help to bridge the differences between them.

Lack of Defense May Mean Lack of U. S. Future

From The Greenwood (S.C.) Index-Journal

The defense department wants to construct an air defense combat center at Kenesaw Mountain National battlefield near Atlanta. But the interior department turned down the request, saying that interior has the responsibility "to preserve areas set aside under the national park system for the enjoyment of future generations."

The Augusta Chronicle comments that if we do not have national defense, we may not have future generations. That is like the old gag, of "Your money or your life." "Take my life, I want my money for my old age."

Former Menasha Mayor Feels His Administration a Good One

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The article that appeared in the People's Forum in the March 15, issue of your paper and signed a Menasha Booster certainly calls for a reply with a true statement of facts.

Attention is called to former Mayor Scanlon's administration regarding several projects, also the accomplishments of the present administration of the last four years.

The information that is being sought is with reference to "that pile of dirt and rubbish that laid in Jefferson Park." The Racine street bridge, that was built, the largest industrial concern moving to Neenah, the annexing of Maplewood district for school purposes "at the expense of Menasha taxpayers." Let's take them item for item.

1. Why was the dirt left stored in Jefferson Park? Because litigation in federal court with the contractor and the bonding company that the City of Menasha had brought suit against for not completing the work. The courts ruled in favor of the city and the work completed immediately by the previous administration.

2. The Racine street bridge called a monstrosity that cross the government canal and the Fox river was designed by the Engineers of the State Highway Commission to meet the requirements of the state and federal governments and the war department who have control of navigable waters. Their share of the cost amounted to over $550,000.

3. Did our largest industrial plant move to Neenah? Absolutely not. For a period of years they continued to build and expand to the limit of their industrial sites within the city proper. Their last expansion program called for at least a 200 acre site. Where in our community was a 200 acre site available?

4. Yes, the Maplewood district was annexed to the City of Menasha for school purposes. Public hearings were held as required by law. The 1953 legislature passed the law requiring the annexation not the mayor and common council regarding consolidation of school districts.

5. Regarding the accomplishments of the present administration; the swimming pool, the Memorial building, the school building program and the much needed annexation of over 300 lots.

The referendum for the swimming pool was held in 1953 under the previous administration. The people made the decision. The site was purchased and paid for. The two sites for the Clovis and George Banta schools were provided for. The previous administration provided the necessary legislation denying extension of sewer and water mains beyond the corporate limits unless annexed to the city.

6. The Memorial building that was built for the Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines by private funds had been used by various patriotic organizations up to two years ago. This privilege no longer exists, as kitchen facilities have been abolished.

Yes, good government earns its reward by providing for the future with reserve funds for capital improvements, future building sites, parks, etc., such as the present administration so richly inherited and failed to protect as guardians of public trust.

British Army Acts Silly as College Boys

From The New York Daily News

"Getting Gertie's Garter" was the name of an oldtime farce comedy which used to roll 'em in the aisles. We're reminded of it by what has come over the British army in recent months.

That majestic organization has taken to testing the initiative of soldiers by assigning them to such things as going on panty raids, snatching chorus girls' garters, wriggling into nudist camps, and the like. Questions are being raised in parliament — as well they may be.

The question that raises itself in our minds is: What kind of ally of ours is Britain nowadays, with its army thus exhibiting the silliness of a U. S. college fraternity?

Good Word for Hub, Spoke Factory

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of March 24, 1860.

J. M. Stubbins' Hub and Spoke factory, with its excellent machinery and skillful workmen, is one of the institutions of Appleton of which we may well be proud.

Better work is not manufactured in our State. This is conceded by all who have taken the trouble to ascertain the fact. A large extent of the country is already supplied with hubs, spokes and felloes from this establishment, and its popularity and reputation is becoming both widespread and well established.

Friday, March 22, 1935

The administration-opposed Patman bill for paying off the soldiers' bonus by issuing $2,000,000,000 of new money was passed by the house and sent to the senate. The vote was 318 to 90; more than the two-thirds required to pass the measure over a presidential veto.

The senate voted to permit taverns to sell liquor by the bottle as well as by the drink with the consent of local governing bodies. Under the present law the taverns were allowed to sell by the drink only.

Erik L. Madisen was elected president of the citizens' advisory board of the Salvation Army and the dates for the annual Salvation Army appeal were set.

Sixteen State Senate Seats Up for Election

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Half a dozen Republican state senators, central figures in the stalwart Republican opposition to the Democratic administration's program, will be in the spotlight of the political struggle in Wisconsin this year.

Wyngaard

While the center of attention is temporarily on the presidential delegate primary and will a little later focus on the Republican selection of a gubernatorial candidate, in both major party headquarters today the long-range strategists are laying plans for a special effort in legislative elections in general — and on the state senators up for reelection this year in particular.

Democrats have been frustrated in many of their major objectives through the circumstance that the GOP retained its hold on the upper house in spite of state election victories of 1958.

Republicans conversely know equally well that the heart of their remaining power and the nucleus of their hopes for a comeback to statehouse control lie in the 20 Republicans in the upper chamber of the legislature.

16 SEATS

There will be 16 state senate seats up for grabs this year. Through an accident of politics only a couple of them are held by Democrats, and they appear reasonably safe for the incumbents.

As the GOP pulse-takers see it, with the advantage of an analysis of the 1958 elections in their districts, these are the senators whose terms are expiring who may have difficulty this year and may need special help:

Robert P. Knowles of New Richmond, Harold Hui-bregste of Sheboygan, William F. Trinke of Lake Geneva, W. W. Clark of Wood county and Raymond C. Bice of LaCrosse.

If the Democratic strength in the state remains at the 1958 level or near it there may be several other doubtful seats, in this analysis. In the others, prospects are fairly cheerful.

The GOP headquarters has an advantage in laying its plans for special care in legislative elections because the Democrats have been telegraphing their punches for so long. GOP Chairman Patrick J. Lucey often has said that his key objective this year will be to take the marginal senate seats. Accordingly, the Republicans are prepared as they never have been prepared before.

In a couple of districts, however, the Republican problem is made more difficult because of the uncertainty of the plans of the incumbents, such as Knowles and Clark. Knowles may not run, for personal reasons. Clark is nearly 75 years of age and doesn't appear eager for another campaign. They are among the most useful and dependable of the Republican senate majority.

THE ASSEMBLY

Who controls the legislature in 1961, of course, depends also upon the political composition of the new assembly.

But politicians know that the assembly tends to shift more directly with the general election voting. If Gov. Nelson is reelected on his record, the chances are that the assembly Democratic majority, or one similar to it, will be returned. If he loses it is virtually certain that the Republicans will win the assembly with the governorship.

Senatorial elections do not necessarily follow such a pattern, and especially in close gubernatorial situations. Senators tend to be better established as political leaders. Their districts cross county lines. In the 1960 situation the Democrats are at a disadvantage because they must recruit new candidates. These people are likely to be less widely known than most of the Republicans who are veterans of statehouse service and of the campaign trails in their own bailiwicks.

It will be an encouraging novelty, nevertheless, to have the central party commands this year investing the energy and planning in the legislative elections that the legislature deserves.

Reminder Would Help Collect Tax

From The Columbus (Ohio) Citizen-Journal

You may have received, from bank or industrial corporation, a "reminder that you should pay income taxes on interest or dividend payments received last year."

This co-operation was requested by internal revenue service in an effort to close a tax leak. It is estimated up to $5 billion of this kind of income doesn't get into tax returns. The annual loss of revenue is figured at $1 billion or more.

A majority of this is in the lower brackets, lending weight to the theory that many citizens either don't realize they owe the taxes or don't remember what interest or dividends they collected. Those in the higher income brackets are presumed to keep better books.

It has been proposed that these taxes be withheld at the source, just like taxes on wages. The senate voted down this idea last year. If withholding is fair for wages, it should be fair for dividends and interest; but the expense, to business and to the IRS, might eat up much of the expected increase in revenue.

As a far less expensive alternative it is suggested these corporations simply report to their depositors and stockholders, once a year, the amounts they have been paid.

This should be tried. Most people are honest. Even when they consider taxes outrageously high, they are willing to pay their legal share, provided they know what it is.

Wisconsin Report to Guide White House Conference

Tells of Decade's Progress, Forecasts 1960's Youth Needs

Wisconsin's delegation to the White House Conference on Children and Youth in Washington March 27 to April 2 will be guided by a comprehensive report issued and prepared by the Wisconsin committee on children and youth.

The 98-page report is based on information submitted by county committees of 60 counties. It covers a review of goals as set at the 1950 White House conference, reports on progress in the past 10 years, and presents a long range forecast of unmet needs of children and youth in Wisconsin.

In the section on unmet needs the report covers education, welfare, health, law enforcement, recreation, library service and human rights.

The survey on educational needs suggests more extensive and intensive individual and group guidance and counseling at all school levels, expansion of post-high school terminal education and technical training for those who do not go to college, expanded program for the gifted and handicapped children, greater attention to spotting child adjustment problems and more education in high school for family life responsibilities.

Welfare Needs

The report suggests that Wisconsin must have major expansion in preventive case-work and counseling for families, particularly for those most vulnerable to social ills; more and better foster homes; development of forestry or conservation work camps for juveniles on a regional or statewide basis.

A need for uniformity in state laws and ordinances governing the minimum age for sale of beer to minors, with more adequate control of the sale of six packs is rated a top priority in the field of law enforcement.

A great deal more effort and attention should be given to the hard to reach, non-participating youth, it is pointed out in the list of unmet recreational needs. Young people should be encouraged to plan and govern their own recreational programs, the report says.

Indians Mentioned

The committee recommended that more attention be given to equal opportunities in health, education, welfare and employment for Wisconsin Indians. The report also urges the extension and improvement of library services to rural areas and small towns by integrated county or area library systems.

Health needs, according to the committee, include better local public health organization, more qualified public health nurses, continued public education to extend fluoridation to all public water supplies, and low cost dental clinic service.

The Wisconsin committee on children and youth also expresses concern over the fact that there is an apparent increase in juvenile drinking. This is a major concern, compounded by the great increase of juveniles owning and operating motor vehicles, the report says.

State Milestone

Dr. H. Kent Tenny, Madison, chairman of the Wisconsin Committee, says that the report to the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth "is intended to reflect another milestone on the road of Wisconsin's concern for its children and youth. "It marks," he says, "the end of one decade and the beginning of another. It appropriately records the highlights of major developments affecting Wisconsin's children and youth in the years 1950 through 1959; it pauses at the threshold of the 1960s to appraise the values that we live by and the goals for this next decade that should stem from these values."

The report was based on reports submitted by the county committees and compiled by Bjarne Romnes, staff member of the state department of public welfare's department for children and youth.

Copies of the report are available to the public from the Wisconsin Committee, Room 387, State Office Building, Madison.

Scale That Was Rigged

BY CHARLES M. CROWE

"Let us walk honestly, as in the day."

— Romans 13:13

An American tourist visited King Farouk's apartment in Egypt after the king had been deposed. In the large bathroom, the visitor stood on a scale that King Farouk had used to weigh himself. He was surprised to find that the scale weighed some twenty-five pounds lighter than it should. In other words, the king was trying to fool himself by having his scale adjusted so it would show him twenty-five pounds lighter than he really was.

Most of us like to fool ourselves. We seem to think it is smart to refuse to face reality. We enjoy living in a comfortable dream world of our own making. We get the idea somehow that we are the exceptions to the rules of life and the laws of God. We easily blame others for things that are our own fault. This is one of the worst tricks we play on ourselves.

Paul tells us to walk honestly with ourselves. Then we will recognize our own limitations. We will admit our own

Addition Approved By Twin Willows

63-55 Majority Votes to Add Four Rooms To 3-Room School; Cost to be $66,300

Residents of the Twin Willows school district Thursday night approved by a 63-55 majority the addition of four rooms to their 3-room school. The building proposal had been defeated by a 29-24 vote eight days earlier.

Construction of the building is expected to cost about $61,000 and equipment for it $5,300. The district voted 73-39 to borrow money to pay for it.

Farmers Concerned

"Obviously we have to do something," said Richard Studley, beginning discussion of the addition. School census figures indicate that four classrooms will be needed next fall and seven in 1964.

Farmers wanted to know how much their school taxes would increase if the addition were built. On a farm with $10,000 assessed valuation, school board members figured, the annual tax would increase $50.

Randall Reuss doubted that the district could afford to staff and equip the school if four rooms were added, and he proposed adding only two rooms. The district is "gradually losing ground" financially, he said.

"I feel we should not plan beyond July, 1962," the date by which Twin Willows must become a part of an integrated on high school district, Reuss said. "So much is indefinite." After 1962 the school will "no longer be our problem," he explained.

Stop Having Children? If Reuss was right about the district's inability to pay for the 4-room addition, a parent remarked, "we'll just have to stop having children."

"It's too late for that," replied another. Mrs. Charles Milbauer suggested that the district wait a year before deciding to add to the school. Schools in other places have as many as 35 to 38 children in a classroom, she said.

Can't Reconsider

If the addition were not approved, the school basement would have to be used next year as a classroom. Approval of the state department of public instruction and the industrial commission would be required.

After the vote was tallied, showing a majority for the addition, there was again talk of reconsideration. But Franklin L. Nehs, the district's attorney, said only two special meetings on one subject could be called in one year. The issue cannot be brought up until the annual meeting in July.

... by which time the school board expects to have construction underway.

Basic Change in Tax Share Offered trying to prepare a tax revision recommendation for the governor and the legislature before the law makers reconvene in mid-May. Tax distribution has been regarded as basic in tax revision. Greene apparently wants to freeze the urban-suburban relationships. "The persistence of this laboring and fruitless warfare" between urban and rural interests is caused by the tax distribution, Doyle said in a sidetracked sub-committee report. "Among the direct victims of this situation, it may be, is the state's industrial development. Tax rivalries among local governmental units may result in uneven tax treatment of industry within the state and spark the process of considering alternative locations within and without Wisconsin for expansion," the report continued. Aside from any inequities, commented Doyle, the present tax distribution tends to agreed upon by the subcommittee which could lead to broad new policy or transfer of public assistance programs from local administration to the state for property tax relief and earmarking of local shares of possible new taxes as state aids for local schools under equalization formulas now used, which recognize school populations and local taxing abilities, as central factors. Doyle's plan for tax sharing appeared likely to revive the smoldering quarrel between cities and rural areas, unless it is modified. Periodically, rural forces have demanded a redistribution of income tax collections to help town governments at the cost of cities—which contribute most of the tax payments. Such a platform was the original goal of the Wisconsin Towns association, which once sent two officers into a state election for governor and lieutenant governor on a per capita income tax distribution platform.

Farm Group to Meet Monday

Madison —(P)—The legislative council's agriculture committee will meet here Monday to consider enforcement of unfair trade practices, monopoly and anti-trust laws in Wisconsin's dairy industry. Sen. The committee is expected to propose changes in both fields to the 1961 legislature.

No Recession Seen Before Next Year

gradual production gains through the year were foreseen by government experts interviewed privately, they did not share the uncertainty in financial circles which has been reflected in recent stock market slumps and a rapid easing of credit.

The government analysts are relying on a substantial rise in industry's outlays for new plants, machinery and equipment to keep the economy expanding.

Expansion Outlays
Corporations have notified the commerce department and securities and exchange commission of plans to increase such outlays this year by 14 per cent over 1959. The rate in the second half of the year is scheduled to reach a record $38 billion annually.

Some officials believe it will go higher. They think expansion and modernization outlays may rise to a rate of $40 billion annually by fall. This buoying force may diminish in 1961, as the companies taper off their expansion outlays to let demand catch up with their new capacity.

Then would be the time to look for a recession, one highly placed official said. But as for 1960, he continued, "a recession is conceivable this year only if the automobile industry goes sour."

The Washington economists profess to be unworried by the recent sharp slumps in stock prices, the simultaneous rise in prices of government bonds, the general easing of credit and the decline of interest rates.

Mother Found Innocent of Baby's Death

Fond du Lac —(P)—A 30-year-old mother accused of first degree murder in the stabbing of her infant son last fall, Thursday was found innocent by reason of insanity and returned to a state mental hospital.

Three psychiatrists testified that Mrs. Smith, who has four other children, was insane last Sept. 15 when she stabbed 2-month-old David to death in her home. She also stabbed herself in a futile suicide attempt.

Will he help France become a member of the 3 - power atomic club negotiating at Geneva over a nuclear test ban?

"I do not know much about any atomic club," Khrushchev said. "In my country we do not have those kinds of clubs."

But he said he fully respects France and is ready to discuss atomic and nuclear policy side by side with representatives of France, Britain and the United States in the interests of peace.

Dominican Pilot Flees Home Base

San Juan, Puerto Rico —(P)

A Dominican air force officer was free on parole today after fleeing from what he said was imminent arrest by Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo's regime.

Roaring into the U.S. air force's Bamey base in a Vampire jet Thursday, Capt. Otilio Mendez Aquino requested political asylum.

The 31-year-old pilot told officials two of his relatives recently had been arrested in the Dominican Republic and he felt he was next on the list. The reasons for the arrests and for his defection were not disclosed.

Mendez Aquino was released pending an FBI investigation and a hearing before an immigration officer who will come from Miami, Fla.

U.S. customs agents put a guard over the jet, which presumably will be returned to the Dominican air force.

Mendez Aquino said he had been waiting for months for a chance to flee. He said it came when he left San Isidro on a routine training flight with two other jets.

Alan Ladd Seeks Tax Refund of $87,184

Hollywood —(P)—Alan Ladd and his wife, Sue Carol, want an $87,184 income tax refund from the government.

They claim $100,000 paid by an English producer in 1954 was not taxable because they were out of the country at the time. They said in federal court Thursday that the internal revenue bureau made a mistake on their tax.

the night because he was ill. Another, Jack Warrick, a telephone operator-guard, was turned loose several hours later for the same reason.

Rivera and Farra first demanded a car and three state employees as shields to accompany them on a run for freedom. This was flatly refused.

After a tense night and day of negotiating with state and prison officials, they finally came out under this signed and notarized agreement:

The Agreement
They would be taken to the Davidson county jail here "unharmed, unmolested and unharassed" to stay under the courts act on their petitions for writs of habeas corpus. They would not lose their good behavior time as a result of the rebellion.

The agreement, signed by corrections commissioner Keith Hampton, three lawyers and the convicts, was contingent upon it being published in yesterday afternoon's Nashville Banner. It also stipulated Farra and Rivera would not be placed in solitary confinement or in the prison's maximum security unit.

The Banner published an extra edition to carry the agreement.

Mrs. Jerry Tarry, an accounting clerk at the prison and one of the women hostages, said on her release, "we never were really terrified. They didn't threaten us. But they had those guns. We didn't sleep."

Wayne Morgan, 23, and Thomas Arneson, 20, all of Madison. Each had been sentenced for check forgery.

The car's owner had left the key in the ignition, a requirement for parking, so vehicles can be moved if necessary.

Kennedy Has Two Tasks in State, Lubell Concludes

Massachusetts Senator Must Appeal to Catholics, Protestants

BY SAMUEL LUBELL
Milwaukee — Despite the prospect that Sen. John F. Kennedy will win Wisconsin's presidential primary, whether he can be elected president remains in doubt.
To avoid a repetition of Al Smith's defeat in 1928, Kennedy must do two things.
He has to cut the anti-Catholic defections among normally Democratic voters.
Then, to offset such losses, he has to register gains among Catholics who have been voting Republican in recent years.
In Wisconsin my survey of voter feeling, shows Kennedy should be able to achieve this balance. But it would be largely because of two factors which may not be present in other parts of the country — a strong Democratic trend because of prevailing economic discontent and a sizeable Catholic population.

Two Elements Clash

The tantalizing nature of the political problem Kennedy faces can be seen in a simple human setting by visiting two farm communities, each of which typifies the two clashing voting elements Kennedy has to bring into balance.

Northfield township, which lies in heavily Scandinavian western Wisconsin, is typical of the kind of Wisconsin voter who might break heavily against in the church. Humphrey knows our problems."

Prefer Nixon

The better-off farmers in New Holstein, though, were torn in conflict. "I'm satisfied with Eisenhower," declared one farm owner. "The only way the Democrats raise farm prices is by getting us into war."
Others thought "Nixon is more experienced and would make a better president but we'd like to break the tradition against a Catholic president."

Among the New Holstein farmers I interviewed, two-thirds seemed ready to vote for Kennedy in November. Those who were sticking with Nixon were among the more prosperous farmers.

Economic Appeal

To a considerable degree the reactions in these two townships also caption the political picture in all Wisconsin. The New Deal transformed the Democratic party that Al Smith headed to one whose main appeal is economic. The force of this economic pull will largely determine how many Catholics are tugged back to the Democratic party, and how heavy — or slight — the anti-Catholic defections among Democrats would run.

In Racine, for example, a 61-year-old watchman favored Humphrey because "we've never had a Catholic president." Asked how he would vote in November if Kennedy were the Democratic nominee, the watchman replied, "I'd really be on the spot."

After a pause, he added, "I'd have to go for Kennedy. How could any laborer vote Republican?"

Riddle Unanswered

Kennedy also has succeeded in disassociating his personality, at least partially, from some thorny issues that are linked to the Catholic church. A number of persons who told me they intended to vote for Kennedy still opposed school buses for parochial schools. In Madison a silo salesman who criticized the Catholic church "for favoring laws against birth control information" still favored Kennedy because "he isn't like other politicians."

Still, among all the Wisconsin Democrats I interviewed who favored Humphrey in the April primary, one of four balked at voting for Kennedy in November against Nixon.

In Wisconsin, Kennedy would be able to offset such a defection. But what would happen in other states which do not have a sizable Catholic population or if economic conditions boom upward by November?

This tantalizing riddle the Wisconsin primary results will leave unanswered. (Copyright, 1960)

a Catholic for President.

In 1928 Northfield's Norwegian Lutheran farmers gave Al Smith only 22 percent of their vote.
With the New Deal, through, Northfield swung Democratic and has remained staunchly so since. Adlai Stevenson drew 63 percent of its vote.

Favor Humphrey

Among the farm families I interviewed in Northfield, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey was a three-to-one favorite over Kennedy. Mainly this reflected the feeling that "Humphrey is from right around here" and Kennedy "might but allegiance to the church first."

"What if Kennedy wins the nomination and it's Kennedy against Nixon in November?" I asked each Humphrey supporter.

A third of them replied flatly, "I'd go Nixon" or, "I won't vote."
The others responded with remarks such as, "We wouldn't like a Catholic president but we'll vote for any Democrat" or, "It's not the man but the party that counts. You can't make a living farming under the Republicans."

In Northfield, in short, the economic pull of the Democratic party is strong enough so that Kennedy would run much better than Al Smith did. Still, anti-Catholic feeling persists so Kennedy would need offsetting gains elsewhere in the state.

Visits New Holstein

As one test of the possibility of such gains I crossed to New Holstein township in Calumet county, which is a center of German Catholic strength in Wisconsin. Eisenhower drew 77 per cent of the vote of New Holstein's farmers. Before World War II, though, New Holstein was heavily Democratic.

It gave Al Smith 74 per cent of its vote.
I found New Holstein's farmers divided into two main groups. The smaller farmers, who were being squeezed were ready to vote for "any Democrat" in November. Several, who were particularly hard-pressed, were supporting Humphrey in the April 5 primary.

"Sure, I'm Catholic," explained one such farmer. "But I want help on the farm, not

Outsiders Have Difficult Time Pronouncing Our Indian Names

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Wisconsin's many and beautiful Indian place names are difficult for the outsider to pronounce and to comprehend. Recently some theatre folk appeared here on a television show for charitable purposes. The shocking mispronunciation of our beloved Wisconsin Indian place names indicated a lack of preparation.

Most of us have violated the Indian language because many of their pretty words have become telescoped into lesser names which communities bear to this day. But since most of the Indian languages were not written languages, mistakes are easy to make. And, too, since many Indian place names in our state were dependent upon somebody's rather loose translation, there is some real doubt as to the original meaning.

One of the most dreadful translations I can think of concerned an Indian whose name has been recorded for all time in our history books as "Chief Young Man Afraid of His Horses." But, alas, his name was nobler than that. Correctly translated, it would have been — and accurately, too — "Chief Young man who is so Great that His Very Horses are to be Feared."

One of the towns which bears a precise translation once bore the Indian name of Nee-sho-ti-wa-joc but is better known to you and to its citizens as Two Rivers in Manitowish County. The rather frightening Indian name of yore translates exactly to "two rivers."

Mich-au-gau-mee

Our precious Lake Michigan (which we are trying very hard to pollute) comes close to the right Indian word for it which was pronounced as "mich-au-gau-mee." "Michi" means big, and gan, gama or gama means a body of water. Hence the name Michigan means a large body of water.

Chequamegon in Lake Superior is not always properly pronounced today as it was in the Indian tongue, for it went like this: "Shah-kah-wah-mee - kung" with the big accent on the last syllable. The meaning of the difficult word has been a point of much disagreement among authorities, but we'll have to settle on the most popular definition — "the bay with the long point."

Chetek is as close to being as possible. The fact that Indians were unlettered as were many of the early white men here. It is named after the Chippewa chief by that name and it means "pelican."

Odonah, Ogema

Odonah in Ashland county is well named, for it means "town or village." And Ogema in Price county (O-gema) means "great chief."

Sagole, the town in Outagamie county is happily named, for it means "sagole," "cranberry" or "sunfish" was once mashing or mus-kee-guic.

Oshkosh, named for the notable Menominee chief of that name may have been once more properly pronounced as Oshkosh with the accent on the second syllable. The meaning lies in some doubt, but either "brave" or "claw" may be correct. Some authorities believe it suggests a brave wearing the claws of a bear.

The present Lake Butte

des Morts was once called by the Indians "mitch-e-kane" which means "stockade" or "fort," and perhaps applies to some fortified Indian settlement near there in past times.

The original name for Washington island was something like "Me-she-na - mah - ke-mung" and it means, "leading, or first, island."

Thunder Bird

Thunder Mountain in Oconto county was once che-quah-bik-waki which comes very close to its present name in meaning. Chequah is the Indian name for thunder bird.

Green Bay was not always Green Bay, but in the time of Indian prevalence its site was known as Bod-jick-wed, a Chippewa word whose meaning I have not been able to find.

Calumet, the county, the town and township is a corruption of the Indian word ken-nam - mick which means smooch-bush.

1,052 Students Receive Shots In 2-Day Clinic

Kaukauna — A total of 1,052 youngsters received shots or vaccinations during the 2-day clinics started this week, according to Miss Alice Imig, city nurse.

Holy Cross clinic handled 488 northside students with 68 receiving triple toxoid shots, 357 receiving booster shots and 284 received vaccinations. Doctors assisting at the clinic were Dr. George Behnke and Dr. Alois Bachhuber. Southside youngsters receiving shots at St. Mary's included 564 were processed including 59 for triple toxoid, 418 for booster shots and 304 for vaccinations. Dr. Simon Cherkasky and Dr. J. S. Jeffrey conducted the clinic.

KVS Will Offer 4-Week Course In Small Motors

Kaukauna — Plans are underway for a course in small gas engines to be held at the Kaukauna School of Vocational and Adult education beginning April 6.

Four 2-hour sessions on consecutive Wednesdays are planned with the first three periods to cover the theory of carburetion, ignitions and adjustments on motors such as found on power mowers, chain saws and other equipment.

The fourth period will be devoted to working on a student's own equipment under the direction of the instructor, William Mittelstaedt.

Albumin Normal Protein In Blood, Explains Molner

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am a young man (20) and I suffer from albumin. When my doctor told me I had it, I could not believe it. I thought only women could get it. — S.W."

Whoa, young man. I suspect you are confusing albumin with a disease, a Dr. Molner would say. I'm not sure just what you have in mind. Anyway, evidently your doctor, after a urinalysis, said he "found you have a trace of albumin," or some such phrase.

So now let's get albumin straightened out in your mind, so you'll know what it means.

Albumin is a protein which is present in the blood. It belongs there. It does not appear in the urine — anyway, not in amounts sufficient to be detected by ordinary tests.

Something Unusual

When such tests do show albumin, it indicates something is out-of-the-ordinary. It may be serious, or it may be of no importance. So that, I am sure, is what your doctor is now doing — watching to see what the presence of this albumin means.

One of the serious things is kidney disease — nephrosis, or nephritis, or (if you were a lot older than you are) it is found in people who have kidney disease brought on by extensive hardening of the arteries.

There is another possibility. If there is some infection of a kidney, the bladder, prostate, etc., then albumin will be found. In this instance, the albumin is from the pus cells from the infection, and does not mean that there is anything wrong in the functioning of the kidneys.

But I hasten to add that sometimes albumin is found when there is nothing wrong with the kidneys or associated organs at all. Young people (of either sex) sometimes have albumin appear at or near adolescence. This is thought to be the result of some minor disturbance or quirk in the way the body functions.

Firemen Called When Truck Motor Burns

Little Chute—Volunteer firemen were called about 1:30 p. m. Thursday when gasoline leaking onto a hot motor block ignited damaging a truck driven by Hile Watters, New London, according to Les Sanders, chief.

Watters was traveling south on Madison street when a leak in the carburetor system let gas drain onto the motor block causing the fire. Damage to the truck was kept to a minimum, according to Sanders.

Pre-Election Expense Lists Due on Tuesday

Kaukauna—Pre-election expense accounts from all candidates seeking office in the April election are due by 5 p. m. Tuesday, according to Karl E. Marzahl, city clerk.

Considerable interest is expected in this election as three of the five city offices are being contested, four candidates are seeking the three positions on the school board, and races for either alderman or county supervisor are set in all but the fifth ward.

Voting hours will be from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. with First and Second ward voters casting ballots at Park school while the voting station for Third and Fourth ward residents will be Nicolet school and Fifth ward polls will be at the Vocational school.

$1,550 Netted For Heart Fund

Kaukauna — Collection for the Heart fund to date is $1,550, according to Ed Schmidt, committee treasurer, still $500 short of the goal set for the community.

The drive will officially close March 21, according to Dominic Bordini, chairman. Despite being short of the goal, the amount is well over the 1959 total. Last year the drive fell short of the $1,200 goal.

Bordini expressed appreciation to volunteer workers and citizens helping to achieve the present figure.

233-630 Leads Business Loop

Kaukauna—Bob Ribarchek slammed a 233 singleton and a 630 series to take top honors in the Businessmen's Bowling loop at the Bowling bar.

Other honor counts were posted by Ray Toonen, 556; Wilmer Runge, 590; Frank Effa, 586, and Mark Hoegh, 568.

Iron Removal Contract Let For City Well

Utility to Spend $24,890 for Project, Plan New System

Kaukauna — The utility commission voted to grant Layne - Northwest company the contract for installation of iron removal equipment at No. 8 well for low bid of $24,890.

Awarding the contract is subject to approval by the consulting engineering firm hired by the commission to draw plans and specifications and supervise installation of the equipment. Two bids were received for the work, the second over $1,000 higher. The well is the newest dug in the city located at Blackwell and Delanglade streets. Installation of the iron removal equipment is the first step in a program calling for similar installations at other wells.

Village Voters Registered at Voting Station

Kimberly — New residents in the village have been calling the clerk about registration for election, according to Mrs. Paul Lochschmidt, clerk-treasurer.

She reminded residents, it is not necessary to register in advance for voting in the village. Law requires the voter must be a resident of Wisconsin for one year and of the community for 10 days prior to election to be eligible to vote.

Registrations are taken at the time of entering the polls. Voting station at Kimberly is in the village hall council rooms with hours from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Lawrence Says U. S. Comment On Africa Sign Of New Policy

May be Valuable
As Constructive
Criticism on Issues

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Sometimes tradition goes by the boards and, as the saying goes, "fools rush in where angels fear to tread." Maybe this time the saying will be reversed and the tactics of diplomatic policy will be proved not "fools" but "angels."

The department of state, in expressing shock and dismay at the way the police fired on a mob in South Africa, certainly reversed tradition. It remains to be seen whether this unprecedented step — making an official comment on the action of another government in a strictly internal police problem — will add up to more advantages than disadvantages.

The state department has lately expressed itself on another issue that has always been looked upon as internal. Secretary of State Herter sent word to the Korean government that the department here was sorry to read about the disorders attending the election in Korea. The unfortunate implication was that the government in Seoul was somehow responsible for these, when the truth is that the few cases of disorder were the natural outgrowth of deep-seated emotions about the election among the populace.

As for the public comment by the state department on the South African episode, this may appear to be injudicious in the sense that an internal matter under inquiry by a friendly government is discussed.

Change in Policy
There was a time when it would have been considered the height of diplomatic impropriety for the American government, or any other, to issue comments on internal happenings in a country with which it was maintaining friendly relations. This rule has been followed for the most part by the United States, particularly in recent years.

But the question now has arisen as to whether this type of aloofness has outlived its usefulness. The famous article eleven inserted in the United Nations charter by the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan broke with precedent, as it provided that the general assembly "may discuss any question relating to the maintenance of international peace and security."

Today the United States government takes its stand against violence and in favor of the use of moral force in the settlement of all disputes, international or internal. This is a worthy ideal and gives the American government a chance to speak out plainly about brutality in dealing with the "legitimate grievances" of the people of Tibet or Hungary or in deploring the cruelty of the Castro dictatorship.

It's Fiction
The Soviet Union has consistently argued that the satellite governments have themselves invited Soviet troops to be stationed within their borders, yet the whole world knows this is a fiction. Under such circumstances, the oppressed peoples like to hear words of encouragement such as have come from the American government, though this has been ridiculed by some of our own politicians as a useless gesture. These critics insist that, unless America is prepared to back up its words with military aid, nothing should be said.

But they are not yet convinced of what can be done in the world by moral force as contrasted with military force. The latter is necessary. But this does not mean that attempts should not be made by conciliatory methods to adjust internal disputes and find an orderly way to deal, through discussion and calm counsels, with controversies that otherwise could lead to violence and bloodshed.

The advantages of speaking out must have appealed to the department of state. The American people, however, now must be prepared to read comments by other governments about our own troubles and shortcomings. International debate that is prompted by a sincere desire to ease rather than provoke friction is constructive, but sometimes it has to be balanced against resentments that are aroused by meddling in the internal affairs of another country. The state department would have fared better if it had confined its public statement to a report to the South African government, describing the painful impression which the riots had produced on American public opinion and merely recording that significant fact as a matter of natural interest to the South African authorities. Such a statement would have accomplished the main purpose and yet

Crown Zellerbach Reports Increase In Sales, Earnings

A substantial recovery in demand resulted in improved sales volume and earnings during 1959 for Crown Zellerbach corporation, San Francisco, according to Reed O. Hunt, president.

Crown Zellerbach's 1959 earnings were $39.3 million, or $2.76 per share. Sales totaled $327.3 million. Net income from operations was 18 per cent higher than in 1958, the company also realized a net gain of $2.9 million from the sale of timberlands in eastern British Columbia.

Sales volume in 1959 represented an 11 per cent gain over the previous year.

Hamilton Company Reports Record Year

President Edward P. Hamilton says 1959 was a record year for the Hamilton Manufacturing company, Two Rivers.

Sales were $34,006,104, an increase of $6,822,220 or 25 per cent over 1958 and exceeded 1958, the previous high, by 1 per cent. Earnings were $2,067,053, an increase of $608,410 or 29 per cent over 1958. This was also an all-time record exceeding the previous record in 1956 by 18 per cent. Net earnings per share rose from $1.87 in 1958 to $2.41 in 1959. Extra dividends totaling 25 cents per share were paid raising them from $1.00 to $1.25 per share. Book value per share increased from $17.06 to $18.22.

Mantle, Burdette Make Inauspicious Exhibition Debuts

Spencer Blasts 3 Homers Against Yanks; Senators Rap Drysdale

By the Associated Press
Does it really pay to hold out?
Financially, sometimes. Physically, seldom.
Mickey Mantle and Lew Burdette, most persistent of the big name 1960 holdouts, played regulation baseball for the first time this spring in Florida Thursday. Neither was ready.
Mantle, with an old knee injury aggravated by a training speedup, went 0-for-4 as his New York teammates were slaughtered, 10-3, by the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg.

Burdette, again counted as Milwaukee's No. 1 right-hander, took the mound only five days after signing. The Chicago White Sox nailed him for three runs in a ninth-inning rally, but the Braves won, 9-7, at Sarasota.

St. Louis shortstop Daryl Spencer homered three times for five runs batted in to steal Mantle's slugging role.

In other Florida games, Washington defeated Los Angeles, 9-7, at Orlando. Pittsburgh beat Baltimore, 3-2, in 10 innings at Fort Myers; Detroit whipped Philadelphia, 9-4, at Clearwater; and in a night game at Tampa, Kansas City edged Cincinnati, 4-3, in 10 innings.

The Washington victory was marked by Harmon Killebrew's first exhibition homer, and the disappointing pitching of Los Angeles' Don Drysdale. Killebrew belted a 3-run job in a 5-run Washington seventh. Drysdale gave up four runs in the fourth inning.

In Arizona, the Boston Red Sox blanked the San Francisco Giants, 3-0, at Scottsdale, and the Chicago Cubs outscored the Cleveland Indians, 8-6, at Mesa.

Tom Brewer and Tom Sturdivant combined for the Red Sox shutout on four hits. Red Sox third baseman Frank Malzone went 2-for-4 and has a fabulous .739 batting average.

Johnny Antonelli was the Giants' loser, although he gave up only one run in five innings.

"This was my last game," the Post quoted the 7-foot-1 giant as saying. "This is it."

"Mind is Made Up"
"I hate to go out this way. I was hoping our team would go all the way, and I could go out a winner. But my mind is made up."

Asked what were his plans for the future, Chamberlain said:

Leads Scoring With 350 Points; VanderHeyden Honorary Captain

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

There probably isn't a flicker of disagreement today in Terrorland with the Appleton High school basketball team's Thursday choice of Ron Abel as its "most valuable" player for 1959-60.

Besides being a prolific scorer (with a team-leading average of 17.5 points per game), the 6-foot-5 1/2 Abel is termed by Pilot Dick Emanuel "The best defensive center I've ever coached." (a span of nine years).

Paul VanderHeyden was accorded the other major individual accolade — the honorary captaincy — during the annual AHS cage banquet in the Hotel Appleton. VanderHeyden, a fine team player and rebounder, finished second in scoring to Abel's 350 points with a sum of 155.

In all, eight members of the Fox River Valley conference's co-championship team were awarded letters. Senior winners, in addition to VanderHeyden and Abel, are Bob Cavert, John Nussbaum, Dave LaViolette and Harold "Lud" Lodholz.

The only junior monogrammees are Marty Schultz and Pete Treiber.
Only one player in AHS history — Jack Utwelling — has ever scored more field goals in a single season than Abel's 137 of the just-concluded campaign. Utwelling, current University of Wisconsin cager, owns the first two places in all-time Terror basket production.

Aaron Leads Braves Over Chisox, 9 to 7

Drives in Six Runs With Homer And Double; Schoendienst Raps
Three Hits; Jay Gets Win

Sarasota, Fla. — Hammerin' Hank Aaron drove in six runs with a home run and a double Thursday but the Milwaukee Braves still had trouble subduing the Chicago White Sox, 9-7, in an exhibition baseball game.

Aaron had a 4-run homer off Don Ferrarese in the fifth, then smacked a bases-loaded double to drive in three more runs in the sixth inning.

Lew Burdette made his first start of the spring season, relieving winner Joey Jay and pitching the final four innings, but was far from impressive. He allowed three runs.
"Red" Schoendienst, fighting to make a comeback after being out with tuberculosis most of last year, had a good day, getting a double and two singles before he left in the fifth inning.

The White Sox got 13 hits with Nellie Fox and Gene Freese getting three each. The defeat was the fourth for Chicago against eight victories in the Grapefruit league. The Braves now are 6-5.

Rough Start

Jay got off to a rough start and trailed, 4-0, before he settled down and hung on through the sixth inning. Burdette breezed through the seventh and eighth before he tired in the ninth.

Despite a double, three singles and two walks, Ray Moore, who started for the Sox, blanked the Braves for three innings. Ferrarese, however, was bombed for seven runs in the next three and "Turk" Lown was touched for the final two runs in the ninth inning.

Eddie Haas, who relieved Aaron in the seventh, started what proved to be the winning rally in the final inning with a single. Mel Roach doubled, and Felix Mantilla and Charles Lau singled.

Aaron struck out the two times he faced Moore but he found Ferrarese's southpaw slants to his liking. His homer in the fifth was a 400-foot smash that followed a single by Schoendienst and a walk to Lee Maye.

Joyce Ziske Ties For Tourney Lead

Columbus, Ga. — Joyce Ziske, Bonnie Randolph and Betty Jameson were tied for the lead going into today's second round of the second annual Columbus Women's Open Golf tournament. Each fired an opening 72.

But one stroke back was veteran Patty Berg, winner of more tournaments and more prize money than any other woman golf professional.

Lombardi Lists 3 Fields for Improvement

Hank Jordan to Defensive End

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Coach-General Manager Vince Lombardi, chinning at the press, radio and TV luncheon Thursday, noted "three points of improvement that we want to make for next season."

He listed: 1 — Field goal kicking; 2 — Defense against passes; and 3 — Passing offense.

"We may be asking Paul Hornung to do too much with his kicking. He's tight and tense and for that reason you'll note that he made most of his field goals from far out when he didn't have to move so far up field. But, when he kicks from close in, he already has come a long ways," Vince explained adding a little story out of school: "I decided to be smart once last season. I took Hornung out on a drive, figuring that he'd relaxed for the field goal. Then I got to thinking: What am I doing with my best back not on the field. And Hornung would have to run just as far in and out of the game. So he stayed in."

Some Possibilities
Lombardi observed that Ron Kramer has some possibility as a field goal kicker.

The coach figured that "we should make over 2,000 yards on passing in a season. We were below that (1,700) but Bart Starr picked us up in the last six games and gained us a lot of yards."

On pass defense, Lombardi said, "Other teams are making too many first downs on us on passing. That will have to be corrected." And, on that score he reported that Bobby Dillon likely would not return and that defensive tackle Hank Jordan may be shifted to defensive end if we can find a good tackle to take his place."

Generally, Lombardi said "we lack depth and need a speed back. Jeter (who skipped to Canada) would have solved the speed problem. On the other hand, we showed some improvement near the end of last season. That offense

Vikes' Smith Loses First NCAA Match

College Park, Md. — Lawrence college's Bob Smith lost his first-round match in the National Collegiate Athletic Association wrestling tournament here Thursday afternoon.

Iowa State's Gordon Trapp pinned Smith in 7 minutes, 29 seconds of a 191-pound division bout. It was the first defeat of the season for the Midwest conference champion.

Under meet rules, Smith's chances of wrestling in the consolation bracket (and perhaps being able to finish as high as third) depend on how well his victorious opponent does in future bouts.

Trapp beat Dick Keeler, of Long Beach State, last night to reach the quarter-finals. But, Trapp must reach the semi-finals (by beating Michigan's Fred Olm this afternoon) if Smith is to get a further chance to wrestle.

A near-record number of individual entries — 259 — is entered in the thirtieth annual national meet in the University of Maryland's Cole fieldhouse.

Duck Picture Poor

CD's New Code for Deer, Upland Game Hunting Similar to '59 Rules

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Sportsmen were put on notice today by the Wisconsin Conservation department that prospects for a fall duck harvest are poor because of a scarcity of birds and a likelihood of a restricted shooting code by the U.S. fish and Wildlife service.

At the same time, the department offered outdoorsmen a new state fish and game code effective in the fall that will provide approximately the same deer season as they had last year, virtually no change in the upland game hunting rules, and a curtailment of trout fishing privileges.

Heavier Pressure

A 14-day deer shoot, split into two periods, will be designed to push a heavier hunting pressure into the far northwestern zone of deer abundance.

The proposals were outlined Thursday night before the Conservation commission and the officers of the Wisconsin Conservation congress and game staff.

Main change in the proposed meetings of sportsmen in May new fishing code may annoy troutermen, who have had their sport increasingly restricted. The department would revise the 10-a-day bag limit to provide that not more than five fish can exceed 13 inches. The department said it deer of either sex in several sizeable districts of Northwestern Wisconsin from Nov. 12 to Nov. 18, as well as a party permit season in upper Wisconsin territory somewhat reduced from the party permit zone for the early shoot of last fall.

A buck season and party permit season will follow in most of the state from Nov. 19 to Nov. 25, except that the any deer zone of the earlier season will be transposed into a bucks only season.

Need Cropping
Purpose of the changes in area rules is to push hunters into the sections where the deer most need cropping, state game men explained.

The general condition of the deer herd is good, in spite of the harvest of more than 100,000 last fall, they told the commission.

The commission generally studies the reactions of the sportsmen's meetings on the deer question, and frequently amends the proposals of the Conservation congress and game staff.

There will be shooting of the 10-a-day bag limit to pro-

Willey Happy About Prospect of Starting

BY ED WILKS

Bradenton, Fla. —(P)—The last time Carl Willey saw action he was a surprise starter and a sudden loser, belted for the tie-breaking home run that began the unhooking of the National League champion Milwaukee Braves.

Willey

It was the first game of the 1959 pennant playoff, won, 3-2, by Los Angeles. Willey was as surprised, perhaps, as anyone, when Fred Haney, in his next to last day as manager of the Braves, picked the lean right-hander as his pitcher.

Willey was a rookie wonder when he won nine and led the league with four shutouts in 1958 after coming up from Wichita in July. But he became a forsaken sophomore last season. Only a sometime starter, he had pitched just three innings in the last month of the season before the playoff and finished with a 5-9 record.

Not as Much "Some of my trouble," said Willey, "was that I didn't pitch as much. I had 23 fewer innings (117) than the year before."

"And I had some arm trouble. Nothing real painful. I'd pitch two or three innings sometimes and it would stiffen up. Other times I'd pitch all the way and it would be fine."

While not grumbling about it, Willey admitted that he wasn't particularly happy about working in relief last season. All of his victories came as a starter, and all were complete games.

"I never had much luck in relief," he said. "I tried in triple-A ball and it never worked out."

New Manager Charlie Dressen has Willey pegged as a starting pitcher, and that suits Willey fine. "I feel if I could win a dozen or 13 games it would be a good season," he said, "but that depends on how much I pitch."

"I remember last season, I sat on the bench for two weeks and didn't even pitch batting practice. I beat Cincinnati, 2-1, May 10, but then didn't pitch again until May 24, when I beat Philadelphia, 8-3."

"I don't know why. I was feeling all right, although my arm wasn't really good against Cincinnati."

greatest basketball player of the generation, was voted both the "most valuable player" and "rookie of the year" in the NBA this year.

He led scoring with an average of 37.6 points for 75 games. He made more shots, had more rebounds and played more minutes in one year than any other player in league history.

"Bad For My Race" The towering star said he had notified Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the Philadelphia club, and Coach Neil Johnson of his decision.

"If I continue I feel it might be bad for me and my race," he told the post. "If I come back next year and score less than I did this year, I may have to punch eight or nine guys in the face."

"I might lose my poise, and I don't want that. I want to keep my equilibrium. I have achieved everything a man can achieve in pro basketball."

In the current playoff series between Philadelphia and Boston, Chamberlain had a fight with Tom Heinsohn of the Celtics and suffered a bruised hand.

He reportedly drew a salary of $35,000 a year.

Killebrew Finally Hits First Homer of Spring

Orlando, Fla. —(P)—After 10 games in spring training, Harmon Killebrew finally hit his first home run.

Killebrew, who tied for the American league lead with 42 last year, homered Thursday with two on to spark a 5-run Washington rally that defeated Los Angeles, 9-7.

Fashions 232 Solo for Navy League Honors

Adeline Nussbaum Finishes With 553; Trunk Clouts 632

Adeline Nussbaum rumbled a 232 singleton in Hahn's Navy league Thursday evening to tie for the eighth leading solo in the Appleton women's kegling season. She wound up with a blazing 553 set for Bill's Dugout.

Hansel Ornamental (48-30) is tied for the lead with Monterey bar.

Werner Trunk smashed a 632 for Pastyme bar in the Tap-a-Keg league, including a 229 solo. Joe Zeegers contributed a 234 for Brandt's bar and finished with a 609.

Gordy's (47-31) won three games and built its lead to 1 1/2 games.

Griesbach Hits 617 Vic Griesbach patted a 243 solo for WAPL in the Elks Grocers wheel. He finished with a 617 trio. Cities Service (56-22) copped three lines and increased its lead to 9 1/2 games.

Florence Strutz hammered a 530 for Club Terrace in Hahn's Women's loop. One of her loners was a 193. Eunice Dietzen jolted a 204 for Hall Realty. Fountain Lumber (52-26) leads by two games.

Other Navy league scores: Grace Hansel, 199; Eleanor Geske, 512; Geri Wogsland, 191; Lois Bernhagen, 229; Joan Reitzner, 512; Marge DeYoung, 193. Tap-a-Keg: Arlin Burt, 591; Bob Burnmeister, 559. game counts later in the year justify it, there may be a liberalization of the upland game season, including the 16-day season for pheasant shooting of last year which was the most conservative in some years.

The outlook for waterfowl is gloomy.

"The flyway picture on all species of ducks is very poor. Because of the drought conditions of last year, the number of ducks in the flyway was drastically reduced," said the game report to the commission adding that the conditions will probably result in a more restrictive federal shooting rule this year.

Braves Option Caffery To Sacramento, Send Overby to Waycross

Bradenton, Fla. —(P)—The Milwaukee Braves Thursday shipped out seven players, including five bonus babies called up after last season to protect them from the draft.

Sent to the Waycross, Ga., farm training center for assignment were infielders Ron Hunt, Carl Derr and Mike Sinnerud, catcher Phil Roof and pitcher Dennis Overby.

Jack Caffery, who pitched for Cedar Rapids in the Three-I league in 1958 and posted an 8-5 record with Austin in the Texas league in 1959, was sent to Sacramento of the Pacific Coast league on option. Right-hander Terry Fox, who had been training with Milwaukee after a 9-3 season with Sacramento, was returned to that club.

They'll Do It Every Time

Very Little Is Set Retirement of White and Jensen, Williams' Ailment Hurt Red Sox

BY JACK STEVENSON

Scottsdale, Ariz. —(P)—Bill Jurgens starts his first full season managing a Boston Red Sox club on which very little is set.

"We won't know until the week before the season begins what kind of a club we'll have," declares the former Chicago Cub and New York Giants infielder.

In the catching department trouble looms if the Red Sox have to return Russ Nixon to Cleveland and Sammy White remains retired. When Boston traded White to the Tribe for Nixon, Sammy said he was quitting. So Cleveland has asked Nixon back.

How much will Ted Williams be able to play?

He's appeared in more spring games than in recent years and says he feels "pretty good." He hit only 254 last year as a back ailment plagued him.

There's no doubt about Boston's third base job. Frank Malzone, second only to Jackie Jensen in runs-batted-in for the club with 92 last season, anchors the infield there.

Jensen, although a recent visitor at the Red Sox camp hasn't changed his decision of the past winter to retire.

With him gone, right-handed hitting power looms as a major need.

First baseman Ron Jackson, who had several trials with the Chicago White Sox and hit .286 with 30 homers at Indianapolis last year, could supply power. But his spring performance hasn't been impressive.

If Jackson doesn't make the varsity, Pete Runnels and Vic Wertz will share the first base job. But Jurgens would prefer to use Pete at second.

Don Buddin again will be at shortstop.

Outfielders include Williams, veteran Bobby Thomson who was acquired by trade from the Cubs, Gene Stephens, Marty Keough, Jim Busby and rookies Lou Clinton and Jerry Mallett.

Head Returnees

Tom Brewer, Jerry Casale, like Delock and Frank Sullivan head the returning delegation in the pitching department. All are right-handers.

Casale posted a 13-8 record last year, Brewer 10-12, Delock 11-6 and Sullivan 9-11.

Bill Monbouquette posted a 7-7 record in his first full season of major league ball.

Ex-Yankee Tom Sturdivant, obtained in a trade with Kansas City, could also win a starting assignment.

Only left-handers on the roster are Tom Borland, who had a 14-8 mark with Minneapolis last season, Ted Bowsfield and Ted Willis who also did most of their 1959 work in the Minnesota city.

Ex-Cub Dave Hillman, counted on for extended relief service, hasn't yet recovered from a shoulder injury suffered in an automobile accident here.

Says 1960-61 Starting Date Possible for New Pro Cage League

Chicago —(P)—A 1960-61 starting date for a new professional basketball league may be possible, Abe Saperstein says.

Saperstein, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters has conferred with representatives of nine cities.

He said considerable progress was made Thursday at an exploratory meeting.

Saperstein said the interested cities are Washington, D.C., Los Angeles, San Francisco, Cleveland, Honolulu, Portland, Ore., Buffalo, Chicago and an unspecified Southwest city.

Wally Hill Jolts 572 Valley Iron Series

Wally Hill of the Scrappers jolted a 572 to lead kegling efforts in the latest edition of Valley Iron Works league bowling. The Shorts (58-29) are nine games in front of the pack.

Celts Nip Warriors For Eastern Title

Hawks Trounce Lakers, Force Playoff Into Seventh Game

By The Associated Press

History didn't repeat itself. The Boston Celtics won the National Basketball Association's Eastern division playoffs in six games instead of the seven it took them last year, and the Minneapolis Lakers failed to eliminate St. Louis in the Western playoffs in six games as they did a year ago.

The Celtics nipped Philadelphia, 119-117, Thursday night and won the best-of-seven finals in six games. St. Louis forced the Lakers to a seventh game with a 117-96 victory.

Last year, Boston had to go the limit before bouncing Syracuse while the Lakers surprised everyone by eliminating St. Louis, the Western champs. The surprises ended there when Boston won the NBA title in four games.

Tip-In Shot

Tom Heinsohn's tip-in shot in the final nine seconds broke a 117-all tie for Boston's victory Thursday night. Bill Sharman, held to only 10 points, got his last two just prior to Heinsohn's winner to tie the score after fouls by Wilt Chamberlain and Paul Arizin had sent the Warriors ahead. Two missed fouls by Guy Rodgers helped Boston gain possession of the ball and go for the winning basket.

Bill Russell led Boston's balanced attack with 25 points while Heinsohn had 22. Rodgers paced all scorers with 31 and Warrior teammates Willie Saulsberry and Chamberlain each had 26.

St. Louis' big three of Bob Pettit, Clyde Lovellette and Cliff Hagan scored 88 points to help overcome a 38-point performance by the Lakers' Elgin Baylor. Pettit had 30 and the other two 29 each.

St. Louis never was threatened as it forced the Lakers to play the deciding game on the Hawks' court Saturday.

The Celtics will meet the winner in a best-of-7 series for the title starting with a nationally televised (NBC) game in Boston Sunday.

Paul Kulbaga, of Cleveland, Takes Singles Lead

Toledo, Ohio —(P)—Fears the current American Bowling congress championship might be one of the lowest in scoring in recent years were dissipated Thursday as 12 major changes were made in the standings.

Biggest of these was when Paul Kulbaga, 32, a Cleveland department store employee, grabbed first place in both singles and all-events and paired with a teammate for second in doubles.

Kulbaga was low man with 549 when the Buddy Simon Sign team of Cleveland took second in the open team division Wednesday on a 3,060.

Kulbaga proceeded to knock out 676 in the doubles and 726 in the singles Thursday.

He got 639-pin support from George Schulz in the doubles to give the pair 1,315.

In a note which he returned with his signed contract to Fox Cities Foxes Business Manager Bob Wallis, catcher Roger Bean pulls out the stops in raving about John Powell.

Powell, now in spring training with the parent Baltimore Orioles, "should hit 25 - 30 home runs in Goodland field when he plays with the Foxes," writes Bean. And, Roger knows how the far-away fences at Goodland can discourage homer hitters, having spent a month with the 1959 Foxes.

Bean, a fellow townsman of Powell's (Key West, Fla.), writes that the 18-year-old Powell is in "real good shape" at 6 feet, 5 inches and 235 pounds. "He's young, but a very good hitter, with power," says Roger.

Pitcher Steve Barber, also drafted with the Orioles, permitted just one scratch single in a recent 4-inning exhibition appearance. The 21-year-old, who was only 7-11 in class D last season, stands less of a chance of winding up with the Foxes than does Powell.

The sort of young man every small college swimming mentor dreams about coaching at least once during his career has been splashing up a storm at Lawrence college's Alexander gym pool this winter.

He's 17-year - old freshman Chris Vogel, who already has established two Alexander gym pool records. The times of the Fargo, N.D., product in the 220-yard free style (2:19.9) and the 200-yard individual medley (2:23.7) are better than any other swimmer has ever recorded there.

In addition, the 6-2, 170-pound youngster has established Lawrence freshman records in three events. They are: 200 - yard butterfly (2:29.8), the 440 - yard free style (5:08.8) and the 200-yard breast stroke (2:53.3).

Relay Records
The bespectacled Vogel was also a member of two relay teams which cracked yearling records.

Coach Gene Davis has called Vogel "definitely Big Ten caliber. We're unusually lucky to have such a fine prospect." The University of Wisconsin was another school to show interest in Chris and his prep swimming exploits. Davis has called him "as good a swimmer as I've ever coached," already the equal of Lawrence all-time tank greats Dick Bjornson and Mike Lepawsky, who graduated last June leaving a string of records behind them.

Former Shawano High cage great Marty Gharrity and one-time Wausau High performer Dick Dutrisac, were "escorts" for the state champion Wausau Lumberjacks during last week's state tournament.

Appleton High grad Jack Ulwelling and former Green Bay East star Tom Hughes, like Gharrity and Dutrisac members of the University of Wisconsin cage varsity, were escorts for Green Bay West.

Three former Green Bay Bluejays are on the spring roster of the Los Angeles Dodgers. In addition to the highly-publicized Frank Howard, they are Tim Lincecum and Earl Robinson. First baseman Harkness, 22, hit .316 at Green Bay and .216 at Montreal last season. Robinson, 23, a 1958 Bluejay, stroked .261 for St. Paul in the American Association last year.

A former Rhodes scholar may play with the Fox Cities Foxes this summer. He's catcher Bob Kennel, who was a physics major at North Carolina State. Bob studied under his Rhodes scholarship in Australia.

Ron Altenberg, Cornell college sports star who was named to the Associated Press third team small college All-America basketball team, will participate in the Olympic track tryouts this summer. Altenberg has been clocked in :09.4 in the 100-yard dash. He scored 36 points here in a basketball game with Lawrence college during the past season, five off the Alexander gym record.

Appleton High school record-holding miler Don Loker, now a University of Wisconsin freshman, has turned in a fancy 4:25 clocking indoors.

Montreal Tips Black Hawks In Opener, 4-3

Losers Play Minus High-Scoring Hull; Blake Dissatisfied

By The Associated Press
The Montreal Canadiens are off and flying in quest of their fifth straight Stanley cup—something no other National Hockey league club ever has attained.

The Canadiens defeated the Chicago Black Hawks, 4-3, Thursday night in the opening of their best-of - seven semifinal series.

But Canadiens' Coach "Toe" Blake was dissatisfied as was his team. Most were wondering what might have happened if Bobby Hull, the flashing right wing of the Black Hawks and NHL scoring champ, had played.

To Hospital
Hull was taken to a hospital Thursday with an infected throat and it is not known if he'll be ready for the second game Saturday night in Montreal.

"We missed too many chances," Blake said. "We weren't sharp at all." Jean Beliveau, Bernie Geoffrion, Dickie Moore and Andre Pronovost scored the Montreal goals. Murray Balfour, Ron Murphy and Ted Lindsay scored for Chicago.

Goalby's 67 Tops DeSoto Lakes Open

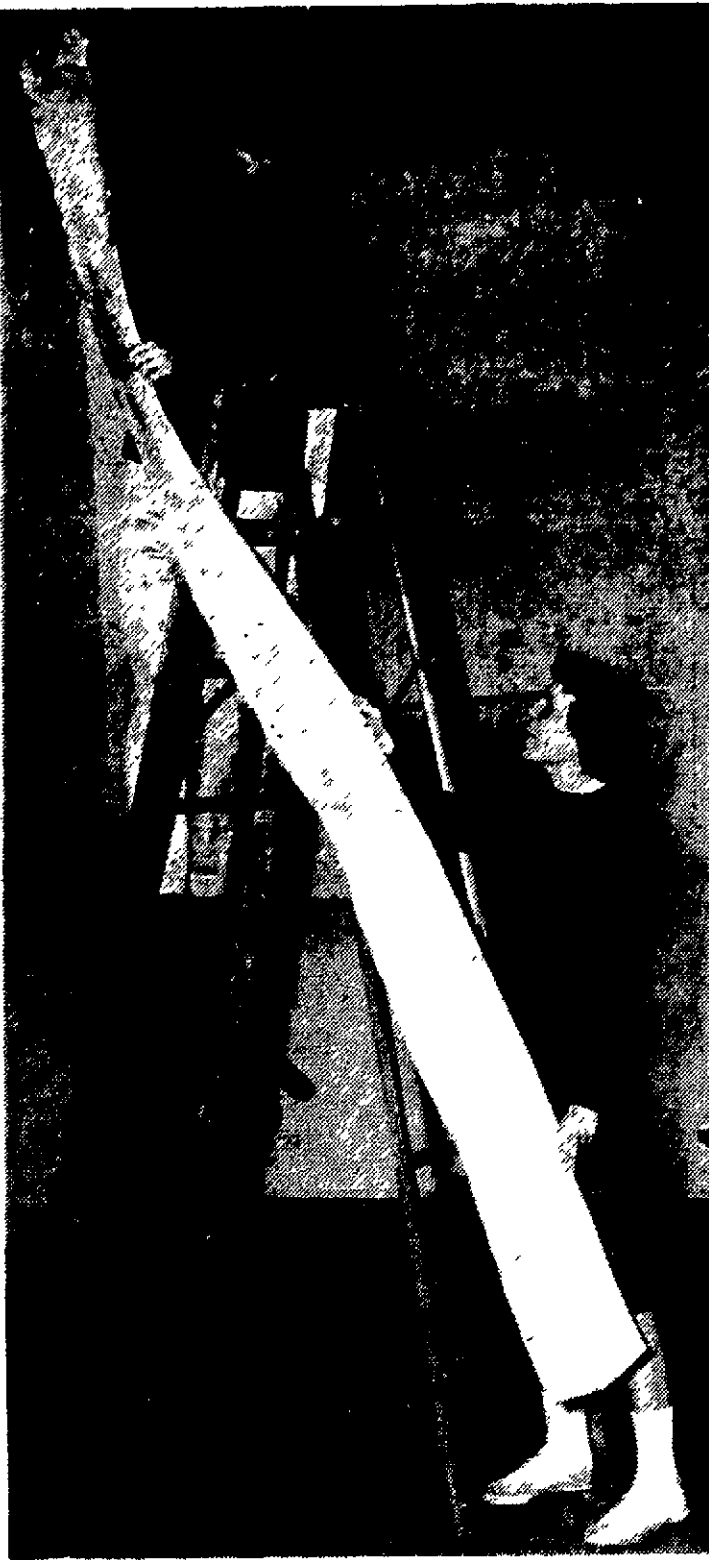

Bradenton, Fla. —(AP)— Bob Goalby has been in the money in nine out of 10 golf tournaments this year, and it was obvious today he doesn't intend to miss any dollars in the current $40,000 DeSoto Lakes open.

He shot a 4-under-par 67 to lead a tough field in the first round of the 78-hole event Thursday.

Although 22 players managed to hit par or better over the 6,902-yard, par 35-36-71 layout, many of the well-known contenders had their troubles.

Among those who solved the tricky course were Al Balding, also playing out of Crystal river, who shot 34-68 for the No. 2 spot; Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., with 34-55-69; and Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, who joined Snead and four others in the 69 bracket.

In a good position at par 71 was Arnold Palmer, current top pro money winner.

This is the Massive "Good Luck" telegram (containing about 375 names) that was sent to Lawrence college wrestler Bob Smith, who is competing in the NCAA tournament at the University of Maryland. Displaying the message are John Hackworthy and Lynn Booster, co-chairmen of the Lawrence pep committee. Despite this encouragement, Smith lost his first-round match Thursday.

Lane and Cronin Fail to Sway White on Retirement Decision

Boston —(AP)— Sammy White remained unswayed today in his decision to quit baseball but admitted uncertainty about the procedure of filing the papers which close the book on a 9-year major league career.

On this bit of paper work hinges the final verdict on the baseball trade in which White is the key figure.

Only when Commissioner of Baseball Ford Frick receives with Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane since arriving in Boston Wednesday. He also talked to American league President Joe Cronin who phoned from Scottsdale, Ariz.

"Lane is a very understanding man," White said. "We had a long talk and at the end of it we both decided that I still was retired."

From Scottsdale came Cronin's version of his talk with Sam: "I told him I thought that at 31 he is too young to retire. I told him he had many years of good baseball ahead of him, that Cleveland has a chance to be a contender and that he would be doing his bowling business good public relations by being on a top contender in the American league."

Abel Named 'MV' Terror For 1959-60

Abel, who engineered a tremendous comeback after missing his entire junior season with a knee injury, is now tied for third place in AHS field goal totals. Jim Ray first hit the 137 total in 1955-6, but he did it in 26 games, while Abel played only 20 in 1959-60.

Sixth Highest Total
Abel's point aggregate is the sixth most productive in AHS annals. The only players to top Ron's one-season total of 350 are: Ulwelling, 457; Ray, 405; Jerry Hopfensperger, 401; Ulwelling, 399; and Nussbaum, 362.

Abel's 40 points against Kimberly in the Hortonville sub - regional is the biggest AHS tournament total in history and is second only to Hopfensperger's 51 as the best Terror single - game output ever.

It was Abel's ability to anticipate and react that made him so outstanding defensively, according to Emanuel. The AHS coach indicated Abel's rebounding and speed helped make the Terror fast break effective and his ability to come in from the outside makes him a good college prospect as a forward.

Abel scored 515 points in his two seasons of competition.

Cites Improvement
VanderHeyden, who tallied 289 points in two seasons, was cited by Emanuel for his "tremendous improvement—especially on defense." Emanuel also paid tribute to the 6-3 senior's rebounding.

Nussbaum, one of the few Terror eagles ever to win three varsity letters, wound up with 532 points for one complete season and two partial seasons of play.

Emanuel commended Nussbaum for the hard work he put in to come back earlier than expected from his football knee injury. In the last few weeks of the season, John was getting his confidence back and starting to drive as of old, the coach said. "Who knows how good we'd have been if we'd have had a sound Nussbaum from the start," reflected Emanuel.

LaViolette, who was third in AHS scoring this season (153) and finished with a career total of 218, was pointed out by Emanuel as "probably our best defensive player." Emanuel also cited LaViolette's hustle, desire and outside shooting.

Lodholz, who scored 235 points in his 2-season career, "did a fine job," according to Emanuel. The coach said an injury held Lodholz back in the latter stages of the season but that he is a "good college prospect."

One of the big surprises of the team, Cavert was praised for the great strides he made in the last half of the season. "He did a wonderful job on the press and in our running game," attested Emanuel. Emanuel pointed out that Schultz did "a fine job under the boards" and that he developed a good jump shot from the side in the last half of the season. He urged the 6-3½ junior to work on his maneuvers around the basket and noted he has the potential to develop into an outstanding player next season.

Loses 4 Starters
The coach also indicated he expects big things of Treiber next year. Pete already has "terrific drive and good spring," according to Emanuel.

Despite the prospect of losing four of his five starters, Emanuel noted he has "the makings of a good ball club" next season. Green but promising, he said. Some of the reserves who'll help shape next year's team are Tom Lonigro, John Manier, Al Vandenberg, Dick Rankin, Jeff Martin and Bill Hopkins. None of this junior group received letters but all were awarded miniature gold basketballs (symbolic of the championship) the same as the monogram winners received.

Emanuel characterized the 1959-60 Terrors as the best defensive team he's ever coached. (The team's 20-game defensive average was 53.4 points, the lowest of seven Emanuel-directed AHS editions).

The coach characterized the second - round victory over Fond du Lac as the turning point of the conference season. He recalled how the Terrors lost a 50-49 game to Manitowish water three nights earlier and that it was difficult to know if

Drabowsky Tips Off His Pitches, Root Observes

Scottsdale, Ariz. — (AP)— Pitcher Moe Drabowsky of the Chicago Cubs has experienced some rocky innings this spring and coach Charley Root thinks he knows why. The big right hander is tipping off his pitches. "He has been holding his right hand at his side in such a way that his grip on the ball is exposed," says Root. "A smart batter can tell whether he is going to throw a fast ball or a curve." Moe says it won't be easy to break the habit.

"I guess I've been doing it for 10 years," he says. "Any new way I try to correct it doesn't seem natural."

they could shake off the effects of that setback. But the Terrors rose to the occasion with "a tremendous display of desire," said Emanuel. "That made our season, for we knew then we had a chance for the title."

Emanuel said the win over Central on the Redmen's home court (a win that clinched a title tie) was another example of the team's desire. He urged the team to carry that same desire into "the game of life."

The Terrors averaged 59.9 points per game as they won 13 of 20 starts (five of the seven losses were by three points or less). That record brought Emanuel's 7-season win-loss chart at AHS up to 94-57.

Use Freedom, Discipline, Knight Says

Lawrence President Says College Is Education's Start

Students should come to college not to "get" an education but to begin one, President Douglas M. Knight told Lawrence undergraduates Thursday at an honors day convocation recognizing new members of Phi Beta Kappa and Pi Kappa Lambda.

"The first expectation of the educated man is that he be able to use both discipline and freedom effectively," Dr. Knight said. "Each balances the other without nullifying it. The first thing the educated man has to know is that he submits himself to discipline if he is to learn anything, or if he is to use the world of learning for any exciting purpose. The interaction of discipline and freedom go together to make up creativity."

The educated man looks at knowledge in a special way, the president continued. He quoted Pope in saying "Any idiot can parade around with loads of learned lumber in his head." In addition to possessing knowledge of real intensity and depth in a chosen field, the educated man must have knowledge beyond his own specialty.

Powers Grow

"These two kinds of learning taken together — the intensive and the extensive — give you a way of working with your world which no other combination can offer, for the interaction of our knowledge and our ignorance is the most important aspect of the truly educated life," Knight commented.

Three powers grow from this view of the educated life, Knight said: the power to see the world as it really is, to have courage to go out and confront the new; the power to do one's seeing in the context of his own loyalties; and the power of charity — the power to respect, even to love, what one doesn't yet understand or agree with.

He told the students that they live in a difficult time in history, "but I wouldn't wish it away if I could, because I think that you have enough talent, enough power, enough virtue in you to pull some real maturity out of your difficulty."

"The college's job, the job of true educator, is to help you with the pulling. This is the permanent Lawrence problem," he said, "the one that has existed for 113 years, the only one that's ultimately worth talking about."

Today's Deaths

Frank Klapper

Frank Klapper, 84, formerly of Appleton, died at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cumleek, Seymour, at 8:10 a.m. today after a long illness.

He was born on Sept. 11, 1875, in Germany and at an early age moved to Milwaukee with his parents. He lived in Athens, Wis., before moving to Appleton in 1929. He worked for many years at Knoke Lumber company, Appleton, before retiring.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at St. John the Baptist Catholic church, Seymour, with burial in St. Joseph cemetery, Appleton. Friends may call after 2 p.m. Sunday at Muehl Funeral home, Seymour, where the rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Cumleek, Mrs. Fred Ernst, Appleton, and Mrs. A. G. Sery, Milwaukee; two sons, Frank, Appleton, and Walter, Manawa; 18 grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

Negligence Found In Fatal Crash South of Chilton

Chilton — A coroner's jury Thursday night found Theodore Kliekamp, 19, Milwaukee, responsible in the death of Harold J. Bosma, 22, Oshkosh, Feb. 1.

Bosma was a passenger in a car driven by Sandra Greve, 19, New Holstein, when it was struck by a car driven by Kliekamp on Highway 57 about 3 1/2 miles south of Chilton.

Coroner LeRoy Hughes said the jury ruled Kliekamp was driving in a negligent manner at the time of the accident.

Clintonville Mayor Seeks Assembly Seat

Tells of Candidacy At County GOP Caucus at Manawa

Manawa — Mayor Louis Krueckenberg of Clintonville announced his candidacy for assemblyman at the county Republican caucus Thursday night.

Philip Kuehn, Whitefish Bay, candidate for governor, rapped inequities in taxes in the state during the main address.

Other Candidates
Other candidates attending the caucus included Assemblyman William T. Sullivan, Kaukauna, seeking the state treasurer post; George Greisch, Outagamie county district attorney, seeking the attorney generalship; State Sen. Gerald Lorge, Bear Creek, and Assemblyman Richard Peterson, Clintonville, each seeking reelection. Harold Clemens, field director of the state GOP, and Robert Dunkel of Athens, representing Congressman Melvin Laird, spoke.

Walter Gleason, Clintonville, explained the drive for recorded party membership. Telegrams were read from Vice President Nixon, Laird and Mrs. Dena Smith, another candidate for state treasurer.

The Seventh district caucus will be May 2 at Wausau. Twenty-eight delegates and alternates were elected for the state convention in Milwaukee May 20-21.

The county party officers are Francis Byers, Manawa, chairman; Mrs. Laura Peterson, Waupaca, vice chairman; Mrs. Helen Rosenau, Manawa, secretary; and Gordon Culver, New London, treasurer.

43, Oshkosh, at Highways 41 and 47 about 6:30 a.m. Thursday. Larry's ambulance took the Cloud family to St. Elizabeth hospital, where they were released after examination

Paul W. Tusler, 27, of 1119 W. Wisconsin avenue, is the new Appleton inspector of weights and measures. The council will act on the appointment by Mayor Mitchell April 6.

Bystander Hurt by Cherry Bomb in Bar

Kaukauna — A bystander was injured by an exploding cherry bomb at the Modern bar, 510 Draper street, early Thursday morning.

Harry Van Veghel, 29, of 320 N. Pine street, Kimberly, was released after treatment at Kaukauna Community hospital for lacerations and contusions of the left knee.

He said he did not see who threw the bomb (a large spherical firecracker) and that he was not a party to the horseplay that led to the explosion. Police are investigating.

County Workman Hurt As Plow Blade Falls

Emanuel Hansen, Nash street, Hortonville, received a fracture of the lower left leg about 9:45 a.m. today at the Outagamie county garage when a snow plow blade fell on him.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital by Larry's ambulance. Hansen was working on the blade when a clamp slipped or broke, releasing the blade.

Grand Jury Indicts 3 in Bank Attempt

Trio Captured Scant 2 Hours After They Tried Armed Holdup

Milwaukee — A federal grand jury Thursday indicted two men and a woman for the attempted robbery of the Nichols State bank Feb. 28.

Earl Wing, 54, Shiocton, and Leonard Shepley, 29, Milwaukee, are held in the Milwaukee county jail. Mrs. Ann Schley, 36, Milwaukee, is free under $2,500 bond.

Taken into custody with the others a scant two hours after the unsuccessful holdup, Shepley admitted entering the bank with a shotgun. He fled when Darrel Hahn, assistant cashier, behind a bulletproof glass shield, threatened to shoot him with a pistol.

Revival Meetings To Start March 30

Dr. Luther Horn, Asheville, N.C., will be speaker at a series of revival meetings beginning Wednesday, March 30, at the Salvation Army, 503 N. Morrison street.

Meetings will be held at 7 p.m. every night except Monday from March 30 to April 10.

Dr. Horn has conducted revival campaigns throughout the United States and Canada. He will be accompanied by Lester Stewart, a blind musician who plays piano, accordion and organ.

Children Will Hear African Folk Stories

Three African folk stories will be told by Miss Bonnie Harris, assistant children's librarian, at the story hour at 2 p.m. Saturday at the library.

They are "Marandenboni," from northern Africa, "The Fire on the Mountain," from Ethiopia, and "The Ghost Bird," a Zulu story. Miss Harris currently is conducting a series of story hours on folk stories.

An Open Letter to Mr. V. I. Minahan, Editor and Mr. Charles House, World-Traveler Appleton Post-Crescent Appleton, Wisconsin

Dear Vic & Charles:

We're following with great interest the plans for your European Tour - and it goes without saying that we are green with envy because circumstances just won't permit us to join you. However, we are sure that your daily column while enroute will give us some small feeling of belonging and we will be looking forward to it.

One comment though on an item which appeared in your column of March 11 as concerns this European trip. YOU DON'T HAVE TO GO TO ITALY TO BUY A

the hat that's different

Just come to W. A. CLOSE MEN'S & BOYS' SHOP at 202 E. College Ave. right here in Appleton! We have BORSALINO and it will be a real pleasure to outfit you for Europe and for Appleton.

And while you're in the store, take a look too at our HASEL summer wash in wear suits. You will surely want a couple of these light-weight, summer-comfort, easy-travel suits for your trip and, also, for Appleton. They're only $39.95 - and you won't find anything better anywhere (even on the continent) than HASEL in this suit category.

Happy landing!

Yours very truly,

Satiric 'Romanoff and Juliet' Closes First Winter Season of Attic Theatre

Mrs. Ted Cloak, Director of Attic Theatre dramas, reviews stage-design plans with Taketsugu Tsurutani, production and stage manager for "Romanoff and Juliet".

Attic Dramas Led By Able Directress

BY CEIL OTTE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Announcing — a summer theater group in Appleton . . . a course designed to prepare actors for their work . . . principles and methods applied in rehearsals . . . public performances—a summer company for our community apply: Mrs. Ted Cloak . . . In 1950 that advertisement appeared. Plans were on the drawing board, and Zoe Cloak was the mind behind project: Attic Theatre! It is widely known that "attic" was chosen for the theater's name because the original group held rehearsals in the garret of the Cloak home, 122 N. Union street. But there's a pun behind the choice.

Attica is an area of Greece, with Athens as its main city. In ancient times, during the Attic period of the fourth and fifth centuries, the arts flourished in Greece. Sophocles, Aeschylus and Euripides wrote their great tragedies, and poetry was popular in the form of comic and tragic drama. Thus, the "Attic" pun—born of research and thought.

Zoe Cloak, a sandy-haired, deliberate-voiced woman with vast knowledge of dramatics, directed Attic Theatre's first production, "The Great Big Doorstep," which opened on July 14, 1950, at the Knights of Pythias hall. Since that night, the operation has skyrocketed under the constant guidance of vanguard Zoe. After ten years of continuous summer success, the players are having a winter season. The last play of this series, "Romanoff and Juliet," will open Saturday night at the Lawrence college Music-Drama center.

Gifted Helpers
Until this season Mrs. Cloak and her crew have tested their productions and shown their value in the Jefferson school gymnasium, the plays being done in arena style. "Her crew" has included numerous people, many of which have soared to great heights in their own right, and some have come, gone and come back.

If there were an Attic Theatre alumni group, it would include a Rhodes scholar, several Fulbright scholars, teachers, lawyers, doctors, students, homemakers and countless active people from the Fox Cities. Each season, novices and experts filter through the Attic proving ground, taking with them newly-acquired experiences.

Many of us have waited for the count-down before curtain time. Three . . . two . . . one . . . fire and then, "the play's the thing." We have been entertained by the works of Shakespeare, Shaw, Maxwell, Anderson, Thornton Wilder, to mention a few, and currently, Peter Ustinov. Thanks to the talent and courage of Mrs. Cloak, we can see classical plays or those fresh off Broadway.

Theater-going has become an event for us. On balmy summer evenings friends meet friends at Attic Theatre plays, sip lemonade between acts. Now, for the winter season, cider's the drink, but the plays go on.

In "Romanoff and Juliet" by Peter Ustinov love conquers all. It . . . is a mixture of vaudeville and libretto . . . a fantasy with its feet planted firmly on the ground of postwar American — Russian rivalry. There is plenty of room for satire, especially at the expense of the Russians . . . It is such broad satire that the fantasy is more than a bit flat-footed." Ustinov, playwright-actor, appeared in his own play on Broadway as the general in a mythical company.

Versatile Cast
George Walter, professor of education at Lawrence college, assumes the Ustinov roll in the Attic Theatre production. Cast as Romanoff, the Russian ambassador, is Urban Van Susteren, Appleton attorney. Mrs. Glenn Hoffmann is the wife of the American ambassador.

The part of Juliet is played by Mrs. Larry Habermann, Oshkosh, who, with years of theatrical experience, including Shakespeare's version of the love story, says: "It's so much nicer to end up in the arms of Romanoff than dying across the body of Romeo." Richard Hamburg, Oshkosh community theater player, is cast as the young Romanoff.

Other members of the cast include Mrs. E. Gerald Thiel, portraying Marfa, George Anderson, the American ambassador. Mrs. Harry Millstein, Ambassador Romanoff's wife, and Dennis Herrling, as Juliet's admirer, Freddie. Carl Wenzel, Kaukauna, and Paul Heid take the parts of the two soldiers. Bill Meisle is the spy who becomes a monk and Thomas Hughes is the archbishop of the Holy Unorthodox church.

Women Who Undergo Breast Surgery Now Can Get Special Help With Scientific Breast Forms
Each year thousands of women are faced with the problem of how to look and feel after breast removal and the sooner they are able to resume their interests and activities the happier and healthier they will be both physically and mentally.

As explained by authorities, a new relief is available for them . . . a scientifically designed breast form that is incredibly life-like with its fluid motion and balanced weight presenting the first basically sound approach to flawless compensation after breast surgery. The name "Identical" is appropriate for these breast forms since they so closely simulate the actual breast in every way. Made of skin-like plastic film, they are filled with a liquid which, not only gives the equalizing weight to re-establish body balance, but also mold to conform to the shape of any well fitting bra. Being supple and fluid in motion, "Identical" breast forms automatically assume body temperatures and follow the normal breast motion in every position . . . sitting, bending, reclining or standing. All the wearer needs to do is to slip the form into the bra with its special lining, foundation garment or bathing suit . . . there is no need of pinning, adjusting and they never ride up — immediately the form becomes a natural, indistinguishable part of the wearer's figure.

Young Fry Need Constant Direction

BY ANGELO PATRI

Here is a 3-year-old whose mother says he doesn't mind. He has to be told the same thing over and over. Talking, pleading, reasoning do no good. He seems to listen, but the very next time he repeats his bad deeds.

He is likely to do just that at his stage of growth. He is too young to understand so much talk. He is quite unable to reason, so trying to get him to do so is just a waste of time and energy.

A 3-year-old like this must learn by repeated experience. If at all possible, at this age, teach him "no." He needs to understand that word and usually does.

Often when this youngster is asked to "Come here," or "go there," he looks at one with big round eyes and just sits where he is, or stands. When this happens waste no breath but pick him up and put him where he needs to be and do it good-humoredly, with gaiety. Never, if you can help it, impatiently.

Keep Orders Few

An important point here is to keep down to the lowest possible number the orders that demand minding. The fewer these the more attention the child will give them. The unfortunate whose ears are bombarded all day long with, "Don't, Stop, Come, Go, You Hear Me?" soon is deaf to the voice that so annoys him. If a child does not obey you and does obey someone else promptly, consider this as a probable cause.

Young children must be directed, trained and taught so that they can live comfortably within his community. This basic training is essential and that child whose parents think he is "too little yet" to be taught what he can do and should do and what he is not to do, are laying the base for that child's future misery.

We have always to remember that we insist upon these young ones minding because we want them to learn the facts of everyday living and to build in themselves the power to face them and handle them successfully, knowing that the time must come when they have to stand alone.

We insist upon obedience in situations where the child is, as yet, unable to go on his own safely. Once he has such power, we gladly free him from authority. But not before.

Angelo Patri offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning child training. If you would like to have his leaflet "P-1—Changing Habits," send 10 cents in coin to him, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Clean Wax From Child's Ear Regularly, Carefully

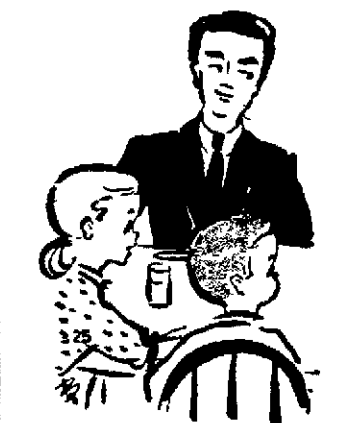

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M.D.

Wax in the ears is as normal as saliva in the mouth. You certainly do not try to remove saliva from your child's mouth, on the other hand if the youngster drools and gets saliva all over his face you do clean it off. The same is true of the wax in his ears. Don't try to dig it out of his ears but when you can see yellowish wax at the edge of the ear canal, wash it away with a wash cloth.

If you dig down into the ear canal with a stick or a swab or a bobby pin, you may do a great deal of harm and you certainly won't do any good. In the first place these various instruments may carry germs into the canal which will produce itching and burning and irritation. In times from nothing. Wouldn't you like to know when they're doing which?

The canal may become irritated, fungus infections get a chance to grow and pain and itching of the canal results. The itching makes the patient scratch, which in turn can introduce more germs with sometimes the development of a nasty eczema.

If wax is hard and tight against the drum it interferes with hearing or may even cause a sensation of ringing in the ears.

If wax is impacted in only one ear it may give the patient the sensation of dizziness, since equal pressure in the two ears is necessary for our sense of equilibrium.

West opens the deuce of hearts, and East...

All right, what should East play?

The normal play is the king of hearts, but this is poor. East's correct play is the jack of hearts.

If East is thinking about the hand he knows that South has the ace of hearts. (West wouldn't be leading away from the ace.) East would like to know who has the queen of hearts, and the way to find out is to play the jack at the first trick.

Secret Is Out

South wins with the queen of hearts, and the secret is out. South next finesse the jack of spades around to the queen, and East promptly shifts to a diamond. It might be fatal to continue with a heart because South might have the 10 as well as the ace.

West takes two diamond tricks and then shifts back to a heart. The king of hearts forces out the ace, and West will get a heart trick as well as the ace of trumps. The contract is thus down two tricks. South would probably be down one even if East played the king of hearts at the first trick. South would win with the ace of hearts and finesse the jack of spades to the queen. Back would come the jack of hearts, since East wouldn't know that a shift was desirable. East would never get another chance to lead diamonds.

Before we leave the subject, let's see what happens if West happens to be leading from something instead of nothing. If West has the queen of hearts, South's ace will be forced out when East plays the jack at the first trick. This will tell East the whole story. When East gets in with the queen of spades, he can cash the king of hearts and then lead a diamond.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S-A 2, H-10 8 7 2, D-A Q 7 4, C-9 4 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one NT. The hand is a little too light and empty for a response at the level of two. You would bid two of either red suit if you had five cards in that suit; and you would bid two diamonds if you had another point or two in high cards. As the hand stands, the weak response of one NT is enough.

Flower World Invades New Spring Hair Styles

New York — The flower hair styles of all lengths now has invaded the realm of new spring hair styles making obsolete yesterday's towering beehive creations. The season's dictum for the new "flower" coiffure is a smooth, soft line, a curve rather than a curl, and few or no exaggerated bouffant poufs.

Divorcee Avoids Big Wedding

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Please straighten us out about our wedding preparations. I'm a divorcee, have been for five years or so. Now I'm marrying a man who was never married before. We would like to know whether the guests should be limited at the wedding ceremony to just families and a few friends? May we have a large wedding reception later that day, and invite everyone else? Or should it be just the reverse? Invite a large group to the ceremony and give up the reception plan? We want it to be proper and I realize that the regular rules do not apply to one who has been married and divorced.

Answer: It is in really very bad taste for a divorcee to have a conspicuously large wedding. It is better to limit both ceremony and reception to your relatives and intimate friends. You can have as big a reception as you care to after your wedding trip.

Manners at School Dances Dear Mrs. Post: At our school dances, I have noticed that quite a few of the boys leave the girls with whom they have been dancing on the dance floor after the music has ended to make their way back alone to their friends. Isn't this bad manners on the part of the boys?

Answer: Yes, it is. He should take her back to her friends and not leave her marooned on the dance floor.

(shorter hair is definitely "in") are being shown this season. Created by top stylists, the hairdos follow six basic flower shapes.

The Tulip Cut. Ideal for longer hair, this is the inverted tulip look. Hair hugs the head. For those who need height, hair can be built up at the crown.

The Poppy Coil. Short hair's the rule here. Hair is broadly fluted like the airy poppy. Six variations are shown, one featuring a loose high flounce at the top of the head which tapers into a soft-petaled helmet; another simulates a full-blown poppy with hair swirling high and forward on the cheekbones.

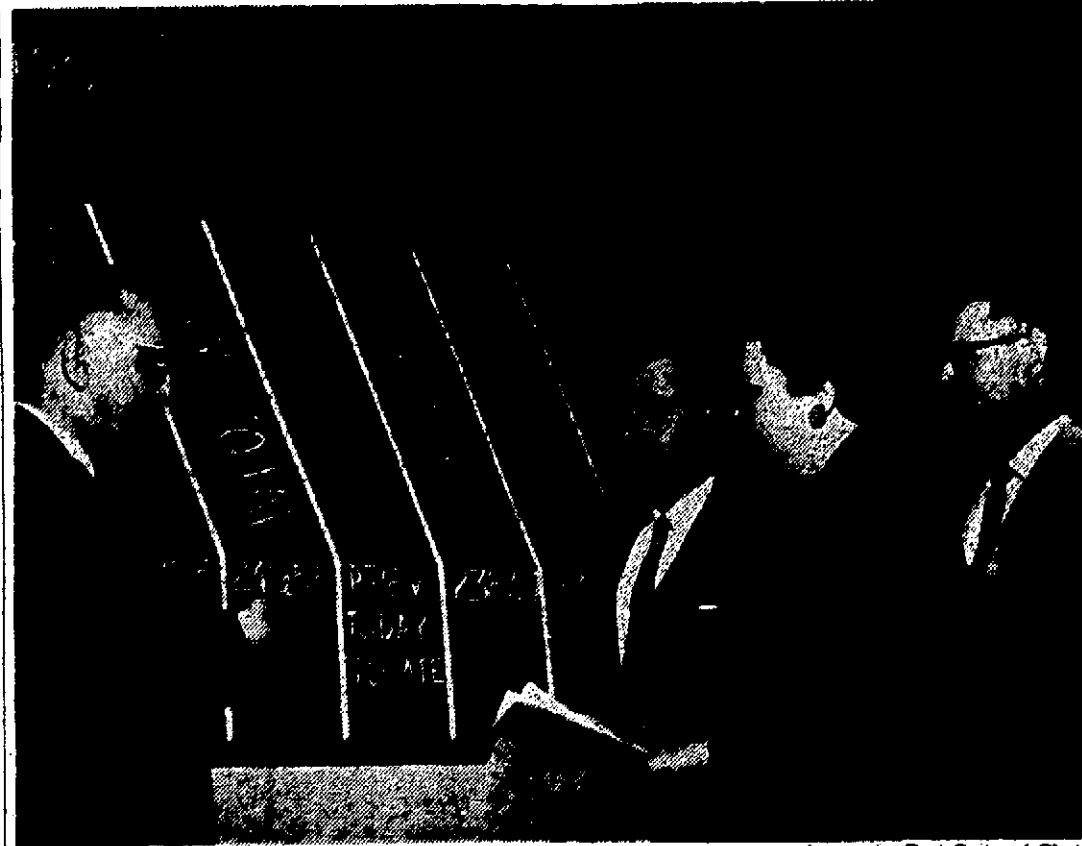

The Lily Look. This is the latest version of the die-hard "long bob." Four variations of this long-stemmed lily look are shown, including a center-parted, balanced coif with deep waves flowing forward toward the cheekbones.

The Petaled Peony. This is the softened version of the recent vintage. Full, but not bouffant, this new style depends on petaling or leaf-cutting. Six versions of the peony shape are shown.

The Magnolia Blossom. Smoothness, a rounded softness and asymmetrical design mark this flower coif. One of the five magnolia-dos features a bang lowered to the eyebrow with ends swirling under and sides swept in to kiss-curls touching the cheeks.

The Nasturtium Cap. Perfect for the woman who likes a bit of playfulness in her hairdo. One of the five styles shown is an unfurling nasturtium bud with a petal fringe peeping out from under the slightly elevated "cap." And for a blossoming nasturtium concept, there is a style with modified pouf at the crown and side strands rolled into soft head hugging loops.

Peabody Manor Drive Brings in $338,847

VNA Appoints Mrs. Harold Ornstein To Head Clean-Up Phase of Project

The Peabody Manor campaign — community teams, advance gifts and special gift divisions — made their specific quotas. But Kober pointed out that more than 650 prospects and advance gifts from several Fox Cities manufacturing plants are not yet reported.

Funds Reported Reported Thursday was $12,680 from community teams, making a total of $37,635; $20,500 from advance gifts for a total of $58,135, and $7,257 in special gifts for a total of $65,392.

Clean-up calls by campaign workers will be turned in from 4 to 6 p. m. Thursday afternoons at VNA house, it was decided. "The fact that we are short of our goal at this time, or even after the campaign closes in two or three weeks, does not affect the future of the resident home for senior citizens," said Mrs. Dexter L. and is what causes flesh to roll above bras. Both spell ruin to a trim, youthful appearance.

To be rid of either determine to exercise. Two excellent reducing routines follow:

This one trims the mid-back: Lie on back with knees bent and soles of feet on floor. Spread arms at shoulder level, with back of hands on floor. Keeping shoulders pressed to floor, bend elbows sharply and touch fingers to ears. Return arms to starting position — very, very slowly. Repeat 20 times daily.

To reduce a dowager's hump, sit erect on a stool with head pulled high. Place hands on throat, fingers just touching, and raise elbows as high as possible. Without moving hands, slowly urge elbows backward as if to make them touch. Return elbows to starting position and repeat 20 times.

If you are generally overweight, dieting is also indicated. But remember, diet trims pounds; to trim spots, you must spot exercise.

Let me help you with the problem of a too-fleshy arm, chest or upper back by sending you my leaflet, "Trimmers and Slimmers." It contains a set of co-ordinated spot reducing exercises—easy

Give Farmers Means to Keep Line on Supply

Gov. Nelson Makes Statement in Talk At FFA Dinner

Oshkosh — Gov. Gaylord Nelson said Thursday night that government programs should give farmers means to keep supplies in line with demand and improve and standardize their products.

The chief executive, in a speech at a dinner meeting of the Future Farmers of America, said that both the state and federal governments can, and should, help farmers keep their status as independent businessmen.

Family farmers can remain their own bosses, he said, by pooling their efforts.

"This means bigger, stronger and more effective cooperatives," he said, "in which each farmer joins his capital, his buying power, and his selling power with other farmers under joint management and control."

Green Bay Man Dies Of Asthma Attack En Route to Hospital

Oshkosh — Clarence Delaurelle, 46, of 616 Newtals street Green Bay, died along Highway 41, just north of Highway 26 after an asthma attack about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Artificial respiration was administered and Delaurelle given oxygen. No pulse could be detected and he was pronounced dead by Dr. G. A. Steele, Winnebago county coroner.

A brother said Delaurelle was being taken to Wood hospital for treatment of asthma. He was having trouble breathing and the brother stopped the car to enable Delaurelle to get out and get fresh air. The man stood outside the car for 10 minutes and fell over.

12 Vehicles Involved in Highway 41 Crashes

One Hurt, Damage High in Smashup Of Truck, 5 Cars

Oshkosh — Snow driven by strong winds, resulting in poor visibility, contributed to accidents involving a dozen vehicles on Highway 41 at the intersection of Highway 21 Thursday morning. Although property damage was high, only two injuries were reported.

The most spectacular crash, involving five cars and a semi-trailer truck, took place shortly after 11 a.m. Gordon M. Lehman, 45, Milwaukee, told authorities his car stopped, he got out and it shortly was struck by three southbound cars, soon two more cars were involved and shortly thereafter the truck came crashing onto the scene.

The other cars were driven by Jack S. Zuckert, Glendale; Edward H. Bull, Madison, Dr. John A. LeFevre, 510 E. Glendale avenue, Appleton, Dr. Eugene J. Cerveny, 1125 E. Byrd street, Appleton. The truck was driven by Edward Johnson, Monmouth, Ill.

Dr. LeFevre, who said he was thrown into the back seat by the impact of the truck striking another car, was taken to Mercy hospital suffering from a laceration on the top of the head and knee and back injuries. The Bull and Zuckert cars were total wrecks.

Mrs. Doris Lindemir, Omro, suffered leg and thumb injuries in an accident involving cars driven by Douglas Lindner, 17, Omro, and James Peterson, Milwaukee, near the other accident scene, about 11:13 a.m.

Bell, Loehning Oppose Extending Neenah Services to Townships

Neenah — Mayor Chester S. Bell and former Mayor Carl E. Loehning, both candidates for mayor in the April 5 primary, found themselves in agreement on many subjects when they spoke at the public forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters Thursday night at the St. Thomas Episcopal church parish hall.

Both were against extending any sewer and water facilities into the adjoining townships just because those towns had problem areas.

Both felt that the sanitary sewer problem facing the city was one that must be corrected as soon as possible.

Both felt that the securing of off-street parking to benefit the downtown business district was extremely important.

Both thought the cooperation between Neenah and Menasha had been extremely good, both in governmental activities and in joint fund raising projects.

In his opening remarks, Loehning cited his background which includes 19 years as an alderman, 10 of which he was council president, and six years as mayor. He was employed at Neenah Paper company for 40 years and was foreman of the finishing department for the last 10 years.

Their remarks on various topics, expressed during the opening remarks period and during the question period which followed, include:

Sewer Problem

Both Neenah mayor candidates felt the sewer problem was the major problem facing the city now and one which needed a careful and thorough study by specialized engineers.

Loehning called attention to the construction of a 30-inch sewer on Henry, Monroe and Union streets during his first year as mayor in 1950 and of having to persuade the state board of health to approve that large a sewer. He thought careful study should be given the Hunt plat area where much of the flooding this last winter occurred.

Bell outlined steps taken in the sewer study such as hiring of a sanitary engineering firm for the study and the post card survey, plus inspections by the plumbing inspector and the water meter readers during their rounds. He also cited two emergency relief measures to prevent overloading of sewers.

Tied in with this problem is the state board of health order to prevent any by-passing of sewage at the disposal plant and the enlargement of that plant to provide secondary treatment of the effluent.

Asked what he thought about a metropolitan sewer district of the cities and towns of Neenah and Menasha, Bell thought it would be impractical in the present situation.

"Who is going to compensate us for the investment of $2 million in our plant? The cities would have to raise the bulk of the money to buy back the sewage plant they now own. Who is going to pay for sewer systems to join the towns of Neenah and Menasha to the sewage disposal plant? Will that be charged to the entire district?"

Loehning added he did not think the cities should enter-

Mayor Candidates Attack Land Sale, Uphold Benefits

League of Women Voters Holds Program on April Election Issues

Menasha — Third Ward Ald. John Klein Thursday night attacked the manner in which public land has been sold by the present city administration, and Mayor R. G. DuCharme defended his actions.

Klein seeks to unseat DuCharme, who seeks a third term in the mayor's office. Both appeared at a "meet Mister Mayor" program sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Regarding the sale of the old high school site on Racine street to First National bank, Klein said he "did not particularly disagree with the idea of its use, but I'm not in favor of the manner in which it was sold." He also criticized buying the present bank building.

DuCharme was unable to talk of the bank-city transaction during his allotted 10 minutes. When he was cut off by the timer, he asked for someone in the audience to ask him, by written question, to finish his speech. He did so.

Attacks Inspector

DuCharme, during the question-answer period, attacked Allen E. Merrill, city building, heating and plumbing inspector, who made an unfavorable report on the old bank building. DuCharme said the bank is 43 years old. "We didn't expect a palace. We wanted a better place for city offices. I am all for progress."

"Civic-minded people wanted to develop the site on Racine street, and we at one time would have given away the land. And all this for a lousy $7,500," DuCharme commented.

In the original speech period, Klein reminded that a single lot one-half block north of the 11-lot park had sold for $8,000. "The price we got was $7,500 and an old-style bank building. We were caught short. I couldn't vote on that. The bank, if remodeled properly, will cost a good many thousands of dollars."

"What of the old (city office) building?" Klein asked. Two parties who reportedly were interested in buying it do not want it, Klein added. "If elected, we will not sell city property without public hearings," Klein promised.

Aimed Politically

DuCharme contended the report on the condition of the bank building "was aimed politically at me." Last Friday, he recounted, Merrill and Walter Girard of the water and light commission inspected the bank, as required by a motion made at last week's council meeting.

In the question-answer period, while DuCharme was finishing his prepared speech, he said the report "was filed by our inexperienced building inspector who acted on the in-

Recommend Storm Water Rule Changes

Downspouts Must Divert Flow 4 Feet From Buildings

Menasha — Changes in the city's present ordinance dealing with storm water were recommended Thursday by the common council's health and license committee.

The changes provide that:

1. All downspouts carrying roof water must be diverted at least four feet away from building basement walls.

2. Earth around basement walls and window wells must be so graded that surface water naturally flows away from buildings.

The present ordinance, which also forbids connecting into sanitary sewers for storm water disposal, does not specify that water must be led away from buildings.

The change has been recommended for inclusion in the ordinance because storm water could make its way to foundation drain tile and in many cases into sanitary sewers.

During heavy runoff periods, threats of flood or actual inundation have occurred in many homes in Menasha and Neenah. Sanitary sewers become overcharged with storm water.

Ripon Turns Back Hewitt Five, 73-63

Twin Cities Eliminated in First Round of 'Y' Tourney

Green Bay — Hewitt's Ma-chines was eliminated by Dean's Texaco of Ripon 73-63 in the 25th annual Green Bay YMCA basketball tournament Thursday night.

The Ripon quintet, was composed of this year's college team plus its coach, Kermit "Doc" Weiske.

The Machinemen held a 16-11 at the close of the first period and maintained a 5-point edge (38-33) at halftime after both clubs collected 22 points in the second segment.

The losers ran into a poor third period and only could garner nine points. Ripon doubled their total to take a 51-47 lead.

22-16 Edge

The victors compiled a 22-16 edge in the final frame to widen the final spread to 10 points.

Ripon had a balanced scoring attack paced by Papke and Lehman with 14 apiece. Mullen had 13, White and Weiske 10 and Menasha's Dick Montonati nine.

Hewitt's had the game's high scorer in Pat O'Keefe, who rolled in 23 points on

Sprister-Dieckhoff Duo Wins Mixed Doubles Meet

Neenah — The duo composed of Serena Sprister and Al Dieckhoff won the championship of the Municipal Darball league's mixed doubles tourney by besting the Harland Schuelkes in three games Thursday night at the Recreation building.

The winners lost the first game 14-7, won the second 14-3 and then gained a thrilling 11-10 verdict in the deciding dual. They also came from behind in the semi-final match winning over the Everett Mathisons 7-10, 8-4, 11-5.

The Schuelkes won over the Louis Helms 9-13, 13-10 and 13-7 in the semi-finals. The Helms were defending champions.

The Bill Pages took consolation honors by defeating Charles Cornall and Irene Pozolinski 12-5, 1-11, 7-4.

They won on forfeit over Byron Jensen - Hazel Sturgis while Gomoll - Pozolinski defeated the Gene Laws 6-0, 5-2.

The league will close activities for the year with the annual dinner and award night at 6:30 p.m. next Thursday at the Recreation building.

Recreation Director Bill Miller reported that deadline for tickets will be 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Spang Fires 610 Series in Neenah Loop

Neenah — Al Spang jarred a 610 series to lead the way in the Commercial Bowling league Wednesday night at Muench's Recreation alleys.

Al DeRoche slammed a 577 trio for the only other honor total Holz Sewing Center is in the lead by 24 games with a 49-29 record.

Percy Resch tumbled a 574 series to capture honors in the Neenah Women's City league Wednesday night at Muench's.

Her leading series included games of 192 and 196 but Dorothy Allen had the peak 201 effort. The latter finished with 546 for the night's only other 500-plus count.

Larson - Schreiter and Brecklin's Viking are knotted for first place with 48-30 records. They have a 11 game spread.

Neenah Youth Shoots For Wisconsin Team In ROTC Rifle Meet

Neenah — Midshipman David J. Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hoffman, 331 E. Wisconsin avenue, was a member of the University of Wisconsin Naval ROTC rifle team which recently took second place honors in the 12th annual Illinois invitation rifle and drill meet at the University of Illinois.

The team, consisting of nine midshipmen, competed against 14 other teams representing Army, Navy and Air Force ROTC units from throughout the central United States.

The Wisconsin team is a member of the Milwaukee Sentinel Rifle league and finished 16th in the annual national Naval ROTC Heart rifle competition.

Letters will be awarded and names of the most valuable player and honorary captains announced.

Hickey's 1958-59 Marquette team, his first, closed with a 23-6 record and it earned for him the "coach of the year" award from the Basketball Writers association of America. The team had 22-4 during the regular season and then won one of three in the NCAA regional tournament. This year's quintet finished with a 13-12 record.

The fast-break exponent began coaching in 1928 and was at Creighton High school and Creighton university at Omaha, Neb., and St. Louis university before coming to Marquette. His 1948 St. Louis team won the National Invitational tournament crown.

stigation of the president of the council (Ald. Edward Stinski). The council minutes read that the report should be brought up at the next council meeting. It was premature. The newspaper made the most of it."

Master Plan

The main item for Menasha, Klein said, is a well laid out master plan for the city, coordinated with regional planning.

The problem of storm water also is major, he added. An interceptor sewer on Ninth street, to drain the northeast end of the city is necessary and probably will be started in the near future, Klein said.

"The public can help more with city efforts, if informed," Klein said. "They should be allowed to go to committee of the whole meetings and participate. Meetings should be in the council chambers. More information should go to the people and suggestions should be taken from them."

The sewerage commission, he added, should have applied for federal aid since it was available.

"We were fortunate to sell a small piece of property to a business. I insisted the money be earmarked for industrial expansion. It almost was used for putting through Harding street. I hope the $15,000 still is in the fund so we can get our hands on it."

Cites Cooperation

Mayor DuCharme cited the large amount of cooperation between Neenah and Menasha, even to interconnections of water mains in case either city's filtration plant is shut down, suggested the cities might get together in work on the boulevard east of Ahnaip street and in building a new bridge.

DuCharme saw as the most pressing needs the flood threat from storm water runoff, both in the Third and Fourth wards. "We are trying to find where the trouble lies."

The Ninth street storm sewer project, which will run off storm water flowing by gravity from as far north as Valley Fair shopping center, "will begin as soon as we get easements. It was okayed by the council."

Cites Annexation

On annexation, DuCharme said he and the city attorney had worked very hard and "now we have more than 300 new lots" in the city. "With the present demonstration against the downtown project," DuCharme added, "I don't think we should have more annexations."

Another major need, he said, is secondary sewage treatment, required by the state committee on water pollution by Dec. 31, 1961. The sewerage commission is working on the project.

"We have sufficient school rooms for the next five to six years," DuCharme stated.

DuCharme protested the defeat of the 10-ward redistricting plan for Menasha. "It would give better county board representation and overcome some opposition by the far south end of the county, especially Oshkosh," he said.

Klein, in the question period, said he was in favor of the reserve fund. Just as anyone must do at home, the city must have a budget and a reserve, he added.

Asked how he would change the city's administrative set-up, Klein said the master plan would be the most important

4 Clubs Eye Berths in Diocesan Meet Finals

All Twin City Squads Eliminated; Appleton, Kimberly, Two Rivers Teams in Contention

Menasha — For the first time in more than a decade, contest and Holy Name of Twin City teams will be looking on from the sidelines when the Green Bay Diocesan Grade school tournament moves into semi-final place at the St. Mary gym. Almost every year since the tourney was begun 29 years ago, either St. Mary, St. Patrick, St. John or St. Margaret Mary got to the round of four and often more than one reached the semis the same year.

But tonight they'll be watching while a pair of Two Rivers teams and single entries from Kimberly and Appleton battle for the two berths in Sunday's finals. All four local teams were bumped off in the quarter finals Tuesday and Wednesday night.

It will be St. Mary of Appleton against Holy Redeemer of Two Rivers and the host Zephyrs.

Holy Redeemer, in only its third year of existence, is coached by Ruben Plantic, who was several titles with his St. Luke teams. The Spartans got past St. Joseph of Keshena and St. John in their two starts.

Kimberly Holy Name, which has contributed many players to the fine Kimberly High school teams, is coached by Elmer VanderVelden. Its previous tourney wins were over St. Anthony of Marinette and St. Margaret Mary St. Luke, coached by George Rehrauer, won over Appleton Sacred Heart, St. Joseph of Appleton and St. Patrick.

Alvin Lang Heads Menasha Rotary Club for 1960-'61

Menasha — Alvin Lang, 713 Appleton street, has been elected president of the Menasha Rotary club. He succeeds Richard A. Mathews.

Other officers are Robert Schwartz, vice president; Norman Smith, secretary; Marvin Melick, reelected treasurer; and John Weber and Joseph Kubicka, directors.

Thomas McGuire was appointed to the budget to keep the tax rate low."

DuCharme said the metro government idea for the state was unfamiliar in this part of the country. The regional planning idea now proposed for this area, to handle sewage on a centralized basis, would not work out well here, he contended. A disposal plant east of Appleton on the river would be a sound plan, but the Twin Cities have more than two million dollars invested in their own plant. "If we were to dis-mantle it, we'd ride out a town on a long rail."

Case Postponed

Menasha — Prosecution of Douglas R. Hudson, 16, 841 Sixth street, on a charge of inattentive driving, was postponed today until Friday, April 8. His car and another were involved March 11 in a collision on Naymut street.

School Board Aspirants Campaign at PTA Event

Neenah — The three candidates for Neenah school board, Mrs. Alice Moore, Frank X. Hochholzer and Edgar Schmiel, stressed the importance of sound academic curriculums, and well qualified teachers in short campaign speeches at Hoover school Parent-Teacher association's Thursday program.

Schmiel, whose father was a teacher, warned that the nation and community are prone to fall into a false complacency of thinking good things will fall on us because we are the best. We're going to have to expect more from our children, more from our teachers and exercise a constant care to get the best academic program and best teachers.

Schmiel, who has a child in the first grade, feels serving on the school board is a necessary service for an interested citizen.

Hochholzer, who said he first got into the "political game" 16 years ago, called his participation in the dedication of Hoover school as "one of the nicest things that has happened to me."

16 Years Experience

He referred to his experience accumulated in 16 years in city government and experience for six years in the city council as helpful to the coordination of city and school government expenditures. He urged having good personnel from the administration to the janitors, a good curriculum and a building program that keeps up with the expanse of population.

Mrs. Moore, who attended Neenah schools and now has and two children at Kimberly Junior High school, pointed out members are Mrs. Russell she is vitally interested in education, explaining she has had Mrs. L. E. Forman, children in school and that into an agreement with the townships on the handling of township sewage.

Tavern License Fee

One question directed at Loehning was how he would have voted on the proposal to increase the tavern license fee.

He replied, "any license should be used for policing or enforcing any ordinance or regulation governing the phase of business. If it costs us more to have a dairy inspector, the dairies should pay more. If it costs us more to enforce the tavern regulations, they should pay for that enforcement."

Bell declared that Loehning had given a correct answer on that question. "The license fee is not a tax but a charge against regulating an industry. Our proposal to raise license fees was adopted solely as a revenue measure. When the tavernkeepers pointed out there was no increase in the cost to regulate the taverns and it was just to raise $2,500 at the expense of a small segment of business already having a tough time because of the competition of home television, I voted against the increase."

Schools

Bell: "I have no solution to this problem on how to regain control of mounting school expenses. The growth in the city's value averages about 5 per cent a year but the levy for schools increases about 12 per cent each year."

In his opening talk Loehning said he thought education always was and always will be the main topic in the mind of any progressive city. The electors should give as much thought to the members of the school board as they elect to the election of the mayor and council. "The city of Neenah has been very fortunate to obtain outstanding men and women to give their time and effort to the building of our school system."

Taxes

How high are taxes in Neenah was a question directed at Mayor Bell.

He replied that taxes should be placed in relation to the true or equalized value of the property to get a comparison. Menasha taxes at about 52 to 54 per cent and Neenah at 37 per cent of true value.

Of 14 cities in the 10,000 to 20,000 population class, Neenah was the third lowest as to the true value tax rate with a figure of $19.25. Menasha was the lowest and the tax rates ranged to $32 with the average being $23.46. "I think that we are not highly taxed in comparison with other cities."

Former Mayor Loehning was asked if he thought the present level of property taxation was too high, about right or too low and if the people were justified in asking for more services, more recreation and more parks.

He replied the recommended value of Neenah by the state was $100 million. "The present level is not any higher than other cities. I believe Neenah is outstanding when it comes to recreational facilities and what we offer the citizens of Neenah."

"We have an all year-round recreation program and it costs money to carry it on. The pool cost the city very little as it was a gift from two gentlemen. We should be thankful we have men of this caliber in the city. I don't think we have to expand the recreation program at the expense of increased taxation."

Parking Problem

Expansion of parking was advocated by both mayor candidates. Both thought the entire block in which the city hall is located should be obtained for off-street parking. Each cited what had been done during his administration and Bell mentioned the study to be made by the council and chamber of commerce committee. It may develop that meters might be placed on the parking lots, particularly those for all-day parking where a modest fee would be charged.

Industrial Growth

Loehning said one of the most important functions of any city government is industrial expansion. He told how the city in 1952, when he was mayor, kept Manhattan Rubber company from moving to another city by securing land and making utilities available to them.

It also secured options on 30 acres adjacent to 10 acres the city owned and made this available for Marathon when it was looking for a place on which to build its new main office. The city also helped Neenah Electrotape by opening Western avenue and putting in sewer and water when it wanted to locate in Neenah. Other smaller industries also were helped from 1950 to 1956 during his term as mayor, Loehning said.

PTA Elects Officers, Hears Crime Talk by Educator

Neenah — Robert Suess was elected new president of Hoover school Parent-Teacher association Thursday. Thomas Christoph was named vice president; Miss Eudora Leverage, secretary, and Mrs. George Lauterbach, treasurer.

The officers will be installed April 28 at a potluck supper meeting and musical program by the school students.

Guest speaker was Verne Imhoff, professor of criminal psychology and director of University of Wisconsin Menasha extension center, who spoke on "Overview of Crime and the Crime Problem."

"We do not know why people behave in a criminal fashion," said Imhoff, who received his master's degree in criminal psychology at the University of Wisconsin and has served on staffs at Wau-pun state prison, the state reformatory and what then was known as the industrial school at Waukesha. He illustrated his point of not having a causal factor by explaining the medical profession is less successful in those areas where they don't know the cause of the affliction.

Prison Sampling

He pointed out that a study of a prison's population is prejudiced because a small percentage of people committing crimes are incarcerated and some crimes are not punished by imprisonment.

"We don't know how many crimes are committed, only those that are reported to the police." He listed the "white collar" criminal, organized criminal and the professional thief as the types who usually are not incarcerated.

He explained the organized criminal usually is not imprisoned because of the close affiliation or "unholy alliance" with political machines. He called the professional thief the most interesting from a psychological point of view.

Professional thieves form a highly organized unit with a very complex set of by-laws, he said. They operate only in areas of non-violence.

Neenah Water Plant Pumpage at New High

Put Into Mains During 1959

Neenah — Water pumpage based on a population estimate of 19,000, exceeded the billion gallons a year mark for the second year last year when 1,274,219,000 gallons were pumped at the water plant, John Jurgenson, acting superintendent, reported today. The 1958 total was 1,085,513,600 gallons. Domestic per capita consumption has increased from 33 gallons per day in 1950 to 41 gallons a day last year.

Menasha's $465,000 George Banta, Jr., grade school is framed in and construction work inside is progressing. Its completion is expected in time for school opening this fall. Pupils will be drawn from the area served by Butte des Morts school (1½ blocks away). with the other water being used for back washing the filters in the water plant, for chemical feed and water use, fire protection and for flushing mains, construction water or leakage.

410 Laboratory Tests
Laboratory tests were made 300 times last year of the water supply and all showed negative results. Ten samples were sent to the state and 100 to Appleton and these also showed negative results.

The fluoride content of the water is only 1 part for each million parts of water. The water plant softens the water from the 9 grains average hardness taken in from the lake to a 3.5 grains.

Jurgenson cited in his annual report that the major project last year was the completion of the addition to the treatment plant, consisting of three new rapid sand filters with a million gallons per day capacity each, a new mixing basin, flocculation basin and two settling basins about 1½ times the size of the original basin.

Along with this project was the addition of new equipment for treating the water. The addition was financed through a bond issue for a $355,000 cost. With this equipment and the new low lift pump and chlorinator now being purchased, the water plant should be adequate for another five years, at which time the filter capacity would have to be increased.

New Main
Installation of a 16-inch transmission main at a cost of $126,874 was another project completed during 1959. The city now has 62.8 miles of main to serve 4,767 residential customers, 61 industrial customers, 301 commercial customers, 39 public supply and 434 fire hydrants.

Last year 14 main breaks and 75 leaks in customer's service pipes were checked, the service leaks being due largely to the failure of the wipe joint at the curb stop, a type of joint now discontinued.

Average daily pumpage was 3,491,000 gallons as compared to 2,974,010 in 1958. The high mark was reached Aug. 5 when 5,454,000 gallons were pumped, less than the 1958 high point which was 5,817,000 gallons.

503 Students Vie in Area Forensic Meet

Oshkosh State College Scene of Contest Involving 70 High Schools

Oshkosh — Some 503 students from 70 schools in northeastern Wisconsin will compete here Saturday in the District 4 meeting of the Wisconsin High School Forensic association. Sessions will be held at Oshkosh State college.

Some of the schools will come from as far away as 165 miles, such as Niagara, Pembine, Washington Island, Goodman and Laona. Seymour High school with 15 contestants has the most students taking part, followed closely by Manitowoc and St. John's of Little Chute with 14 each, and Kewaunee and Reedsville with 13 each.

Largest of the categories in which students will compete are play reading with 89 contestants, declamation with 68 and interpretive reading with 63. Other contests will be in oratory, extemporaneous speaking and 4-minute speech. Winners will go to the state tournament at Madison.

Judges secured include Bruno Jacobs, national secretary of the National Forensic League, Mike Thomas, Ned Shearer, Jack Fische, C. D. Tompkins, Gail Compton and Donald Ungarait of the University of Wisconsin, Edward Bruska of St. Norbert's college, Lyle Fehrman of the University of Wisconsin, Robert Howard extension center, Scott of Ripon college, Harold Larson of Carroll college and J. J. Edelheit, Miss Shirley Rogers, Everett Pyle, Miss Mayel Evans, Miss Gloria Link, Miss Ellen Wright, Miss Dorothy Martin and John Taylor of Oshkosh State college.

Neenah — A "Voters for Schmiel" club has been organized by voters who are supporting Edgar H. Schmiel, 1023 Surrey court, for election to the Neenah school board, according to George E. Verhage, club secretary.

A city-wide house to house campaign is planned. The volunteer campaign committee includes Herman J. Pomy, president; F. Stanton Charlton, Robert H. Downie, Stanley B. Grady, Robert J. Hesson, Eugene V. Krueger, Robert J. Schulte and L. A. Vesel.

Schmiel, 38, has been assistant general attorney for Marathon for 8 years. A graduate of Cornell college, he served in the navy for three years and came to Wisconsin in 1949 after receiving his degree from the University of Michigan law school. He has served on the church council of his church and is active in its youth and education program. His daughter is in first grade at Wilson school.

Trust Fund Set Up for State Park

Oshkosh Attorney
Made Provision for Purchase in Will

Oshkosh — A wealthy Oshkosh attorney who died Feb. 18 has set up a trust fund with the intention of acquiring and donating land for a state park.

The will of Lloyd D. Mitchell was filed for probate Tuesday. The value of the estate and the amount of the trust fund was not disclosed except that the estate was valued at "in excess of $25,000."

Mitchell bequeathed $500 to a son whose whereabouts are unknown, and $200 for the care of Mitchell's dog.

Mitchell's will stated that if the trust fund is reinvested it will eventually amount to $500,000 at which time land is to be purchased in Green Lake county and offered to the state for park purposes. The state must agree to maintain the park and designate it as the S. D. Mitchell State park. The land involved would include the Mitchell homestead.

In the event that the state rejects the proposal, Mitchell wants the land to be offered to the city of Ripon for a park or non-sectarian buildings for public use. A third alternative would donate the land to the Minneapolis Shrine hospital for crippled children.

Upper Grades to Give 3-Act Play

Neenah — The story of a boy who wanted a bicycle forms the theme of the play "The Boarding House Reach" which will be presented by seventh and eighth graders of Trinity Lutheran school in the school hall at 7 p. m. tonight, Saturday and Sunday.

To secure a bicycle he opens up a boarding house at a time when his parents are away on a business trip and his sisters are in charge at home.

Neenah Opens Bids for Stone, Sidewalk Work

Neenah — Bids for sidewalk construction and the season's supply of crushed stone were opened by the committee on public works Wednesday night and the low bidders are being recommended to the council for the awarding of contracts.

Courtney and Plummer, Inc., was low on the bids for stone and chips. Its bid was $2 a cubic yard for 10,000 cubic yards more or less of crusher run stone delivered to the job, $1.65 per cubic yard for delivery to city trucks at their plant and $1.85 for crushed stone chips delivered at the plant for 4,000 cubic yards more or less.

Badger Highway bid was $2.04 per cubic yard for crusher run stone on the job, $1.66 at the plant and no bid for chips.

The total bids for the sidewalk construction were $9,145 by Kuehn and Sommers, Little Chute; $9,640 by John Fischer, Appleton; $9,825 by C. and S. Cement Contractors, Neenah; $10,370 by Norbert McHugh, Appleton; and $11,545 by Henry Verbruggen and Sons, Little Chute.

The bids call for 10,000 square feet of 4-inch walk, 2,000 square feet of 6-inch walk.

Fox Cities Cited For Unique Plan

Planner Kenneth Schellie
Addresses Engineers' Society

The Fox Cities are unique in that they have agreed upon an idea and also have agreed on a plan to execute it, Kenneth L. Schellie, regional planner, told the Fox River Valley chapter of the Wisconsin Society of Professional Engineers Thursday night.

Schellie and members of the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission executive committee were guests at a dinner meeting at the Appleton Elks club.

Seek Homogeneity

Talk of a region takes in many things, Schellie said. A plan is not confined to single boundaries. Much affects the community and the region around it, he noted.

"We're looking for homogeneity in a unit when planning," he said. "Here it is in the urban development of the Fox Cities with a waterway linking it and similar industry making the cities much alike." These communities now find many of the same problems in planning, he said.

There are certain physical problems to be met in each community. The community has full control within its boundaries but not the region, Schellie said, so the communities band together to find a common way to meet a situation.

Any approval or adoption of a regional plan must come from each member municipality, Schellie told the engineers. Each municipality itself will have a plan for local development which is part of the regional plan, he said.

I'm not predicting, Schellie said, but there may come a day when problems of the Fox Cities might be handled by a federated planning concern. Such a federation would be made up of members of each municipality in the region and would be a council of regional members making policy for the region, he explained.

Area covered by the regional plan is approximately 375 square miles, Schellie said. He expressed a desire that the towns of Harrison (Calumet county) and Vandenberg (Buchanan and Kaukauna (Outagamie county) enter the commission.

Traces Planning

Charles Wood, executive committee chairman, at an executive committee meeting later, said the town of Buchanan had approached him and indicated an interest in joining.

Schellie traced the three steps in the 3-year planning procedure. The first year is "slave labor," Schellie said. This is the research phase, covering community and regional history, population and economic data. The second year will include regional and local zoning proposals, major thoroughfare plans, public transportation needs and school sites. Work the third year includes a program of capital improvements, over all review and presentation of a regional plan and report.

The three classes of work carried on by the regional planner are maintaining an office in Appleton, provide planning service on a local basis to municipalities, and working on the comprehensive regional plan. Schellie's headquarters are in Indianapolis, Ind.

Phone Company Building Job to Begin in April

Construction on a Wisconsin Telephone company building which will house equipment for long distance direct dialing is expected to begin late in April.

Richard Van Sistine, manager, said additional space is necessary to provide for future local and long distance Memorial building. Classes equipment requirements and will be one hour long with the for an anticipated substantial increase in the work force by other beginning at 8 p.m.

An afternoon class beginning at 1:30 p.m. also is planned, provided enough interest is shown. Only a limited number of persons can be accommodated in each class. Registrations will be taken at the rear of the office by phone at the Memorial building on W. Washington street, building until classes are full plus a fifth floor addition to the present 4-story building.

Cleaning Properly Will Insure Long Life for Venetian Blinds in House

BY VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures

If there is an argument raging on the care and cleaning of venetian blinds, let it be silent.

A 2-year survey by Dr.

Elaine Knowles Weaver of Ohio State University, an expert on household equipment, should put to rest all pros and cons on the subject.

The first tests studied the blind materials. The slats—steel, aluminum and wood—were washed by a special scrubbing machine with different cleaning products. None, except ammonia water, changed or dulled the appearance of the finish, the report says.

Cleaning and polishing waxes and anti-static preparations were put on some of each of these slat materials. Others were left untreated. All were given 300 hours of heat and sunshine in a machine. None of the metal slat finishes was affected and finish on the wood was only slightly dulled.

Next Tests

The next tests were in the cleaning of very dirty blinds with dirt distributed evenly over slats and tapes. Almost every cleaning material or device was used. Dust cloths and papers streaked the dust on the slats and they had to be gone over two or more times. Slats that had previously been polished with a polishing and cleaning wax or an anti-static product caused less "drag" on the cloth or paper and dust was wiped off more easily.

The round brush used with a vacuum cleaner was good for dusting if the slats had been slightly tilted and the cord tension released.

Gloves made of four thicknesses of cheese cloth were found to be handy for women who have no vacuum cleaner or would rather use a cloth. (These were made by spreading the hand and allowing an extra inch in the pattern in order to make them large enough for comfort and possible shrinkage. The thumb and first finger stalls made

Here is how the slats were cleaned with gloves: The slats were tilted forward so wrists were in a comfortable position. Thumbs were placed under slat at the center of the top slat. Hands were moved simultaneously in opposite directions with an even "pull" to keep blinds from moving in either direction. When end of slat was reached, the hands worked from the end of the next slat toward the center, dropping to the center of the next slat, and working toward the end, until the bottom slat was dusted. When gloves became soiled, they were switched to the other hand so that palms were clean.

The report stressed that if blinds are dusted frequently they should rarely need washing, and cautioned that dunking them in the bath tub or spraying them with a hose is unnecessary and may shorten the life of cords, tapes and top mechanism.

Tests were made by dusting blinds with the round vacuum brush and then moistening the cheese cloth gloves with a cleaning and polishing wax, using fresh gloves when one pair became soiled—quicker and easier than the tub method.

Final advice given in the report suggests that blinds be treated with a cleaning and polishing wax as soon as they are installed, repeating the process when they needed special attention. "We would seldom, if ever, use water but instead would use the cleaning wax. We would never dunk powder and a liquid, which must be mixed before each use. This glue is waterproof but more expensive than the other types mentioned. With all these glues, the joints must be gripped tightly with clamps or nails, screws or other fasteners. Most of the time, better results will be obtained by putting on a preliminary coat of glue, allowing it to dry a few minutes and then applying a second coat. This double-coat method is especially important in gluing end grains, which absorb so much more of the adhesive. There are, of course, many other kinds of glue available, notably the type generally known as contact cement. The big advantage of this cement is that it will hold tightly without clamping. While it is often used for gluing together wooden joints, it has special qualities which make it ideal for gluing plastic laminate to wooden or other surfaces.

QUESTION: We have moved into a new house which has galvanized gutters and downspouts. We now have decided to paint these galvanized surfaces, not only to prevent future rust but we want to paint them a particular color to harmonize with the colors of the house. However, we have been told that the galvanized metal will have to weather for several months or be given some kind of acid treatment before being painted. Is this true?

ANSWER: It was true until fairly recently. You now can buy a special type of rust preventive that bonds directly to galvanized surfaces without flaking off. The coating can be brushed right on to the gutters and downspouts after wiping off any grease or oil. When the coating has dried thoroughly, apply the desired color.

ANSWER: It may be that you will be even more confused by the following information, but here it is: Hide glue, which once had to be heated, now comes in prepared form ready to use. It is strong and excellent for most furniture or cabinet work, but should not be used outdoors or where there is very high humidity. Urethane resin glue comes as a powder to be mixed with water. It is not waterproof but will hold up well in work exposed to dampness. It should be used only for well-fitting joints. Liquid resin glue, usually white, comes ready to use. It is clean, working and quick-setting but not as tough as hide glue—excellent for most small jobs. Resorcinol glue comes as a powder and a liquid, which must be mixed before each use. This glue is waterproof but more expensive than the other types mentioned. With all these glues, the joints must be gripped tightly with clamps or nails, screws or other fasteners. Most of the time, better results will be obtained by putting on a preliminary coat of glue, allowing it to dry a few minutes and then applying a second coat. This double-coat method is especially important in gluing end grains, which absorb so much more of the adhesive. There are, of course, many other kinds of glue available, notably the type generally known as contact cement. The big advantage of this cement is that it will hold tightly without clamping. While it is often used for gluing together wooden joints, it has special qualities which make it ideal for gluing plastic laminate to wooden or other surfaces.

NHS National Honor Group To Induct 28

16 Seniors, 12 Juniors to be Honored at Tea

Neenah — National Honor society at Neenah High school will induct 12 juniors and 16 seniors at an initiation tea Thursday, April 7. Eight senior members inducted last year will present the program and award the pins.

Parents of the new members have been invited to be guests. Students were chosen on the basis of scholastic achievement, school service and individual character. A combined vote of faculty and upperclassmen on the A and B honor rolls determined the new members.

Seniors named members are Ned Read, George Dix, Julie Wamsley, Kay Huppler, Jill Harker, Judy Julius, Lois Germuga, Jill Cochrane, Sharon Nelson, Lois Schloemer, Marcia Pyott, Steve King, Barbara Zeumer, Lynne Eastwood, Rita Weber and Carl Ziern.

The seniors voted in as juniors last year are Helen Tolversen, vice president, Dick Wilson, secretary; Elynor Evans, historian; Mary Reiser, Judy Rogness and Karen Graversen. Penny Simpson, the president, is a transfer from Mexico and Michael Schwerin also is a transfer member.

Wick System Aids In Water Control

Visalia, Calif. — Would you like to be able to go away for weeks without concern of how your lawn and garden would be watered?

C. Frederick Young, a hydro engineer, says it can be done. A system he developed during five years of research is being tested in southern California.

Young stretches water by capillary action. Plants draw water from the surrounding soil.

Young uses a wick of porous, ceramic material, buried underground. It seeps moisture at a controlled rate, depending on the pipe line pressure. The wicks are attached to plastic tubes.

compared with five by previous methods. The citrus experiment station at the University of California at Riverside is using the wick system in experiments which require ideal moisture.

The Descanso Gardens, an arboretum maintained by the City of Los Angeles, has the wicks installed under rose bushes.

In truck farming and other row crops, Young says when the wicks and plastic pipe are buried, eliminating furrows, farmers can use the increased space to grow additional plants.

An Israeli, visiting southern California, learned of the new system and wrote his father in Tel Aviv, where the father was trying to grow olive trees on arid land. Now, with a wick system installed, the farmer reports his trees are blooming and his water supply goes further.

197 Pupils Complete Driver Education Class at Wittenberg
Wittenberg—Principal J. C. LaPlant said that 197 students at Wittenberg High school have completed a classroom course in driver education. Student certificates indicating satisfactory completion of the program have been issued by the motor vehicle department. They are accepted in lieu of the knowledge test if application is made within one year for a permit to learn to drive. George Seeburger is the instructor.

Ladder Handy Tool if You Use It Safely

Solid Footing Required Before Stepping on Rungs

Ladders are handy tools around the home in maintenance and repair work, but like most tools, there is a right and a wrong way to handle a ladder. Avoid hazards by following these few hints and prevent accidents.

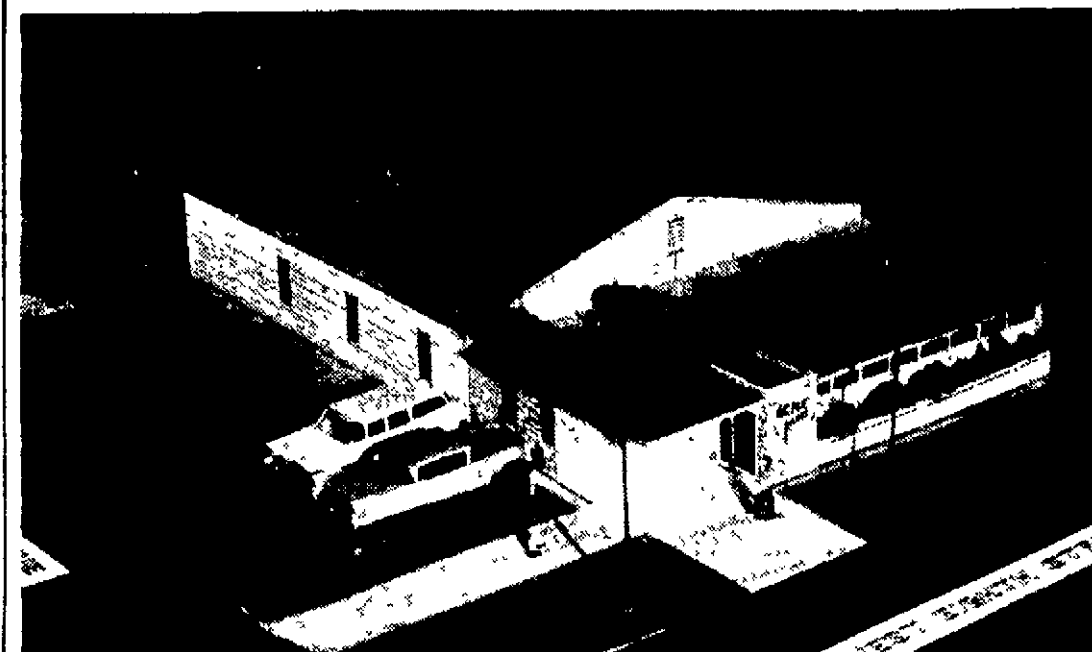

Never stand on the top or any step ladder. Make certain a step ladder is fully opened and locked before you use it. The bottoms of all ladders should be on a solid footing, or otherwise anchored securely.

To be safe, also place rung type ladders at proper pitch so the distance from the bottom of the ladder to the house is approximately one-fourth of the length of the ladder, (if angle is greater, the ladder may break, or, if too close to the house, the ladder may tip).

Set It Properly
Set ladders properly to avoid the mistake of over-reaching or leaning too far to one side, which is dangerous. Always face a ladder when ascending or descending and don't carry large or heavy objects — use a rope lift. Grip ladder firm with hands and be certain your shoes and the rungs or steps of ladder are free from oil, grease or mud.

Do not use makeshift or patched up ladders. Take good care of your ladder — do not leave it out in the weather to deteriorate.

A ladder is a great help in renovation work. Use it correctly and be sure you respect it as you do other good equipment and always keep safety foremost in your mind.

Easier, Not Cheaper
Mortgage money is becoming easier to get—not cheaper but easier. The brutal money squeeze feared to be operating now has not materialized.

As a result of the more moderate pace of the business advance since the end of 1959 the demand for credit hasn't been as fierce as anticipated. Neither corporations nor consumers have borrowed as much as expected to finance inventories, new plants, autos, etc.

As a result of the slower business upswing and the disappearance of inflation jitters, the federal reserve system isn't clamping down so hard on the credit supply. It is deliberately not offsetting "normal" forces working to make credit easier.

Treasury Supplying
And as a result of the fact that the treasury now has a balanced budget it isn't competing on a massive scale with other borrowers. Instead of draining nearly $3 billion out of the markets as it did in 1959 it actually will be supplying a couple of billions of dollars to the economy this year as it pays off debt.

The signs are emerging of greens also have different growing rates. Douglas fir, European larch, red pine, Scotch pine, white pine, Black Hills spruce, Norway and white spruce are rapidly growing, reaching about 20 feet in 10 years. White fir, pin oak, Amur cherry, hemlock and cork tree, beech, birch, ginkgo, buckeye, tulip tree, hackberry, hawthorn and horse chestnut.

Slow growing trees, which to discuss local conditions reach less than 15 feet in 10 years are bur oak, hornbeam, shagbark hickory, Kentucky coffee tree and white oak. Various coniferous evergreens to your requirements.

Play Yard Will Keep Children Off of Streets

Provides Pleasure, Offers Training For Youngsters

Worries about your children will be reduced if you put a home play yard high on your list of activities.

After you have given the yard a thorough cleaning, assign each child a small garden plot to cultivate and plant easily grown flowers and vegetables. This not only gives "plant up" a boost but provides pleasure and responsibility training for the children.

A croquet set or badminton court are inexpensive but can provide entertainment with little work in setting-up. A basketball net or an improvised bushel basket placed on the garage will give practice and fun in this team sport. Also, a shuffleboard court can be painted on a concrete driveway and will be fun for the youngsters and the adult family members, too.

Grape Arbor
A grape arbor or corner of the yard can be adapted to a play house for the younger members of the family. In addition to their toys, two or three chairs and perhaps an old table discarded from attic clean-up can be gaily painted to provide props for junior housekeeping.

Lawn bowling, horseshoes, and in fact, many other activities that meet your family's interests and ground facilities will make your yard an appealing place to play and the streets and alleys far less alluring.

Part of Humphrey Caravan to Stop In Appleton

A segment of Sen. Hubert Humphrey's campaign caravan will stop at the Appleton hotel for lunch Saturday.

The caravan, en route from Milwaukee to Wausau, is scheduled to be at the hotel at 12:30 p.m. The senator will not be with it.

Mrs. Eugene McCarthy, wife of the Minnesota senator, and Carl Thompson, state senator, will be at the hotel. The caravan is one of eight that will meet at Wausau for a bean feed Saturday night.

Sen. Humphrey will speak at Oshkosh Saturday.

The caravan will stop briefly on to Green Bay and Shawano.

City	Rate New	A Year Ago

In many areas, mortgages insured by the federal housing administration aren't any less expensive. The FHA rate is pegged at 5 1/2 per cent, to which must be added an insurance fee of about 1/4 per cent. In addition, the current discount of over 2 1/2 points on an FHA mortgage means that on a $10,000 mortgage the borrower actually gets only $9,750.

But while stiff mortgage costs have cut into buying of houses, a far more vital factor in recent months has been the lack of credit. A great demand for houses does exist, and as mortgage money becomes more available the whole housing market should perk up.

If you are a home buyer, a seller or builder, be alert to the signals that the money markets are at last shifting. It's a slight shift, but it is in your favor.

College Radio Station
Finishes Studio Move

Steel Letters 'WLFM' Mounted in Lawrence
Music-Drama Center as 5th Year Begins

BY MARGUERITE SCHUMANN
Last week a Lawrence college maintenance man drilled holes in a brick corridor wall of the new Music-Drama center and mounted there a set of stainless steel letters—WLFM. That was the final touch to the transfer of the Lawrence student-operated frequency modulation radio station from the coal bin in which it was born to its bright, adequate studios in the new building. The letters went up just as WLFM went into its fifth year of operation.

"The trouble with a student operated radio station," says Joseph A. Hopfensperger, station director and faculty member, "is that there is a new staff every time you turn around. It's just like teaching—repetition, repetition, repetition. Instead of expanding at the rapid pace you could with a professional staff, we have to go back over the same ground again and again. Just when one batch of announcers learn how to pronounce Dmitri Shostakovich or the Orchestre de la Radiodiffusion Française, they graduate."

Progress Nevertheless
In spite of Hopfensperger's guarded optimism about possibilities for progress in an amateur operation, in the past four years WLFM has broadcast almost 3,200 hours of educational and musical programs, it has increased its broadcast week from 8 to 10 hours the first year to 33 hours at present, its staff has grown from 50 to 80, and its circulation of the Cue Sheet, our program guide, has soared — from six paid subscriptions the first year to 90! He grins. Postcards from as far away as Duluth, Minn., have informed WLFM that its signal has been picked up there, but its normal radius is about 40 miles.

On the first day WLFM was on the air, the transmitter (a gift of WJPG in Green Bay, where it had sat unused for a number of years), kept blowing tubes. Since then, however, under the direction of engineer Frederick C. Hervey, the only other non-student involved in the station's operation, things have moved at a much smoother technical pace. The sole exception was last spring when there was another wave of transmitter trouble. Hervey worked much of the summer transferring into the Music-Drama center all equipment except the heavy transmitter which remains in the basement of the women's gymnasium, a block from the studio. The station hopes soon to be able to operate without keeping a second engineer at the transmitter.

Educational for Staff
Highlights of the last four seasons have included two years of stereo concert broadcasts with a local AM station, and the live broadcast of amateur operation, in the past four years WLFM has broadcast almost 3,200 hours of educational and musical programs, it has increased its broadcast week from 8 to 10 hours the first year to 33 hours at present, its staff has grown from 50 to 80, and its circulation of the Cue Sheet, our program guide, has soared — from six paid subscriptions the first year to 90! He grins. Postcards from as far away as Duluth, Minn., have informed WLFM that its signal has been picked up there, but its normal radius is about 40 miles.

"If we've accomplished anything at all in terms of training personnel as a part of our educational pattern it has been to instill a keen sense of responsibility and loyalty in our staff heads. The glamor of radio quickly disappears but the hard work continues every day," he says.

New Public Affairs
Series to Begin on Education Subject

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

New York—(AP)—Television's gamut during the next seven days runs all the way from tonight's adaptation of Hemingway's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" to a circus performance presided over by Joe E. Brown next Thursday. The Hemingway dramatization (CBS, 7:30 to 10 p. m.) stars Robert Ryan, Ann Todd and Mary Astor. The competition is a fan magazine's TV Guide, awards show on NBC (7:30 to 8:30 p. m.) which also includes what is called "gentle spoofing" of television.

Sunday brings the debut of a CBS public affairs series, "The Great Challenge," (1 to 2 p. m.) with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, former Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter and Wesleyan University President Victor L. Butterfield discussing education.

Other Features
Thomas E. Dewey will be the Sunday's "Meet the Press" interviewee (NBC, 5 to 5:30 p. m.), and Sunday Showcase (NBC 7 to 8 p. m.) will be "The American," concerning the last days of war Steber, hero Ira Hayes and starring Lee Marvin. On Monday night (10:15 p. m.) Jack Paar's "Tonight Show" will be seen on NBC. Tony Curtis is the star of Bertram Mills troupe—will fill Startime's "The Juggler," an hour Thursday night (ABC, NBC, 7:30 to 8:30 p. m.) on Tuesday. At 9 p. m. ABC has premier its Hour of Great one of its occasional docu-mysteries series with "The Mentaries, this one a look at Bat," starring Helen Hayes Korea 10 years after the war. and Jason Robards Jr. CBS's Thursday night re-ABC's "Music for a Spring view (9 to 10 p. m.) will be Night" becomes an hour-long a Mickey Rooney special from show Wednesday from 6:30 to Hollywood.

No Tax Cause
In Firms' Move

GOP Candidate's List Claimed Taxes Drove 46 Out of Wisconsin

A further check of the list of industries which were said to have left the state because of an unfavorable tax climate shows more discrepancies, the Post-Crescent has found.

The list was released Tuesday by GOP governor candidate Philip G. Kuehn in response to a demand by the Madison Capital Times.

The Post-Crescent found that only one of the firms listed as leaving the Fox valley had in fact left. One went out of business, another shifted one division of office employees and one left the area in a complete shift of internal organization. None cited taxes as a cause for changes.

Racine Situation
In Racine, where one of the largest employers — Walker Manufacturing company — was listed as leaving the state, employment of production workers is about 450. The firm was bought by Kern County Land company of California, but operates as a separate division with plants in four other states. The firm's oil filter division was moved to Iowa, but officials said the areas by industries often had meant costly training op-same and had nothing to do with the move. Walker officials added, "Taxes aren't as big a feature in moving as most people think." Two other firms, Allover Manufacturing company in Racine and Bell City Appliance company in Burlington, left the state after purchase by McGraw-Edison company. McGraw consolidated operations and taxes were not a part of the moves, it was indicated.

Within State
Rainfair corporation of Stoughton was listed, although it was a plant operated by a corporation headquartered in Racine. The plant's production was consolidated in Racine when a product line was dropped about nine years ago, firm officials said.

Webster Electric company of Racine has moved about 50 per cent of its production from the city to the south, citing high taxes as the reason. The firm's home office is in Racine. The president, David Monroe, has been active in the state chamber of commerce and Taxpayer's Alliance in the fight against taxes.

Christensen Machine company of Racine left the city for the east in 1957, but the plant remained open as M. D. Blower, Inc., manufacturing a line of air conveyor systems. Both firms are subsidiaries of a Chicago firm and sales of the Racine division are around $2½ million, Blower officials said.

Industrialist Comments
One Racine industrialist commented that unions had cooperated in cutting seniority to keep a plant in operation and that moves to other areas by industries often had meant costly training op-

Annexation Favored by Health Board Members Call It
Best Solution
To Sewage Problem

The Appleton board of health has gone on record favoring annexation of Valley Fair shopping center and Palisades park in the town of Menasha.

Board members said annexation would be the best way to solve the existing sewage treatment problem.

The problem is caused by the septic tank at the Valley Fair shopping center, where raw sewage is discharged into an open ditch and flows through Appleton. The state board of health has ordered chlorination of the septic tank discharge.

The state board has recommended annexation to Appleton or Menasha, construction of a town of Menasha sewage treatment plant or forming a metropolitan sewage district. The town of Menasha has refused any annexation and Appleton and Menasha have refused participation in a metropolitan district. The town is studying solution, including its own sewage system which could cost in excess of $1 million.

In one case, a plant moved some time ago is being moved a second time because the firm lost its skilled workers in the original move and could not replace them.

Power Squadron
Elects Officers

Abbot Byfield, 808 E. Alton street, was reelected to his second term as commander of the Appleton Power Squadron Wednesday night.

John P. Boon was elected lieutenant commander and Arthur Croxon was named secretary. H. C. Du Pont was reelected to his second term as treasurer.

Appointed to squadron offices were Al W. Zabel, education; Walter Winske, public relations; and Robert Selinger, supply.

New officers will take over April 23 in change of watch ceremonies. Students in the small boat piloting course which just ended will receive graduation certificates at that time.

Children Hurt in Playground Mishap

Two children were slightly hurt Thursday afternoon when a car struck Donald Linskens, 12-year-old son of Mrs. Lillian Linskens, 608 N. Morrison street, in the St. Joseph Catholic school playground. Slightly hurt was Mrs. James W. Mullins' son, Dale, 5, who was riding with his mother when her car hit the Linskens boy. Cars are parked on the playground.

Leonard Williams, 43, of 1936 N. Mason street, received a bruised leg when his car collided at Wisconsin and Mason Thursday with one driven by Elaine M. Thoma, 19, route 1, Tigerton, who told police the sun was in her eyes.

When Sap Flows It's Sugarin'-Off Time

Indian Squaw's Mistake Brings Many Enjoyment of America's Maple Syrup

Discovery of maple syrup is credited to the mistake of an Indian woman. Her mistake, somewhere in the distant past, resulted in years of enjoyment for many.

The woman was cooking moose meat for her brave in some sweet water she had collected from a tree near the wigwam. As do many women, she forgot her meat as she did other chores.

When she remembered the meat, she feared it would be burned. Instead she found the meat done to a turn and the sweet water a delicious brown syrup. It was maple syrup from then on.

Farmers throughout Wisconsin and the Fox Cities area have their share of trees for tapping. One of the oldest established maple sugar operations in Outagamie county is owned by Harvey Blue, Dale.

Machine Tapped

All Seasons Maple camp, owned by Milton Thibaudeau, near Luxemburg, contains a 60-acre woodlot with 2,200 silvery buckets echoing the steady drip, drip of sap throughout the first weeks of spring.

Tapping of trees is done early by machine. A few years ago it was done with a brace, bit and manpower. The machine, carried on the back of a worker, drills a three-eighths inch hole 1 1/2 inches deep into the tree. Some trees are tapped in two or three places, depending upon the trunk size and branch structure.

A good maple tree has a low branch start. This causes the tree to give more sap to fill the branches.

The north side of the tree is never used because sap flows slower on that side. As the trees are tapped a tube is inserted and the sap starts dripping into a 12-quart bucket hanging just below. Each bucket has a cover.

The covers protect the pails from becoming filled with debris and from sap thirsty forest animals. A good run of sap is somewhere from 60 to 120 drops a minute. It depends to a great degree on the weather.

Days must be warm, nights cold. On a good day, 5,000 gallons of sap are collected at the All Seasons camp. About 30 gallons of sap are needed to make a gallon of syrup.

The buckets, shaped similar to a farmer's milking machine pail, are dumped into another type bucket. These are called stations. Sap is dumped into the stations and the stations dumped into a 200 gallon carrying tank.

The tank is hauled to a ramp at the processing plant and unloaded into a retaining tank. All sap is filtered as it flows into this tank.

At the filter point Thibaudeau tests the syrup content of the sap with a floating hydrometer. The test determines the cooking time.

Evaporator Room

Sap is piped from the retaining tanks to an evaporator in a nearby building. In this steam-filled room the sap is boiled down and maple syrup emerges.

The evaporators are divided into three portions, a series of corrugated and flat pans. The syrup flows from one section to the other. A boiling temperature is maintained.

After evaporation the syrup is drained off into cans. First it is filtered through a wool felt filter at boiling temperature. It won't filter if it is cool. The canning machine can handle 4,000 quarts of syrup an hour.

Badger Breeders Meet at Brant

Chilton — Russell Gasch was reelected director representing Calumet county on the board of Badger Breeders cooperative at the group's annual county meeting at Brant.

Delegates to the cooperative's state convention at Shawano Thursday are Leonard Schmidt, Sylvester Meehel, William Schneider, Hugo Salen, Herbert Schoen, Wilmer Greve, Anton Bruner, Milan Gasch, Allan Radmacher and Claude Gebhart. Alternates are Clarence Mueller, Herbert Jaekels and Gerald Schmidt.

Kenneth Wallen, general manager, listed the year's activities of the cooperative and told of its progress since 1941. During that first year, he said, 4,717 first service cows were handled by the organization. Last year, Badger Breeders handled 373,576 first service cows.

2,000 Acre Farm Land Project Set for Spring

Work on a 2,000-acre conservation project in the town of Kaukauna will begin over an area covering nine farms this spring.

The land is in the northeast corner of the town along County Trunk U and UU. Participating farmers are Henry Van Den Berg, Melvin Green, Si LeBergen, Richard Bowers, Clarence Marx, Richard Vander Heiden, William McDaniel, Donald McDaniel and H. G. Schuh.

Work will be conducted by the soil conservation service on surface drainage, including lowering road culverts to allow better water flow, terraces, strip cropping and some structures.

Besides the Kaukauna project, Vernon Geiger, SCS planner, has 18 waterways, terraces and diversions scheduled for summer work. Other jobs include 16 strip cropping projects, six structures, two drop inlets, two farm ponds, three land smoothing projects, 16 tile jobs and one group tile job.

Feeder Pig Clinic Set

Nine Counties to Take Part in Show at Seymour

Nine counties are scheduled to participate in the third annual feeder pig show and clinic at the Seymour fairgrounds April 8.

Each farmer entering the show has been asked to enter a pen of four feeder pigs.

An entry consists of four pigs from one litter in the 40 or 55 pound weight limit. Entries may be grade, crossbred or purebred.

All entries will be sold to the Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing co-op. The cooperative will feed out the pigs and obtain carcass and rate of gain information.

Program for the day-long session includes grading and judging of entries by Fred Giesler, University of Wisconsin specialist; individual grading and judging contest; junior and senior division; feeding and carcass information; a type conference and a carcass cut-out demonstration.

FAN VENTILATION

HEALTHY COWS MAINTAIN HIGH MILK PRODUCTION THE YEAR ROUND

. . . Increase profits

Fan ventilation brings in clean, fresh air and takes out the stale air filled with odors and moisture. Summer or winter — cows are more comfortable and contented . . . appetites are better and the spread of germs and diseases is minimized. When dairy herds stay healthy — milk production stays up . . . profits increase.

A ventilating fan keeps the barn dry — preserves equipment and reduces feed spoilage.

Why not install one in your barn soon!

Six Factors Vital to Herd

Milking, Feeding Among Practices of Good Management

Madison — Six key management factors can go a long way to increasing profit on a dairy herd.

These six are milking, feeding, disease and injury, calving interval, dry periods and production testing.

A dairy farmer can get economical increases in production with good milking techniques. The time a milking machine is on cows, stripping, vacuum levels and pulsation rates on the milking machine, cleanliness, regularity of milking and care of cows is important.

If the cow has good inheritance, give her every chance to produce by feeding concentrates and quality roughage.

The exact influence on production of disease and injury is unknown. It's very difficult to measure. Three key problems in Wisconsin appear to be sterility, udder injury and mastitis. Certainly it pays to do everything possible to control disease and injury.

Breeding for calving intervals of 12 to 13 months are recommended. Provide dry

Carton Firm Plans $2 Million Expansion

Premier Carton corporation, Chicago, is planning a $2 million expansion program, including construction periods of about eight weeks. Not much can be done in appraising production or influence of environment on production without accurate, current records.

Record service is now available to Wisconsin dairymen through electronic machine processing. It is quite possible that in the near future dairymen will be able to find out routinely the effect that environment has on herds when appraising records of cows and sires.

Capacity Crowd at Rural Life Service

Catholic Parish Has Blessing Of Seed, Soil, Farm Machines

Chilton — A crowd estimated at about 1,000 gathered Tuesday at St. Mary church here to attend Catholic Rural Life services.

Entitled "A Day of Christian Living," it was one of two such events in the Green Bay diocese on or near the feast of St. Isidore, patron of farmers. The northern section of the diocese attended similar services at St. Charles church, Lena.

Priest Speaks

A solemn high mass, dedicated to the patron of agriculture, opened services. The traditional blessing of seed and soil followed. Farmers brought small packets containing grains and soil and arranged them near the foot of the altar for blessing.

In the afternoon, the Rev. James Vizzard, S.J., Washington, D. C., widely-known farm economist for the organization, told the audience that the Green Bay diocese was considered the finest in the nation by the national headquarters of the rural life organization. This conclusion, he said, was based on its active participation in all phases of the national program and membership. Father Vizzard said Green Bay diocese had the second greatest Catholic Rural Life conference membership in the nation.

Purpose of the organization, he said, was to assist farm and rural families with problems peculiar to their profession. It was not set up to compete with other farm or religious organizations, according to Father Vizzard, but instead attempts to better the lot of the farmer by working through existing organizations.

Advocates Prayer

The conference advocates prayer, study and action, Father Vizzard said.

Father Vizzard also asked that farmers make themselves heard and take positive action toward solving farm problems.

Other speakers included the

Douglas Thoma Named Chairman of Holstein Exhibition at Oshkosh

Waupaca — Douglas Thoma, New London, has been named chairman of the Fox Valley Holstein Breeders association Black and White show July 19 at Oshkosh.

Entry and deadline plans were drawn by Thoma; Joe Walker, Waupaca county agent; Jack Stanchfield, association sales representative; Ken Peissig, Badger Breeders representative; and Oscar Long, Weyauwega, director of the Waupaca association.

DHIA Fieldman School To Open at Madison

A DHIA fieldman school will start Monday and run through Saturday at Madison.

Applications are available for anyone interested in attending. Classes start at 8 a. m. Monday. Registration fee is $5, and the dormitory cost is $1.50 per night. A parking fee of $1 will be charged for those with cars.

Rev. John G. Weber, executive secretary of the National Catholic Rural Life conference; Joseph Meisner, field secretary; the Rev. William Rickert, diocesan rural life director, and Mrs. C. A. Perkins, DePere, chairman of the diocesan women's committee on rural life.

Martin L. Salm, route 3, Chilton, a member of the organization's national advisory committee, served as discussion leader. The Rev. Henry Schmitt, pastor of the host church, delivered the welcome.

Don Armitage, Hortonville, former president of the Outagamie County Farm Bureau, has been appointed full-time organization fieldman for the Wisconsin Farm Bureau federation, Madison. He began work March 1 in eastern Wisconsin.

Several Fox Cities area farmers have been active in Farm Bureau activities. Appointed to the poultry section of the 1960 FB commodity committee are Nolan Marien, route 1, Seymour, and Herman Draheim, route 4, Chilton. Appointed to the fruit and vegetable committee was Emil Krueger, route 2, Kaukauna.

Willard Krueger, Brillion; Jesse Stumpf, route 1, Menasha; Karen Ver Voort, route 1, Kaukauna; JoAnn Geurts, route 2, Kaukauna; Ronald Marien, route 1, Seymour; Lois Sprangers, route 3, Kaukauna; Kathleen Hopfensperger, route 3, Kaukauna, and Rosalie and Lorraine Jochmann, route 4, Appleton, attended the fourth annual Farm Bureau young people's training school Saturday through Sunday at Green Lake. Theme of the session was to provide leadership, promote freedom and expand agriculture.

Melvin Bublotz, Louis Rank and Ralph Huebner received prizes for highest quality milk in the manufactured class. Henry G. Behnke, Sr., Reedsville, received a gold trophy for winning the manufactured class certificate five years straight.

Other quality awards went to Henry Busse, Reedsville; Bernard Rathke and Harvey Hafeman, Greenleaf; Ray Brandenberg, Morrison; Edward Schroeder, Collins; and Edwin Lau, Cato. Presentations were made by Carl Martens, fieldman for Lake to Lake, Brillion.

The number of farms in the United States declined about 2 per cent in 1959. The year ended with 4,640,900. A further decline to about 4,540,000 was forecast for 1960.

Wisconsin dropped from 150,000 farms in 1958 to 144,000 in 1959. The present number of farms is 32 per cent below the record peak of 6,812,000 in 1935. Farms, however, continue to gain in size.

Three 4-H Clubs To Enter District Music Festival

A marimba and piano trio from the Seymour 4-H club, a vocal trio from the Crystal Star 4-H club and a group chorus from the Busy Macks 4-H club were named as outstanding at the annual 4-H music festival at Hortonville High school.

Members of the marimba and piano trio were Cheryl Mueller, Maribeth Hartwig and Virginia Melchert. Mrs. Ernest Schuster was leader. Members of the Crystal Star Trio were Nancy Birkholz, Carla Decker, Nancy Sachs and Dennis Schultz, accompanist. The leader is Mrs. Elwyn Staley. Members of the Busy Macks chorus were Anne and Linda Siewert, Jean and Therese Nieuwenhuis, Jean and Joan Salm, Barbara and Cheryl Beyer, Donna Lanser, Suzanne Hawley and Mary McGuire. Mrs. Ervin Siewert is the leader.

These three groups will participate in the district music festival at Preble Monday. Other clubs that participated in the county music festival were the Spring Tones from the Spring Brook 4-H club, the Seymour 4-H Club double trio and the Chief Shiocton 4-H club band. James Kilgas, music instructor at Hortonville High school judged the event. Robert Paltzer, Jr., was the master of ceremonies.

Advantages of Forest

ing were listed as some of the advantages of a farm woodlot at a conservation demonstration here.

"To gain the maximum from a woodlot, take care of it and make it a profit venture," T. W. Blomquist, area forest management supervisor, Oshkosh, told farmers gathered in the Devil River watershed.

A woodlot provides income from cutting trees and clear water for cattle to drink, he said. A watershed or farm woodlot, because of its vegetation and water holding qualities, tends to keep the ground water table up.

R. J. Rensink, 4-H club agent in Manitowoc county, explained the dangers of grazing cattle in a woodlot.

Less Feed

There is less feed and cattle expend too much energy attempting to get what feed there is, he said. A farmer suffers loss of young trees, timber potential and sick cattle from poison plants.

Twenty plants common in a woodlot can affect dairy cattle, Rensink said. Some of them are fatal, others cause sickness. Acorns make a cow dry up. Bracken fern and jack in the pulpit were among a few of the harmful plants, he said.

There are 275 pounds of dry forage per acre in a woodland, Rensink said. This forage averages 8 per cent protein.

A renovated pasture averages 4,000 to 6,000 pounds of forage per acre with 14 per cent protein, he noted.

Post-Crescent Photo

Outagamie County Forester Ron Herman demonstrates use of tree measuring stick to a Manitowoc county farmer in the Devil River watershed near Maribel. The number of board feet of lumber in a tree can be figured from the stick. A white line near the base of the tree is a girdle mark. It stops flow of sap and the tree dies.

Seed Catalogue May Carry Poor Varieties

Waupaca — The vegetables which look the best in the seed catalogues may grow the worst on your land, cautions Joe L. Walker, Waupaca county agent.

He advises gardeners to stop at the extension office and pick up the 1960 vegetable variety bulletin which tells what varieties do best for this area.

Postpone Plan For Grading Dairy Heifers

Legislator From Brown County Proposed System

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — A Brown county farmer-legislator's plan for a new state dairy heifer grading and classification system will be postponed pending an effort by cattle producers to work out a voluntary system.

The new plan, unique in this country, has been brought forward by Assemblyman VanderPerren of Brown county, a dairyman in private life. The legislature had approved it. Some of the livestock marketing groups and farmers breed associations objected that it would be administratively difficult.

The legislature then enacted another law putting off the effective date of the grading act until mid-1961, and Gov. Nelson asked the state department of agriculture to encourage the development of a voluntary heifer classification program.

Protect Buyer

Objective of the grading system — under which calves would be tagged or branded according to their breed quality — would be the protection of the farm buyer within Wisconsin and outside the state. Most of the 2,500,000 annual Wisconsin calf crop is sold for veal. But about 625,000 calves annually are retained by Wisconsin farmers from their own or neighborhood herds for herd replacement and about 41,000 annually are sold to farmers in other parts of the country and in foreign countries.

The identification of high

quality calves can improve farmers from their calf crop, the income of Wisconsin some officials believe.

FARMERS, ask yourself: How much money would I lose if 10 of my best cows were electrocuted in the barn tonight? Do I have theft coverage on my machinery? Is my grain in swaths and shocks covered? Don't risk being underinsured. Farmers Mutuals has a Catastrophe loss reserve and an unassigned surplus of $2,297,101.97. Insure with the leader. Clip out this ad and place with your policy.

No Education For Farmers Called Error

Better Practices Found in Men Who Take Some Courses

It would be a mistake for agriculture if we did away with educational farm programs which teach boys how to farm better.

University of Wisconsin rural sociologists Alan Estepcent, or college of agricul- and Murray Straus say farm- ers who have at some time agricultural education pro- grams are more likely to take up improved farm practices than those who have never had such training.

Other Life

They base their conclusion on interviews with 742 farm operators in 10 Wisconsin counties. Roughly half of these farmers had participated in some form of agricultural education — high school vocational agriculture, 23 per cent 4-H club work, 25 per cent, veterans' on-the-farm training, 22 per cent, university farm short course, 4 per cent, or college of agricul- ture, 2 per cent. Some farm- ers had participated in more than one of these activities.

Estep and Straus admit many farm youths do not and cannot go into farming as a vocation. Better opportunities for a good life will often be found by moving to towns and cities. Thus it would be a mistake to train all rural youths in farming; many of them do not need to develop farming techniques, but do need to learn other things, such as industrial trades or commercial skills.

But since technological skill is badly needed for efficient farming these days, it would also be a mistake to do away with the agricultural education programs. The modern farmer who desires a satisfactory income must want to take up improved farming practices and also must have the skills needed to put these practices to work on his farm.

This is the challenge faced by educators in rural communities. They must develop programs that are suitable for both farm youth who plan to continue in farming, and for those who will never farm.

Critical Appraisal

To study the effect of the programs on improved farm practice adoptions, the sociologists first decided whether each farmer rated "high", "medium", or "low" in his past participation in farm training programs. Then they asked each farmer whether he had taken up any of 18 farm practices which are recognized as improvements over conventional ways of farming. These practices include such things as using balers and choppers, using chemicals for weed control, vaccinating calves, heat farrowing for pigs, strip cropping and the like.

Farmers who had been in the agricultural education programs had taken up more of these farm practices than the others had. This was even true when other factors favoring practice adoption were the same.

Thus, the influence of agricultural education seems to be a real one — not merely a reflection of better general education, more income, larger farms, ownership differences, organization participation or farming experience.

Friday, March 25, 1960 Appleton Post-Crescent 12

The entire agricultural education program is undergoing some critical appraisal right now, the research men say.

This research shows that the programs are effective in at least one important respect — the educational programs help prepare a man to accept and use new and improved farming practices.

County 4-H DRAMA FESTIVAL

Shiocton High School

Thursday, March 31st

Starting At 7:30 P.M.

Be Sure To Attend! Everyone Invited

Four-H members of the Spring Brook, Grandview, Busy Macks, Log Cabin Pioneers, Busy Badgers and Golden Rule clubs will present their one-act plays at Shiocton High school the evening of March 31. The club selected as presenting the outstanding play will appear at a District Drama program at New London on April 26 and will compete against one-act plays presented by 4-H clubs in Waupaca and Waushara counties.

Drama productions gives the opportunity to 4-H members to satisfy the urge to live the life of someone else for the moment — to walk in his shoes, or play his role. The one-act play is an ideal form of expression with specific characters to portray, lives to interpret, properties to handle and make-up to change physical appearance.

Everyone is invited to attend the presentation of the plays at the Country Drama Festival.

Future Egg Factories May Be Near Large City Center

There is a possibility eggs move the eggs to the consumer in the future will be produced in huge factories, each with several hundred thousand hens, located on the fringes of large metropolitan centers.

But there are three factors which can keep chickens on diversified midwestern farms for some time.

Probably the most important of these factors is the source of grain. Midwestern farms have economical and convenient supplies of grain. It will continue to be easier to move the eggs to the consumer in the city, rather than the grain to the chicken in the city.

Low Cost Labor

Second, low cost labor is available to take care of the chickens on farms.

Third, is the definite possibility of improved methods for getting high quality eggs from the farm to the city.

The current statistics do not show a trend for moving egg production closer to cities.

efficient farm flock is already a relic of the past. However, there are many farm flocks with more than 300 hens. Somewhere above this figure of 300 is a minimum size for efficient operation.

Feed Hauling

During recent periods of very low egg prices, there seemed to be even more distress in the commercial egg producing areas near population centers than among owners of farm flocks in the Midwest. Part of this may have been the expense of hauling in feed, and, incidentally hauling out the litter. Add to this the cost of labor. Even a fairly large farm poultry operation, properly mechanized, can be carried on by family labor.

New developments in technology may also favor the farm flock. For example, future improvements in feed formulation will lower costs of protein and vitamin supplements and make grain proportionately even more important in poultry feed as a cost factor. This will increase the relative advantage of those flock owners that can provide grain most economically.

New Method

There is a possibility that a method will be developed for processing eggs at country points to maintain their eating quality literally farm fresh. There's no compelling reason why eggs must be transported, handled and sold in the shell when everything else comes in tin cans, plastic cartons, squeeze tubes, spray cans or zip-top boxes.

The advantages inherent in diversified midwestern farms will not in themselves keep poultry on those farms. Poultrymen will have to make the

5 High Schools to Join Conservation Class

Some 360 students from Hortonville, Shiocton, Freedom, Seymour and Bear Creek High school vocational agriculture courses will take part in the first annual 2-day conservation workshop this fall.

Classes will be divided into two sections. Seymour and Freedom will go the first day, Hortonville, Shiocton and Bear Creek the second day. Vernon Geiger, Outagamie county soil conservationist, said classes will be divided into four groups. Courses now planned are wildlife for freshmen, forestry for sophomores, farm management and conservation practices for juniors and land judging and soil study for seniors.

most of these advantages and of every technological improvement that comes along.

Trout Creek Work Cited

Association Told Conservation There Fine Example

Iola — The Trout Creek Watershed association heard its conservation project described as an ideal example of good conservation practices by speakers at its annual meeting.

Guest speaker was Prof. Clyde Hibbs, of the conservation department at Stevens Point State college. He spoke on recently revised curriculum in the conservation department. The school hopes to use the Trout creek watershed to demonstrate to classes how a watershed works. Trout creek is ideal, he said, because it incorporates all phases of conservation. Three ingredients necessary for a good watershed are local initiative, good cooperation between participants and assisting agencies and adoption of good practices, he said.

Harold Steinke, game manager, reported on plans to place pheasants in the area each year, beginning with nesting stock this April.

Robert Heding, watershed manager, reported on work of the past year.

Waupaca County Agent Joe Walker praised the association for a good job.

A sign marking the area will be made and erected by vocational agriculture students at the Iola High school.

Plant Studies Make Professor Beachcomber

Joanathan Sauer Made Visits to 80 Remote Coasts

Madison —A— Jonathan Sauer is a University of Wisconsin professor whose plant migration studies have made him a part time beachcomber.

Studies Sponsored

Visits to 80 remote coasts have brought none of the treasurers often associated with beachcombing. But Sauer feels his efforts have been rewarded with a collection of such botanical specimens as castor beans, indigo, periwinkle and watermelon.

Those are some of the plant varieties Sauer found in these plants to spread around beach areas located just above the reach of the tides. He calls the shoreline stretch "an uninhabitable desert for ordinary land vegetation."

Sauer's studies are sponsored by the geography branch of the office of naval research. He calls the two summers of beachcombing put in as a part of the study "a small opening wedge" in the understanding of plant distribution, environment and migration.

Long-Lived Seeds

Sauer studied coastal vegetation because he found the desert-like environment constantly changing under the force of wind and tide.

He learned that most beach plants have buoyant seeds or fruits that remain alive for weeks, months or years while being carried by ocean currents.

The long-lived seeds allow

botanical treasurer of his effort is a total of 800 museum specimens he collected in the Caribbean.

His most remote visit took him to the island of Mauritius, a British colony some 500 miles east of Madagascar in the Indian ocean.
